TRUSTEES FIGHT PLAN TO SHUT DOWN SCHOOLS

Call Strayer Scheme a Calamity.

BY OSCAR HEWITT.

Some of the school trustees criticized and others commended the survey of the public schools by Dr. George D. Strayer and his staff from Columbia university at the school board meeting yesterday. They were discussing a resolution of Trustee William D. McJunkin which was defeated by a vote of 6 to 3. The resolution asked Dr. Strayer what educational facilities should be provided if the board must trim its expenditures 10, 20, 30, or 40 million dollars.

"If we do not get that advice," said McJunkin, "I will feel like the man who has bought a gold brick. If we cannot get that advice, I would favor not paying the last $25,000 installment of the $100,000 compensation for the survey.

"Dr. Strayer's recommendation that we close the schools to force the property owners to pay their taxes would be the greatest calamity, if we followed it, that could befall the city. Closing the schools is all bosh. But we must save many millions, so why dodge the issue.

Says Board Must Dig In.

"If we wiped out all of the business offices, the saving would be only $3,000,000. We will have to dig into the $42,000,000 set aside from the educational fund."

President Lewis E. Myers and Trustees Joseph P. Savage, Robert F. Carr, and Ernest Buehler also voiced rejection of Dr. Strayer's plea to close the schools to make the property owners pay their taxes. Trustee H. Wallace Caldwell said, however, that he preferred to "shut the doors rather than wreck the school system."

Closing the schools, according to the advice given the trustees by School Attorney Thomas V. Sullivan, will not relieve the system from paying the teachers for nine months.

"The state Supreme court has so decided in a number of cases," said Mr. Sullivan. "The board would be liable for the teachers' salaries even if the schools were closed."

Mrs. Hefferan Praises Report.

Trustee Helen Hefferan commended the preliminary report of the survey as "highly intelligent and comprehensive" and begged the other trustees not to discuss it before they had received the 10 volumes containing the complete report.

Trustee Savage was another who commended the survey, although he, President Myers, and Trustee James A. Hemingway said that it did not point out much saving.

"While it suggests economies of less than $3,000,000——" began Trustee Savage.

"Only $1,600,000 for this year," interrupted President Myers.

"The $100,000 for the report was well spent," resumed Savage. "It shows the people that we adopted a good budget in which we saved 18 million dollars. Dr. Strayer found less than 3 million dollars more to save."

Dr. Strayer's Recommendations.

Dr. Strayer has recommended to the trustees a cut of $3,846,419 in the operating costs on a yearly basis, and the nonexpenditure of $11,757,086 for new buildings and sites, an aggregate of $15,603,505. Several trustees argue that since half of the school year has passed, the proposed reduction in operating costs could not be nearly as much as $3,846,000 for 1932.

"The public should be told," continued Mr. Savage, "that the board cannot, if it would, save 15 million dollars. The $11,757,000 appropriated for new buildings is for buildings under construction. They are obligations and we must appropriate for them and levy taxes accordingly. Some of the aldermen have been telling the public we will have to save 15 million dollars to 25 million dollars. If they would be more attentive to their duties they would aid in saving money.

"You know and I know the board will not close the schools. If we must save 20 or 30 million, it must be done in one of two ways. We must either reduce the type of education we supply or cut the teachers' salaries."

Criticism from Hemingway.

Trustee Hemingway said that Dr. Strayer had not pointed out much saving.

"Unless," he added, "we follow his advice and repudiate our obligations under building contracts."

"I do not see much use in asking Dr. Strayer for any more advice," commented Trustee Buehler. "We have been urged to wait and read Dr. Strayer's ten volumes, but who could

DIVORCEE WINS $6,500 VERDICT FROM A ROMEO

Jury Orders Return of Love Profits.

BY KATHLEEN McLAUGHLIN.

That $4,500 mortgage on Motorman Albert Gregory's house in Wheaton, paid off in 1926 with the $5,000 his wife scared out of a young Elmhurst divorcée, came bouncing back home yesterday with approximately $1,500 in interest charges added. A jury of eleven benedicks and one bachelor in the Circuit court at Wheaton gave the dimpled plaintiff, Mrs. Jessie Erickson, a verdict of $5,000 and interest in her suit against the Gregorys. Little more than an hour was required to reach a verdict.

JUDGE F. W. SHEPHERD.

Motorman Gregory, who had testified he permitted the pretty plaintiff to lead him from the straight and narrow path, was not in Judge Frank W. Shepherd's courtroom to hear the verdict read. Nor was he there earlier in the day when Attorney Glenn T. Johnson, in summing up the case, referred to him as "this gigolo in overalls."

Flees from Photographers.

However, his militant spouse, Grace Gregory, who discovered her mate's floral romance, was in the court and her actions added an anti-climax to the scene. Bolting from the courtroom, she fled down the street with a brace of newspaper photographers in full pursuit, coat tails flapping and cameras in hand, begging her to stop and pose. A number of townsfolk brought up the rear.

Reaching the sanctuary of her automobile, Mrs. Gregory crouched in the seat, hiding her face. The camera men, reaching for their handkerchiefs to help dry her tears, were disconcerted when she eventually lifted her head and revealed herself laughing heartily. The episode ended with pursued and pursuers riding away in state from the throng that had gathered, to make their pictures in peace.

Brother Is Absolved.

Big and bluff Tom Gregory, who talked in explosive sentences and quite apparently convinced the veniremen that he considered the whole matter a pretty silly affair, was absolved by Johnson before the jury retired. He was named as a co-defendant because of his residence with his brother, Albert, and his sister-in-law in 1926, when, as he phrased it, "Hell started popping." He is a war veteran, one of the survivors of the Princess Pat regiment, and a town favorite.

J. S. Woodward, representing the Gregorys, made a motion for a new trial, in the absence of their chief counsel, Charles W. Hadley. Judge Shepherd set no date on which to hear the arguments.

Hadley was kept busy during the morning session of the court, popping to his feet with outraged objections to the phraseology and assertions of the attorneys for the plaintiff, Johnson and W. C. O'Brien.

$5,000 Is Only Issue.

"There is only one issue here, gentlemen of the jury," Johnson informed the men in the box. "That is, whether these people have $5,000 which in equity and in good conscience they should not have. I don't blame Mr. Hadley for not presenting any defense for Albert Gregory—this gigolo in overalls, who lifted the mortgage from his own home and placed it on that of Mrs. Erickson.

"The flowers that bloom in the spring—tra la—have nothing to do with this case—tra la."

There was an involuntary outburst from the packed courtroom, which drew a reproval from the bench. Hadley, much annoyed, objected and asked that the record show that there had been such a demonstration from the audience. Judge Shepherd denied the request and Hadley objected again. Johnson proceeded.

Recalls Threats.

"What Albert Gregory and Mrs. Erickson did, gentlemen, has no bearing in this case. The fact to remember is that this $5,000 was secured from Mrs. Erickson by threats, by duress, by the statement of Mrs. Gregory that she could shoot pretty

BOY'S WRITING ON FENCE MAY SOLVE KILLING

A schoolboy's ingenuity in recording an automobile license number, police said last night, may supply a clew to the two bandits who early in the day, shot and killed Wilfred J. Hanamann, 6216 Newmark avenue, a driver for the Bowman Dairy company.

Hanamann, 23 years old, was held up by the robbers in the rear of 3437 Janssen avenue. When he resisted, one of the men shot him in the chest. Hanamann staggered into the home of Mrs. Samuel Kempf, who had witnessed the shooting, and died.

The killers fled to their automobile parked in front of the Kempf home, and sped away. Half a dozen children who were on their way to the Hamilton school, 1650 Cornelia avenue, saw them escape. One of the children, a boy, noted the license plate and wrote down the number on a wooden fence. The police traced the number to a south side address. The car for which the license had been issued had not been reported stolen, police said. They were hunting the owner last night.

Two Members of House Agree Only Too Well

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 11.—[Special.]—The house of representatives was regaled today with the disclosure that two of its members had, through some mysterious phenomenon, delivered the same speech on the floor of the house and inserted it into the Record, each as his own.

It was Representative Clifton R. Woodrum [Dem., Va.] who brought the matter up not only in defense of the literary integrity of the Record, but as revenge for derogatory remarks made in reference to himself by Representative James P. Buchanan [Dem., Tex.] because he opposed a farm board appropriation.

Buchanan Duplicates La Guardia.

Representative Buchanan was one of the members who made the popular speech. Representative F. H. La Guardia [Rep., N. Y.] was the other.

Representative La Guardia, whose speech was made first, had said in one paragraph, "Maybe I am unique in looking beyond my nose and unrolling the curtain of the future and seeing out yonder in the not distant future to the day when organized consumers in great centers like New York and Chicago will be grasping the hands of organized producers throughout the land."

Representative Buchanan, whose speech was inserted in the Record on the following day, said the same thing, word for word. Other paragraphs also were identical.

Speakers Need Protection.

"Seriously, gentlemen," said Mr. Woodrum, "something ought to be done about this. It has become so that it is dangerous for a member to go out in the open and buy a good speech, read it, and in his mind's eye picture how his constituents will thrill with ecstasy and pride when they see their congressman has so ably risen to the heights of logic in defense of their interests when on the next page the constituents may pick up the same speech by another member."

And Mr. Woodrum hoped, as the house roared with laughter, "that our friends who have waxed so eloquent, when election time comes, will not be out somewhere in Texas and New York hollering, 'Help me, Cassius, or I sink.'"

German Ship Goes Aground; Fight to Rescue Crew

LISBON, Portugal, May 11.—(AP)—The 1,200 ton German steamer Gauss went aground tonight at the mouth of the Douro river near Oporto in a stormy sea. Rescuers shot a line to the ship from the shore in the hope of saving the crew of between 25 and 40. It was reported one of the crew had already lost his life.

AMBASSADOR MELLON APPEARS AT COURT IN PLAIN LONG PANTS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 11. — Ambassador Andrew W. Mellon made his first appearance in court at Buckingham palace this evening as plain Mr. Mellon. In other words, he went wearing a pair of trousers reaching to his shoes.

Instead of the knee breeches worn by such predecessors as George Harvey and Frank B. Kellogg, Mellon stuck to Charles G. Dawes' precedent. He encased his shins in a pair of ordinary pants suitable for conventional evening wear. Mellon was accompanied by his daughter and son-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. David K. E. Bruce.

THE TRIBUNE was informed tonight that no preparation had been made at the American embassy for the arrival of Mrs. Mellon, who is expected in England Sunday. Rumors of a reconciliation seemingly were squelched by the insistence of informed quarters that nothing has been done to indicate that she is expected at the embassy. Mrs. Bruce supposedly is the official hostess. The Mellons were divorced in 1912.

MANATEE DIES AFTER 9 DAYS IN SHEDD AQUARIUM

The 636 pound manatee, rare water mammal which was brought from Florida and installed in the Shedd aquarium on May 2, died in its tank yesterday. Change of climate and conditions was believed by aquarium officials to have caused its death.

The animal had lost several hundred pounds since its capture by harpooning in Florida waters last October. Another manatee died at the aquarium last year.

Efforts to keep the manantee alive in captivity have met with uniform failures and the longest life in captivity of one of the creatures is said to have been sixteen months. A manatee lives on the bed of river or lake and feeds upon eel grass. The species is rapidly disappearing.

HOUSE CARRIED OFF, WRECKED BY WATERSPOUT

Sandusky, O., May 11.—(AP)—A waterspout which came in from Lake Erie picked up a cottage east of Huron, O., today and carried it half a mile over the lake, according to its owner, Robert Breckenridge of Sandusky.

He said the cottage, situated on a point jutting out into the lake, was carried to Cheska Beach, another projecting point, where it was dropped and wrecked. No one was in the cottage.

Several years ago a number of waterspouts were seen off Put-in-Bay in Lake Erie, but did no damage.

Youth Clings to Line 2 Hrs.; Pulled Aboard

Camp Kearny, San Diego, Cal., May 11.—(AP)—The world's largest airship—the navy's Akron—was lashed to its mooring mast here at 8:50 tonight after a tragic drama of the skies. On an earlier attempt to land two sailors of the mooring crew were dashed to death and a third, Bud Cowart, 19 years old, was carried two hours dangling on a 300 foot rope from the airship.

Ten thousand persons saw the two men fall as the airship surged upward after it had appeared for a time the big ship had been safely snubbed to its mast. Cowart swung precariously half a mile over their heads.

Then he was rescued, hauled into a hatch of the big ship. A message dropped from the big bag.

"Cowart safe," it read.

Crowds Gives Sigh of Relief.

A vast sigh of relief went up.

"Fifty air accidents have I seen, but none that chilled the heart like this," said Joe Van Dusen, aircraft veteran.

The tear stained faces of navy and marine veterans who wore ribbons testified to this.

The climax to the westward crossing of the Akron, which left Lakehurst, N. J., early Sunday on its first transcontinental trip, came during efforts to make an emergency mooring at Camp Kearney after an aerial voyage fraught with storms.

Several attempts to bring the great skyliner down had been made by a ground crew when upward currents caught the great ship.

Two Fall to Death.

Robert Edsall, South Bend, Ind., and Nigel Henton, Fresno, Cal., and Cowart clung to the landing line to the horror of the watching throng as the Akron surged upward. Edsall and Henton lost their grip and fell to death, but Cowart clung on.

Upward the great ship swept with Cowart dangling on the line 300 feet below the dirigible. A height of 2,000 feet was reached but Cowart maintained his precarious grip. Through bumpy air the Akron sailed, but Cowart clung on.

"Will try to land man on tail rope," was the crisp message Commander C. E. Rosendahl dropped to the ground.

Cowart at that time had been hanging to the rope for more than an hour. He held on with a "wooden hand" used by members of the ground crew to grip the landing cables. He also had a foothold on the line.

Pulled Towards Cockpit.

The Akron cruised through bumpy air, rocking up and down. Then it was noted that the distance between Cowart and the Akron began slowly to diminish. A thrill swept the crowd as it was realized efforts were being made to pull him through a cockpit.

There was no winch on the rope. It was slow work hoisting Cowart up by hand. At last he was dragged through a cockpit and a mighty cheer burst from ten thousand throats far below.

One of the first things that Cowart said was:

"I'm hungry."

He was promptly fed.

ACCUSED BANKER BURNED BY ACID; HOW IS MYSTERY

Fillmore street police began an investigation last night to determine how Clemens K. Shapiro, ex-banker, received acid burns on his body which have confined him in the Frances Willard hospital.

He formerly was vice president of the Division State bank, 2601 Division street. Two days ago the grand jury was reported to have named him and two others in true bills for conspiracy to embezzle. At that time it was stated that he was in the hospital and it was reported that he had taken poison.

It was learned last night, however, that Shapiro had been burned with nitric acid instead of being poisoned. Detectives questioned him, but he refused to explain the circumstances surrounding the burns. According to an unconfirmed report a young woman threw the acid on him.

D. E. SHANAHAN, VETERAN HOUSE SPEAKER, IS ILL

David E. Shanahan, veteran speaker of the Illinois house of representatives, has been ill at his home, 2722 Throop street, for about a week, it was learned last night.

At the residence it was said the speaker is suffering from a bronchial ailment that requires complete rest as a part of the treatment. It is marked by a severe cough and his physician has ordered him to remain in bed until the cough disappears.

He may be able to be out by the end of the week, particularly if the weather turns warmer, with less humidity, it was believed last night.

BI-PARTY BOARD ON ECONOMY AT WORK ON TRIMS

Senate Gets Bill to Raise a Billion.

Hoover's veto of "Democratic tariff bill" upheld in house when measure fails to get two-thirds majority.

Senator Robinson submits plan to sell two billions three hundred millions in bonds for unemployment relief. Hoover considers similar program.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 11.—[Special.]—Federal savings and federal taxes, as embodied in the newly revivified economy bill and the new billion dollar revenue bill started a simultaneous march in the senate today—their goal, the balancing of the budget by the end of the fiscal year 1933.

The special bipartisan senate economy committee began its work with instructions from President Hoover that government expenditures this year must be cut 350 millions below the budget which Mr. Hoover submitted to congress last December.

Members of the committee—Senators Jones [Rep., Wash.], Bingham [Rep., Conn.], Dickinson [Rep., Ia.], McKellar [Dem., Tenn.], Bratton [Dem., N. M.], and Byrnes [Dem., S. C.]—breakfasted with the President this morning.

Over their poached eggs and coffee various features of the proposed economy program were discussed.

Set 300 Million Goal.

Secretary of the Treasury Mills and Budget Director Roop were at the breakfast to join in the conference on how much can be saved through pay cuts and consolidations in the economy bill, and how much must be sliced from the various appropriation bills.

The total savings to be realized from both sources, President Hoover told the senators, should not be less than 350 millions. Secretary Mills later set the figure at "300 millions or more."

Returning to the capitol, the committee got down to work. They took as the basis of their discussion the omnibus economy bill which the house whittled down from a measure estimated to carry 200 millions of savings to one carrying only some 30 millions. Members of the house committee which prepared the original economy bill attended the meeting and contributed their advice and experience.

Withhold Report on Progress.

Various features of the bill were tentatively agreed on, but the committee members declined to disclose which ones. Some of the provisions stricken out by the house are to be put back in, but on this question, too, the senators were silent.

They explained that they had agreed to announce the bill as a whole rather than report their actions piecemeal. As one member expressed it, items announced individually would be "sniped to death" before they ever reached the senate floor.

Budget Director Roop is to appear before the committee tomorrow morning.

Tax Bill Reported Out.

As the economy committee got under way the groundwork for the beginning of senate debate on the new revenue bill was laid when Senator Reed Smoot [Rep., Utah], finance committee chairman, handed in the committee's report on the billion dollar tax measure.

As reported, the bill carries $1,009,500,000. If the estimates are realized, $231,500,000 would have to be made up by cutting expenditures in order to meet the expected deficit of $1,241,000,000 on June 30, 1933. With the bill scarcely on the floor, however, a projected cut was decided on at a last minute meeting of the finance committee. It was agreed to introduce a committee amendment to strike out the projected 5 cents a pound tax on imported rubber, with its expected revenue of $55,000,000, and substitute a tax of 5 cents a pound on rubber used in tires and of 3 cents a pound on rubber used in inner tubes.

The substitute would yield an estimated $40,000,000. Its adoption, therefore, would mean cutting the bill's total revenue to $398,500,000 and increasing the required savings to $344,500,000.

With the tax bill before it the senate prepared for the inevitable fight. One of these was forecast by Senator David I. Walsh [Dem., Mass.], who announced that he will submit a minority report attacking the tariffs on oil, coal, lumber, and copper which the bill carries. He will be joined by the Democratic members of the finance committee, with the exception of Senators Connally [Dem., Tex.] and Gore [Dem., Okla.], whose pet is the oil tariff; King [Dem., Utah], friend of copper, and Barkley [Dem., Ky.], whose interest is coal.

The tariff debate will vie in vehemence with the controversy over the effort to restore a manufacturers' sales tax to the bill and the attempt the radicals will make to raise the income, estate, and gift taxes still higher.

It was expected that the revenue bill would be taken up tomorrow, but slow progress on the Glass banking bill, which is now under debate, is likely to push the tax bill over to Friday.

Balanced Budget Is Aim.

As the starting point for its 58 page discussion of the revenue bill, the finance committee's report emphasized the necessity of seeing that the balancing of the budget actually was achieved.

Pointing out that the 1931 deficit was $903,000,000, and that the deficit for the current fiscal year passed the $2,300,000,000 mark before the end of April, the report stressed the fact that the public debt will have increased from $16,185,000,000 to more than $19,000,000,000 by next June 30.

"It has been suggested," said the report, "that no effort should be made to balance the budget in one year, that the process of balancing the budget should be extended over a period of years, and that the intervening deficits should be met by borrowing.

Three Year Program.

"Although frequently misunderstood this is substantially the policy adopted by the house of representatives and approved by your committee. Last year's deficit has been or will be met by borrowing. With a deficit of $1,738,000,000 [including statutory debt retirements] in prospect for 1933 and a further large deficit for 1934, it is clear that immediate provision must be made for additional revenue. We would, by this bill, bring our budget back into balance in the third year—that is, in 1933—and even then without covering requirements for statutory debt retirements in the amount of $497,000,000.

"Not until 1934 will our government, notwithstanding the extraordinary revenue increases carried in the pending bill, obtain adequate revenues to meet current expenditures and also the requirements of the sinking fund."

Bill Is Summarized.

Then the more important features of the bill were summarized as follows:

1. The bill will raise additional revenue, through changes in the income tax rates and administrative provisions, in the amount of $287,000,000 for the fiscal year 1933.

2. The normal tax rates, applicable to individuals, are increased to 3 per cent on the first $4,000, 6 per cent on the second $4,000, and 9 per cent on the balance of net income in excess of the exemptions. The exemptions have been reduced to $1,000 in the case of a single person and $2,500 in the case of a married person.

[3]. Surtaxes begin at 1 per cent on net income in excess of $6,000 and increase to 45 per cent on net income in excess of $1,000,000.

[4]. The corporate rate is increased from 12 to 14 per cent, and the existing exemption for small corporations is eliminated.

Dividend Tax Eliminated.

[5]. The imposition of the normal tax upon corporate dividends, contained in the house bill, is eliminated.

[6]. Adequate protection to the revenues against security losses is afforded and the severity of the provisions of the house bill is mitigated.

[7]. The increased estate tax rates and the gift tax proposed by the house bill are retained.

[8]. Duties are imposed upon the importation of oil, coal, lumber, copper, and rubber.

Some Excises Eliminated.

[10]. Many of the excise taxes contained in the house bill have been eliminated, such as the proposed tax on toilet preparations, furs, jewelry, yachts, and motor boats, mechanical refrigerators, sporting goods and cameras, firearms and shells, matches, candy, and soft drinks.

[11]. The bill will raise $280,000,000 through miscellaneous taxes upon telephone and telegraph messages, admissions, the issue or transfer of bonds or capital stock, conveyances, oil transported by pipe lines, and checks.

[12]. Increases in first and second class postal rates and other pending postal legislation will raise $160,000,000, which should be sufficient to make the postal service self-supporting.

PERU EXECUTES 8 NAVY MUTINEERS; 26 GO TO PRISON

[Copyright: 1932: By the New York Times.]

LIMA, Peru, May 11.—Eight sailors, accused of being the ring leaders in Saturday's mutiny on the cruisers Almisante Bolognesi and Caronel, were convicted by a court martial today and executed by a firing squad shortly afterward. Fourteen sailors were sentenced to 15 years' imprisonment and twelve were sentenced to 10 years. Three were acquitted. The court martial recommended a trial for the leaders of the Apra party [Popularists] on a charge of inciting the rebellion. The authorities claim that an investigation shows that the mutiny was part of a scheme for a widespread communist uprising, that it was fomented and financed by a soviet committee in Montevideo and that it failed because the arrest Friday of Señor Torre, one of the leaders, precipitated the premature and isolated action in the navy.

Sailors testified at the court martial that they were assured of coöperation by the army and police on shore and they feel they were betrayed when this coöperation failed to materialize.

The police have arrested 100 agitators, belonging either to the communist Labor party or the Apra party.

ROBINSON FILES U. S. JOB RELIEF BOND PROPOSAL

Similar Plans Are Urged on Hoover.

BY ARTHUR SEARS HENNING.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 11.—[Special.]—A vast program of federal unemployment relief was formally submitted to the senate today by Senator Joseph T. Robinson of Arkansas, the Democratic leader. What added to the importance of his action was the knowledge by Republican and Democratic leaders that the Hoover administration has the subject of legislation along this line under consideration.

JOSEPH T. ROBINSON.

The Robinson project comprises the following two undertakings:

1. The federal government to raise by sale of bonds 300 millions of dollars to be loaned to states and municipalities for relief of the unemployed.

2. The federal government to issue two billions of tax exempt bonds, the proceeds of the sale of which would be "spent upon self-liquidating or profit making enterprises, such as tunnels, bridges, and the destruction of slum districts in great industrial centers."

Based on Balanced Finances.

Senator Robinson said his proposals are based upon the assumption that the federal budget is to be brought into "approximate balance" by action at this session of congress and "into complete balance" next year. With that done, he said, there will be no need of inflation of the currency, the fear of which "chills the heart of our people," money "will flow here out of retreat from all parts of the world and out of hiding into business from all parts of the country, buying will be resumed" and the depression will be over.

For several days the President has been studying various proposals for federal aid to the state and municipal programs of unemployment relief. He has discussed the matter several times with Gen. Charles G. Dawes, president of the Reconstruction Finance corporation, and Secretary of the Treasury Ogden L. Mills, who were closeted with Mr. Hoover again today following the Robinson speech.

Hoover Dreads Dole.

The President is represented as being no less opposed to a federal dole than when the federal unemployment relief proposals were last under consideration in the senate. Members of the cabinet who believe that it will be necessary for the central government to give some sort of assistance to states and municipalities that have reached the end of their own resources for relief have urged the President to approve the project of federal loans, asserting that this plan would not partake of the character of a federal dole.

The project now under consideration has been urged upon the administration by capital as well as labor. One of those interested in promoting legislation for a federal relief loan is Silas Strawn of Chicago, president of the United States chamber of commerce. There has been similar activity on the part of William Green, president of the American Federation of Labor. New York Republican leaders have brought their influence to bear on the administration to sponsor relief legislation because of the exhaustion of the resources so far provided for the alleviation of destitution in New York City.

Plan Considered by Hoover.

One of the plans under administration consideration is an amendment of the act creating the Reconstruction Finance corporation authorizing that body to loan from its 2 billions of resources 300 millions to states and municipalities.

Some Republicans gave vent to the suspicion that Senator Robinson, knowing action of this character was being considered at the White House, set out to anticipate administration action and thereby gain credit for the Democrats for initiating the move. Whether Mr. Hoover will approve or disapprove the proposals now before him no administration official would attempt to predict and in the absence of any indication of the President's attitude Republican leaders in the senate were chary of taking a stand.

The Democratic side of the chamber is divided on the question. Some Democrats went so far as to suggest that the Robinson speech was a political feeler put out by the Arkansas senator in pursuance of a revived hope that he may have a chance for the Democratic nomination for President, after all, now that Roosevelt appears to be slipping.

In addition to his relief plan Senator Robinson presented other proposals smacking of the flavor of planks in a campaign platform. He suggested the 30 hour week, "the application of the equalization fee to wheat as a test as to whether it is practicable to make tariff rates effective as to agricultural products," and modification of the Reconstruction Finance corporation act to permit loans to farm loan associations.

Senator Robinson suggested that the machinery proposed in the Wagner bill be employed for the distribution to states and municipalities of the 300 millions for relief of unemployment distress.

Explaining his construction bond issue proposal, Senator Robinson said:

"With assurances that the budget will be balanced, and with emergency assistance in sight for those in distress, a well considered construction program may be promptly authorized and entered upon by the issuance of 2 billion dollars of tax exempt bonds to be spent upon self-liquidating or profit making enterprises, such as, tunnels, bridges and the destruction of slum districts in great industrial centers.

Proposes Amortization Tax.

"In instances where their credit resources have not been too far depleted, and where authority exists or can be promptly obtained, the states and cities should deliver to the government their own tax exempt obligations and the revenues from the undertakings should be impounded to pay, first, the running expenses, and second, interest and sinking fund to the government. It is estimated that there is enough work of a municipal nature, which has been deferred because of lack of credit, to employ more than a million men.

"Simultaneously with the issuance of these bonds, a special tax should be raised to pay the interest and amortization on the bonds and thus relieve the balanced budget or any burden involved."

Senators Millard E. Tydings [Dem., Md.], James Hamilton Lewis [Dem., Ill.], and eight other wets presented an argument for the beer tax amendment to the tax bill which they said would raise 500 millions annually. Of this amount 150 millions would be employed annually for 10 years to amortize a 1 billion 500 million bond issue for federal public works construction in relief of unemployment.

House Upholds Hoover's Tariff Bill Veto; Democratic Effort to Change Law Fails

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 11.—[Special.]—The tariff was catapulted to the fore as a major issue in the coming presidential campaign today when President Hoover vetoed the so-called Democratic tariff bill and the house failed to amass the necessary two-thirds majority necessary to override the veto. The veto was 178 nays and 166 yeas.

BERTRAND H. SNELL.

In returning the tariff act unapproved, President Hoover asserted its enactment into law would destroy the flexible provisions of the current tariff act, inject logrolling into the tariff legislation, bring about the surrender of an important part of our domestic affairs to the influence of other nations and entangle this country in international agreements of a type foreign to American traditions.

Roll Call Is Demanded.

The tariff bill, now dead as a result of the executive veto and the failure of the house Democrats to override the President's disapproval of the measure, would have taken away from the President his power of passing on tariff rate changes recommended by the tariff commission and pass this privilege on to congress. The measure requested the President to initiate a movement for an international economic conference and in addition urged "the negotiation with foreign governments of reciprocal trade agreements under a policy of mutual tariff concessions."

The veto of the tariff bill immediately aroused a storm of Democratic criticism in both houses of congress. It was the Republicans in the house, however, who demanded the roll call on the President's veto. In making this latter move Representative Bertrand H. Snell [Rep., N. Y.], floor leader, asserted that "this is a political question and we on the Republican side want a vote on it."

Crisp Opposes Record Vote.

"It is futile to call the roll at this time on this veto," retorted Chairman Charles R. Crisp [Dem., Ga.] of the house ways and means committee. "We cannot get the necessary two-thirds votes to override the veto and I suggest it be referred to the ways and means committee. The tariff is and always will be a political question."

"This bill is a political gesture," charged Republican Floor Leader Snell. "You condemned the Smoot-Hawley tariff bill on every stump from the Atlantic to the Pacific but when you had an opportunity to write a new tariff act and present it to congress you did not have the nerve to do it. Why didn't you bring in a tariff act setting forth specific rate reductions rather than this gesture?"

The roll call vote which followed a moment later found all Democrats, with the exception of Representatives William P. Connery [Dem., Mass.] and Numa F. Monte [Dem., La.], voting to override the White House veto. Twelve Republicans voted with the majority of Democrats in favor of passing the measure over the executive veto.

They were Thomas A. Amlie [Wis.], Gerald J. Boileau [Wis.], Ed H. Campbell [Ia.], Victor Christgau [Minn.], Fred C. Gilchrist [Ia.], Morton D. Hull [Ill.], John M. Nelson [Wis.], Hubert H. Peavey [Wis.], George J. Schneider [Wis.], James H. Sinclair [N. D.], William H. Stafford [Wis.], and Gardner R. Withrow [Wis.].

Representative Paul Kvale, lone Farmer-Labor member of the house, also voted with the Democrats to override the veto.

In leading the Democratic senatorial attack on the Hoover veto Senator Cordell Hull [Tenn.] asserted it presented to the American people a clear line of cleavage between the Republican and Democratic parties on the tariff issue.

It presents to the American people, he said, the choice of a "Republican high tariff and other trade barriers" and a Democratic program calling for a policy that would "liberalize existing exchange restrictions and moderate tariff and other trade restrictions."

Hoover States Objections.

In presenting his veto to congress President Hoover listed four main objections to enactment of the bill into law and concluded with the assertion that this time of world unrest and economic depression was no time for tampering with the tariff. He added that he would call an economic conference when he felt that the time was ripe for such a parley. Calling such a conference now, he declared, would be futile.

"My first objection to the bill is the misimpression and uncertainty it may convey as to its purpose," said the President.

"If the purpose of the proponents of this act is to secure lower tariffs on the thirty-five per cent of our imports which are not on the free list it would seem that the direct and simple method of so doing would be to recognize that tariffs are duties applied to particular commodities, and to propose definite reduction of duties on such particular commodities as are believed to be at fault and upon which the full facts can be developed. Alternatively the congress is able to direct the tariff commission under the flexible provisions of the act of 1930 to act upon such schedules as are believed to be too high.

"As a matter of fact, there never has been a time in the history of the United States when tariff protection was more essential to the welfare of the American people than at present. Prices have declined throughout the world, but to a far greater extent in other countries than in the United States. Manufacturers in foreign countries which have abandoned the gold standard are producing goods and paying for raw materials in depreciated currency.

Must Maintain Protection.

"They may ship their goods into the United States with great detriment to the American producer and laborer because of the difference in the value of the money they pay for their raw materials and the money they receive for their finished products. Under such conditions it is imperative that the American protective policy be maintained. If the intent or the effect of the proposed bill is to remove the possibility of executive action or to reduce tariff protection there never was a time more inappropriate on account of widespread domestic unemployment and the possibilities which lie before us.

"The second objection to the bill is that it practically destroys the 'flexible' tariff through the removal of executive authority to render conclusions of the tariff commission effective. This bill would again reduce the tariff commission to a purely advisory body to the congress and thus defeat a reform so earnestly sought ever since its first advocacy by President Roosevelt and finally fully realized in the tariff act of 1930.

"If this bill is to have any practical result by reserving to the congress incidental or occasional readjustment of the tariff it simply opens the way for logrolling every time congress is called upon to consider a report of the tariff commission recommending any specific change in rates or schedules."

Opposed to International Parley.

The President said that his third objection lies "in the conditions stipulated for action in an international conference proposed for dealing with trade questions."

In this connection Mr. Hoover said that while he was in the fullest accord with the proposal for international action to eliminate discriminatory and unfair trade practices and the promotion of fair, equal and friendly commercial relations among nations, he felt that the objectives listed in the bill are "not limited to constructive purposes."

"Some of the objectives proposed in this bill for such a conference raise questions of futility or alternatively of abandonment of essential American policies. One of our firm national policies has been that tariffs are solely a domestic question in protection of our people. It is now proposed that an international conference should be called with a view to lowering excessive tariffs. The very implication of calling other nations into conference with a view to changing our tariff duties is to subject our tariffs to international agreement."

Sees International Tangles.

The President said his fourth objection to the bill was found in provisions requesting the chief executive to negotiate reciprocal trade agreements with foreign governments under a policy of mutual tariff concessions. He said this provision was in direct conflict with other sections of the bill and would lead to international entanglements of the first order. Its net effect, he added, would be to reduce American agricultural tariffs.

"The effects of such a shift in the basis of our agricultural tariffs," he said, "would be to demoralize our agricultural industry, render us more and more dependent upon foreign countries for food supply, drive our farmers into towns and factories and thus demoralize our whole national economic and social stability."

JUDGE DEMANDS WAUKEGAN BANK RECEIVER RESIGN

Court Makes Request, but Delays Action.

Circuit Judge Edward D. Shurtleff of Lake county yesterday asked Fred Brown Whitney, receiver for the closed Waukegan State bank, to write out his resignation and place it before the court. The judge said he would not act on the resignation until he had considered evidence which might be offered by Whitney to prove his efficiency, but he announced he had asked L. J. Wilmot, clerk of the court, to consider accepting Whitney's position.

The judge also asked State's Attorney A. V. Smith to prepare a citation for the appearance of the officers of the former National Bank of the Republic of Chicago and its assignees. The bank is now merged in the Central Republic Bank and Trust company. The officers are to be asked to show cause why securities of the Waukegan State bank totaling $841,000 should not be returned to the bank.

Securities to Cover "Deposit."

The securities were delivered to the Chicago bank by Norman O. Geyer, president of the Waukegan bank, to cover what Smith terms "a so called deposit" of the Chicago bank in the Waukegan bank. The judge indicated that the deposit of the Chicago bank should merely be considered another claim and the Chicago bank should take its chances of recovery with other depositors.

The request for Whitney's resignation was made by the judge after the receiver had been questioned in court at length Tuesday and yesterday. The judge said his request was no reflection on the honesty of Whitney, but that his methods as receiver were not bringing maximum results.

Whitney had told the judge he had not thought of suing directors to recover losses sustained through alleged carelessness on their part. He further stated that he did not institute suit to recover the $841,000 in securities in the Chicago bank because he had been instructed by State Auditor Oscar Nelson, by whom he was appointed, not to do too much work. The auditor last night denied issuing such instructions.

Will Not Give Resignation.

Whitney, through his attorney, Gerlad Snyder, said he will refuse to submit his resignation. Snyder said Whitney has conscientiously performed his duties and ha the commendation of many depositors. He added there have been no facts submitted against Whitney and if the judge desires his removal the decision is with the judge.

Judge Shurtleff also ordered Prosecutor Smith to call into court directors and former officers of the Waukegan bank to discuss with them "in a friendly way" their liability as stockholders for losses to depositors.

Among those summoned are: Samuel N. Hastings, a director of the National Bank of the Republic, the Waukegan bank, and president of the Illinois Manufacturers' association; Edward L. Wagner, a director of both banks; W. H. Miller, vice president of the National Bank of the Republic, the Central Republic Bank and Trust company, and director of the Waukegan bank; Carl W. Stenger, chairman of the board of the Waukegan bank; Joseph L. Lomer, director of the Waukegan bank; Milton E. Smith, a director indicted for larceny for withdrawal of the bank's funds; Norman O. Geyer, president; William F. Wandel, a director; and James R. Reeves, another director.

The judge in his orders asked Smith to bring in other former directors and officers who were not named. The trial of Miller in connection with the failure of the Waukegan bank is to open today before Judge Shurtleff in Waukegan.

Glass Charges Are False, Britten Declares in House

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 11.—[Special.]—A former fisticuffing representative from Chicago and a fiery senator from Virginia stood today at opposite ends of the capitol and screamed out denunciations at each other.

Over in the house, Fred Britten [Rep., Ill.], told his colleagues that Senator Glass' charge yesterday that Chicago banks had "hired congressmen" to oppose the McFadden branch banking bill several years ago was a "damned lie." Then Mr. Britten, who used to be an amateur boxer, shouted out his threat that "anybody who spreads stuff like that, no matter who he is, has got to account to me, as one member of this house."

Glass Repeats Charge.

In the senate, Carter Glass [Dem., Va.], tiny and belligerent, told his colleagues he understood that in the other chamber a "vituperative reference" had been made to his statement, and so he'd repeat it again because it was true and he could prove it. The only reason proof had not been made public, he added, was because the accused congressman (he made it singular today, not plural) had been near death at the time of the investigation and had since died.

Of course, under the rules of congress, neither gentleman could mention the name of his opponent, but there was no doubt in anybody's mind just who was referring to whom.

Stepping into the well of the house with the vigor of his old fighting days, Representative Britten began by calling any suggestion that Chicago bankers had ever hired members of congress to influence legislation a "dastardly lie."

"Not Enough Money" in City.

"There is not enough money in Chicago to do that," he shouted. "That is not the way legislation is influenced. Legislation may be influenced by friendship, by society, by well written newspaper articles or editorials, but never by hire of congressmen, and I resent this statement, even if it did come from the senate."

Then he issued his challenge and added, "there are four hundred and odd others equally proud of their reputation as I am of mine.

"If a lobbyist came here from Chicago I should have known something about it. I was not then dean of the delegation, but Martin B. Madden was. Would any one impugn the honesty of purpose or the personal honesty of Mr. Madden? Not in a lifetime."

Says He Has Evidence.

Almost before the applause from his colleagues had died down in the house Senator Glass rose in the senate to say:

"I understand that in the other house today a vituperative reference was made to my statement and the validity of it was called in question. If there is anybody in this or the other branch of congress who is now eager to make a revelation of the facts, I still have the documentary evidence, and if anybody is willing to take the responsibility to reveal the facts that evidence is accessible to him."

He called up the 1926 fight over the McFadden bill and was told how rumors of Chicago bankers hiring a congressman for a lobbyist had grown so insistent that a senate committee, composed of former Senator Sackett, former Senator Edge, and himself, had been empowered to conduct an investigation.

Man in Question Dead.

"We obtained documentary proof with one respect to one more or less prominent member of congress," Senator Glass declared. "We had the testimony of this man's family physician that any revelation of that nature would endanger his life, and therefore the subcommittee determined not to pursue its investigation any further. That congressman has since died and because of that fact perhaps I should not have made the reference I did in my speech."

BOARD OF TRADE MEMBERS VOTE ON DRY REPEAL

Members of the Chicago Board of Trade will vote on the repeal of the 18th amendment and the return of beer. Ballots were distributed to them yesterday for their opinions on prohibition repeal and on the legalization of 2¾ per cent beer. They must be returned by next Tuesday.

Members of the board who favor the return of beer point to statistics released by the United States Brewers' association, demonstrating how its return would have a direct effect on prices, not only of barley, the grain principally used for brewing, but those of corn and oats as well. Since prohibition, the brewers contend, the raisers of 300 million bushels of barley have competed with oats and corn raisers by selling their product for stock feeding.

The results of the grain traders' ballot are to be presented to the United States Chamber of Commerce when it meets next week in San Francisco.

JAPS IN SHANGHAI ALARMED; TOKIO RECALLS TROOPS

Nipponese Fear Trouble When Army Goes.

BY JOHN POWELL.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

SHANGHAI, May 12.—[Thursday.]—The sudden decision yesterday of the Japanese war office to withdraw all Japanese troops from Shanghai immediately has produced a sensation here almost as great as the original Japanese attack on this city on Jan. 28, nearly four months ago. There are now about 30,000 Japanese troops in the Shanghai district.

QUO TAI-CHI.

The Japanese community, which is still suffering from the results of the war situation and the devastating boycott of Japanese goods, was deeply stirred by news of the proposed withdrawal and frantically cabled Tokio to permit one division of troops to remain here.

Jap Residents Alarmed.

A spokesman at the Japanese consulate said that local Japanese leaders viewed the future with alarm, although an armistice has been arranged and the Japanese troops are withdrawing to new specified areas adjacent to the international settlement. Local Japanese had expected that a considerable number of troops would remain here as a sort of permanent garrison.

Chinese authorities were also surprised at the news and are unable to fathom its motive. They believe it may be due to the critical situation in Manchuria, necessitating the transfer of all available Japanese forces to that area.

China Reserves Rights.

Quo Tai-chi, who served as the chief Chinese delegate at the recent truce negotiations, issued a statement emphatically denying an allegation from Tokio that the Chinese had agreed not to station troops within the twenty-mile zone about Shanghai.

"It was definitely understood that nothing in this agreement implies any permanent restrictions on the movements of Chinese troops anywhere in Chinese territory," Quo said.

The Chinese, however, are not planning an advance into this area, he indicated. The district is rapidly being taken over by Chinese police. About 2,000 trained gendarmes have been brought here from Peiping.

Move Army Headquarters.

It was also learned that the Chinese have transferred the headquarters of the Nineteenth route army to Soochow, about fifty miles west of Shanghai.

A Japanese foreign office spokesman here said the Japanese war office originally had intended to keep a full division here as a permanent garrison, but since the armistice was signed the Japanese government has decided to "conform to world opinion to prove that Japan had no territorial or other ulterior motive in dispatching troops to Shanghai.

"The Japanese feel that they have fought the battles of other nations as well as their own at Shanghai," he said, "but they have gained only world-wide odium."

Japs Rely on Other Powers.

A Japanese war office statement issued here declared that Japan is relying upon a smooth enactment of the armistice agreement and also upon the friendly assistance of other powers for the establishment of normal conditions and that therefore it was decided to withdraw the entire army, leaving only a small contingent of bluejackets to protect the local Japanese community.

Fear Trouble at Shanhaikwan.

It was learned last night that the English text of the armistice agreement, which was signed on May 5, has not been completed due to a squabble between the Chinese and Japanese delegates over interpretation of the wording of the Chinese and Japanese texts. The complications are due to the vagueness of the Chinese and Japanese languages. The agreement provides that the English text is to be authoritative in event a misunderstanding arises.

Reports received here last night from Peiping state that the situation at Shanhaikwan, just south of Manchuria, is critical. Both Chinese and Japanese forces are entrenching there, the report said. Marshal Chang Hsueh-liang, ousted Manchurian governor, has declared his intention to fight in event the Japanese attempt to oust his forces. The Japanese allege that Gen. Chang is sending his men through Shanhaikwan to assist loyalist forces in Manchuria against the Japanese there.

League Envoys Have Troubles.

HARBIN, Manchuria, May 11.—(AP)—So many guards have been placed over the members of the league of nations' Manchurian investigating commission that they have had considerable trouble getting any evidence.

The situation got so bad today that the commissioners held their meeting away from their hotel after hearing reports that witnesses had been intimidated and had not been allowed free access to the hearing room.

Municipal authorities published a notice that no one without a special permit would be allowed to see the commissioners because of secret service reports that an organized attempt would be made to create trouble.

Chinese police and detectives and Japanese detectives have been swarming in the hotel lobby. The commissioners have been shadowed or accompanied by guards everywhere. Pedestrians are forbidden to stand on the sidewalks in front of the hotel.

ALDERMEN TO BEGIN MAKING UP CITY'S BUDGET ON MAY 19

Ald. John S. Clark [30th], chairman of the city council finance committee, yesterday notified committee members that the task of building the city's 1932 budget will be started on Thursday, May 19. The appropriation bill must be finally passed by the council by June 15.

The committee already has estimated the available revenues of the corporated fund for this year at $54,090,353. Of this, $14,280,000 is the estimate for miscellaneous revenue; $39,609,000 is the estimated collection on the 1932 tax levy for corporate purposes, and $201,353 is the estimated excess of corporate assets over liabilities on Jan. 1. If the budget is fixed at the $54,090,353 figure it will be $8,961,726 less than last year's.

When the committee meets it will have before it the various recommendations of J. L. Jacobs & Co. and the continuation ordinance, recently passed, which docks employés 78 days' pay. Mayor Cermak has been working to blend the various economy proposals into an agreed program.

U. S. REINFORCES TAX EVIDENCE IN PASCHEN TRIAL

Continues Showing of 2 Firms' Earnings.

Evidence to reinforce Tuesday's testimony tending to link Chris Paschen with city contracts performed by companies under his control, while he was city building commissioner, was the major presentation of the government yesterday in prosecuting Paschen for income tax evasion during 1927 and 1928.

New showings of income for the politician during these years were also made. The largest item was $6,906 which Edward G. Ripley of the George A. Fuller company, testified was paid to Paschen's company for cleaning and tuckpointing the New Passavant hospital in 1928. H. A. Horning, building superintendent for the Michigan Central railroad, also told the jury that Paschen received $3,800 in 1927 for cleaning the railroad's passenger terminal in Detroit.

Two Women Witnesses.

Two women witnesses were called in the attempt to clinch Paschen's connection with the Commercial Building Cleaning company and the L. Kuhn company, concerns which cleaned and tuckpointed two city pumping stations in 1927 and 1928 and received $21,630 in payment.

Virginia Loitz, secretary to Frank Wilder, who in 1927, as an agent for the Hartford Accident & Indemnity company, bonded the contracts performed by the Commercial and Kuhn concerns, and Grace Weinschenk, an employé of the Louis E. Golan agency, in which Wilder had an office, were the witnesses. Defense Attorney Cassius Poust fought the introduction of exhibits showing the bonding transaction but Federal Judge Barnes allowed them to be introduced.

To show that the work was done on the pumping stations, Assistant United States Attorney Sam Clawson called three employés of the bureau of engineering, city department of public works. They were Assistant Engineer George E. Tompkins, Frank B. Alt, head accountant, and George Prince, mason inspector.

Prince Entertains Court Fans.

Prince replied to questions in a rich brogue and occasionally embellished his testimony with semi-strong language in an earnest manner which drew smiles from the courtroom crowd.

A long legal debate, with the jury excluded, arose over an objection by Mr. Poust, who contended that since Paschen had received only $4,000 of the Passavant hospital contract price in 1928, and the rest in 1929, the government should not be allowed to introduce the testimony inasmuch as the work had not been completed in 1928. Judge Barnes ruled that the 1928 checks might go into the evidence.

MEANS OUT OF JAIL ON $50,000 BOND; HAS HEARING TOMORROW

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Washington, D. C., May 11.—[Special.]—Gaston B. Means, former justice department investigator, now under indictment for defrauding Mrs. Evalyn Walsh McLean, Washington society woman, of $104,000 intended as ransom money for the Lindbergh baby, was released from the district jail today under bond of $50,000.

His release followed the action of Justice James M. Proctor of the district Supreme court in reducing the bond which had been originally fixed at $100,000. The local bondsmen, each equally liable for the full amount, posted the money.

Means was met at the jail by his wife and in a chauffered limousine of expensive make was driven to the office of the clerk of the court to make his bond. He refused to answer any questions and ignored a query as to whether he expected to get in touch with the Lindbergh kidnapers.

Asked what he was going to do, he answered emphatically, "I'm going home."

Representative Hamilton Fish [Rep., N. Y.], chairman of a committee which recently investigated communistic activities in this country, disclosed today that Means led members of that committee on a "wild goose chase" to Baltimore, where he told them twenty trunkloads of communistic data were hidden.

The committeemen, Mr. Fish said, found only crates of lettuce in the warehouse to which Means directed them.

Suicide Victim Is Revealed as Bad Check Passer

Police looking through the effects of John J. Martin, who ended his life May 7 by slashing his throat in his room at 6241 Woodlawn avenue, reported yesterday to Sergt. Joseph Starshak of the missing persons bureau that they had found a number of check books in the room, but that the banks whose checks they found had no accounts in Martin's name. Sergt. Starshak had finger prints of the dead man taken and discovered that he was arrested in Chicago in 1925, under the name of John J. Dovan, for passing a bad check, and had been arrested under nearly a dozen aliases on similar charges in other cities.

TRACE WORLD'S ILLS TO DECLINE OF FAMILY LIFE

Scientists Watch Rise of "Selfish Era."

BY JOHN BOETTIGER.

The family, which from prehistoric ages has sustained the social structure of this world, is being crushed under a rise of individualism.

This was asserted yesterday by Dr. Alfred Reginald Radcliffe-Brown, a noted English scientist, now professor of anthropology at the University of Chicago, in an address before the annual meeting of the Illinois Social Hygiene league at the Chicago Woman's club.

In an age of invention and modern thought, said Dr. Radcliffe-Brown, the ties of family which have endured through the ages are breaking, and with this breaking have come our social difficulties—divorce, insanity, suicide, selfishness, crime.

Where Are We Going?

"Whither the world, then?" he asked. "Shall we change back again to the family scheme? I cannot see any other remedy. But perhaps that will not help. Perhaps we shall always be growing more and more individualistic, and consequently more and more neurotic."

It was a pessimistic picture, and it was challenged by some other speakers who joined in a symposium on "Family Problems," presided over by Dr. Louis E. Schmidt, president of the Illinois Social Hygiene league, himself a leader in medicine and social hygiene.

These other speakers stressed the belief that the family would be saved through the efforts of welfare workers and family consultants, but if they viewed Dr. Radcliffe-Brown's opinions as unduly pessimistic they were further jolted by Dr. William F. Ogburn, chairman of President Hoover's commission on social trends, who is on leave from the department of sociology at the University of Chicago.

Bonds of Kinship Fading.

Dr. Ogburn, after two years of studying the American family, reported a disintegration of the bonds of kinship, which he said was seriously interfering with family relationships. He described the loss of family duties which once held the home together, and said that today delicatessen shops and restaurants are growing much faster than families.

Perhaps, he said, the art of home cooking is now doomed to go the way of spinning, churning, and home carpentry. The sewing machine in the home is rapidly growing extinct, he said, and laundries are springing up in faster growth than families.

Along with these changes, Dr. Ogburn said, have come other forces to disrupt the family. Improved methods of transportation have taken the members of the family from vanishing home duties to factories and other employment. Younger generations seldom cling to the environments of the old.

"We have reached a crisis in social development, the whole uncertainty of which calls for great guidance," Dr. Ogburn added.

Family as a Curb on Crime.

Dr. Radcliffe-Brown, who before coming to the University of Chicago was head of the department of anthropology at the University of Sydney, in Australia, described the great cohesion of the family tribes of South Africa.

"There the head of a family controlled absolutely the lives of his wives, his sons and their wives, his grandchildren and their children," the scientist said. "They all worked for the glory of the family, and possessed no individual property or reward.

"The result of this was an absence of crime. The South Africans were guided by religious concepts of veneration of ancestors. Their beliefs included a proviso that they could not address their ancestors in prayer and supplication while discord existed anywhere in the family. Thus, if two brothers quarreled, no sacrifices could be offered to the ancestral gods until the brothers were reconciled, and consequently, tremendous pressure was applied toward this end.

New Age of Individualism.

"This brought about great unity of action and purpose, which is lacking in our so-called civilization of today.

"We are in a new age of individualism, working no longer for the glory of family, but for the advancement of self.

"The results of our excessive individualism have been an increase in our social problems. I have seen a recent survey of suicides in which it is shown that an unmarried man is more likely to take his life than a man with a wife, and that with each child added to a family, the rate of suicides among fathers decreases. In other words, the suicide rate decreases in direct proportion to the extent of man's family responsibilities.

"In communities such as the South African families I have described, suicide is most rare, and it is also true that neuroses are rare. Mental disturbances increase as family bonds are loosened.

Finds Example in War.

"Perhaps I can best describe this by referring to the world war. In 1914, just prior to the outbreak of war, the nations of Europe were in internal turmoil. Its peoples were discontented, due to the approaching disintegration of family.

"But with the declarations of war, a change in contentment was immediately noticeable, despite the perils and hardships of war.

"Why? Because the individualism which had spread over Europe was pushed into the background before a rush of national feeling and pride. Its peoples became members of separate definite communities with a very important task to perform.

"The result was that suicides, neuroses and similar social ills fell off, at least during the first two years of the war, and until the fever of nationalism wore off. Nationalism is comparable to family association."

Cleavage Also in China.

In China, where civilization flowered while most of the rest of the world still groped in darkness, family strength was always uppermost, Dr. Radcliffe-Brown declared. But today, he added, there are signs of a cleavage in family relationships there, and if it continues so, China will be in a turmoil of revolutions and other difficulties for a century or more.

The speaker said he did not pretend to be an authority on the American family, but he declared that he had been informed that the tendency is toward a scattering of interests. "If that is so," he said, "it indicates a disintegrative movement."

Report of Dr. Schmidt.

In an annual report dealing with the activities of the Illinois Social Hygiene league, President Schmidt quoted figures showing an increase in treatments for social diseases given at the league. In 1929 43,000 treatments were given, increasing to 81,000 in 1930 and 109,000 in 1931. This demonstrated, said Dr. Schmidt, the increasing need for free and low priced clinics.

A NEW FARMER'S TRACTOR BLOWN TO PIECES BY DYNAMITE

Racine, Wis., May 11.—[Special.]—Herman Meyers, Milwaukee factory worker, found jobs in the city scarce. He had a wife and child to support, so a few months ago he decided to try his hand at farming.

He scraped together what money he could and made a first payment on a 40 acre farm in the town of Norway, Racine county.

A short time ago he bought a tractor with his remaining funds, leaving the machine at the farm. He built a small barn but hadn't a chance to begin work on a farmhouse, and so continued to live in Milwaukee.

Late today he visited the farm. He looked for the tractor and found it—in pieces. It had been destroyed by dynamite.

While Sheriff John Anderson and Undersheriff Arthur Rohan are investigating, Meyers is wondering what to do with a farm that he can't farm.

HOOKS UP WASHER MOTOR, QUALIFIES FOR AUTO TAG

Policemen James Battles and Orville Christenson were cruising in 51d street near the outer drive yesterday when they heard the irregular chugging of a one cylinder engine. They beheld a home made "automobile," measuring four feet in length and sixteen inches in height. Pocket flashlights served for headlights and it rolled on coaster wagon wheels. Its motive power consisted of a one cylinder gasoline engine borrowed from a washing machine. A leather belt from the power wheel of the engine to one of the rear toy wheels constituted the drive.

In the driver's seat sat Gordon Fairbanks, 14 years old, of 5436 Hyde Park boulevard, Hyde Park High school freshman, the builder. He is a son of Clarence T. Fairbanks, vice president of Edwards & Deutsch, lithographers, 2320 Wabash avenue.

"I've done 20 miles an hour in this," boasted the young engineer.

The policemen were impressed and examined the home made auto more carefully. "If that's the case, you've got a regular auto," they announced. "And you'll need a license."

Young Fairbanks promised to purchase one.

One Slain, Another Shot by Gunmen in New York

New York, May 11.—[Special.]—Barney H. Cohen, 45, Manhattan poultry dealer and a brother of Joseph Cohen, the figure in the poultry war of 1914 who was shot and killed a month ago, was killed tonight, and Daniel Belbiso, 45, of Jamaica, Queens, an employé, was injured at a busy corner in Jamaica by a fusillade fired from an automobile.

The gunmen's machine disappeared a half minute before the arrival of a police car of the radio motor patrol which had been three blocks away.

E. G. WOODS, AUTO VICTIM, IS SAVED BY TRANSFUSIONS

Attorney Given Blood After Smashup.

Aided by two blood transfusions, Edward G. Woods, 1218 Madison Park, well known attorney, who was seriously injured in an automobile accident yesterday, was resting comfortably at the Michael Reese hospital last night. Physicians said he would recover. Mr. Woods is general counsel for the Hearst newspapers in Chicago.

The accident in which he was hurt occurred in the Outer drive at 39th street. With him at the time was Walter Merrill, 1226 East 50th street, advertising director for the Herald and Examiner, who received minor injuries. They were driving north, with Mr. Woods at the wheel, when a southbound car, evidently out of control, made a wide turn into 39th street. The lawyer, to avoid a collision, swerved his automobile sharply, and crashed into a safety island. The other car sped on.

Given Blood Transfusions.

Mr. Woods suffered several fractures to his jaw, ribs, and legs, and also torn leg tendons. Because of heavy loss of blood, Mr. Woods required the two blood transfusions.

John A. Hartman, 43 years old, 7729 South Wincheser avenue, a liasion officer for the American Legion, was injured late yesterday when the brakes of his automobile locked. His car skidded gainst the automobile of Frank Bovino, which was parked in front of the latter's home at 3013 Warren boulevard. Hartman was taken to the Edward Hines hospital.

One Death in County.

One autmobile fatality yesterday increased the Cook county motor toll to 389 for the year. The victim:

Dorothy Stiles, 4 years old, 803 Elmwood avenue, Wilmette. Died at the Evanston hospital of a skull fracture suffered Tuesday when she was struck in Wilmette by an automobile driven by Victor Joyce, 15, of 1011 Chestnut avenue, Wilmette.

Alighting from a street car in Elston avenue at George street, Miss Dorothy Lauman, 18 years old, 4815 Polk street, was struck by an automobile yesterday and critically hurt. She was taken to St. Joseph's hospital. William Ball, 2661 Warren boulevard, a Negro, was held as the driver of the auto.

PRIEST, VICTIM OF FRAUD, TRAPS BOGUS SALESMEN

Back in Sulphur, La., early last month two men alighted from a neat automobile and greeted the Rev. Arthur Vigraid, a Catholic priest. They introduced themselves as agents for Thomas McDonald & Co., a Chicago investment house, and induced the clergyman to purchase a $100 bond. It turned out to be worthless.

Several days ago the Rev. Father Vigraid came to Chicago. He visited St. Michael's church, North and Hudson avenues, and then departed. He noticed an automobile which appeared familiar standing at the curb. He examined the license number and then hurried to the Hudson avenue station.

What he reported resulted in Sergts. Harold Tierney and Martin McCarthy placing the automobile under surveillance. Three hours later two men boarded it and were arrested. At the station last night the two men, Walter Pilkington, 40 years old, of 1435 Hudson avenue, a bond salesman, and John Pinchot, alias O'Brien, 27, admitted, police said, that they had defrauded the Louisiana priest. Police said that Pinchot and Pilkington are not employed by the McDonald concern.

straight, and by repeated calls and annoyances.

"Mrs. Erickson has admitted that she brought flowers to Gregory. If you believe that she cooked a duck for him, you can also believe that Mrs. Carrie Taylor cooked the Gregory's goose for them."

Mrs. Taylor, a resident of Naperville, who was formerly an intimate friend of Mrs. Grace Gregory, was the star witness for the plaintiff—who incidentally had never seen her before. She related on the stand the gloating manner in which Mrs. Gregory had shown her the check for $5,000, asserting that she was "going to get more."

Attorney O'Brien had previously drawn the ire of Hadley by designating the transaction for Gregory's transgressions as "an inverted type of the old badger game."

Hadley himself defended his clients as having merely accepted out of court, settlement for a case Mrs. Gregory might just as well have taken to law.

Denies There Was Fraud.

"There was no duress—there was no fraud—there was no threat," he argued. "Here was a middle aged married woman who, through the years, had built up a home and when she saw it wrecked before her eyes, when her husband, Albert Gregory, admitted to her that he had committed adultery, what could be expected but the nervous hysteria that followed?

"When she went to see Mrs. Erickson she went out of curiosity to find out what the scene was there—whether there was a wife and children, as she told you. When Mrs. Erickson met her with the bald challenge, 'Your husband was here—what are you going to do about it?' all she said was, 'If you care for each other I'll get a divorce.' This $5,000 was paid because Mrs. Gregory knew she had a cause for action and Mrs. Erickson knew it, too, and wanted to avoid publicity."

Testimony during the previous two days was to the effect that Mrs. Erickson met Gregory, a motorman on the Aurora and Elgin interurban, on rides into Chicago. She first tossed him a rose, and their acquaintance budded with exchanges of lily and hyacinth bulbs and slips of rose bushes. Later, Gregory told, she also brought him "pies, tarts, and other goodies." He asserted, and Mrs. Erickson emphatically denied, that the affair progressed into a torrid extramarital romance, culminated in trysts at her home and in St. Charles.

In 1926, three years later, Mrs. Gregory discovered this friendship. She arrived at the Elmhurst home of Mrs. Erickson one dawn and accused her of breaking up her home. This was followed by a demand for $5,000 to avoid service in a suit for alienation of affections. Mrs. Erickson signed a note for the amount and later took up the note, having mortgaged her home to do it. But the thrifty Gregorys, who are said to own several pieces of property, paid off the $4,500 mortgage on their home with the check and continued to share the residence.

The amount assessed by the jury was the $5,000 paid over, plus interest at 5 per cent, totaling about $1,500.

It was disclosed yesterday out of court that Probate Judge Edgar Thoma of Wheaton, personal attorney for Mrs. Erickson, filed the suit for restitution only twenty-four hours within the statute of limitations.

She had mentioned the matter to Judge Thoma casually in connection with another suit she wished to file.

Reveals Lloyd George Escaped Kitchener Fate

LONDON, May 11.—(AP)—An eleventh hour change in plans kept David Lloyd George from sharing the fate of Lord Kitchener, who started for Russia in 1916 on the cruiser Hampshire and never was heard of again, it was revealed today in the second volume of Lord Beaverbrook's "Politicians and the War." At the time Lloyd George was minister for munitions. He had planned to accompany Kitchener, who was secretary for war, but Prime Minister Asquith appealed to him to stay behind and negotiate the projected Irish settlement.

digest all of them? And if we did, what of it? He has presented to us all the savings he will recommend and the total is less than $3,000,000.

"After that he recommends that we close the schools to make the property owners pay their taxes. If the taxpayers do not pay, then he recommends that we take all educational facilities away from them.

"It is evident to me that we must make drastic reductions in expense. We should start now."

President Myers said it is now popular to criticize the school board, and then added: "I suggest we invite the mayor's citizens' commission to sit in when we consider the survey report. Let the public get the facts. I think I can suggest a $500,000 saving which Dr. Strayer overlooked.

"I have a $1,000,000 saving in mind, which Dr. Strayer did not recommend," added Trustee Savage.

Neither of them disclosed his secret, and no one made a motion to save this $1,500,000. Neither did any trustee suggest that the superintendent of schools start saving the $561,000 which Dr. Strayer has told the trustees is now being wasted on idle regular teachers while special teachers have their pupils.

WAUKEGAN JURY RETURNS SEALED RACKET VERDICT

A Waukegan jury shortly before 3 o'clock this morning returned a sealed verdict in the cases of three alleged racketeers who are accused of trying to muscle their way into control of the Lake County council of the Chauffeurs, Stablemen and Helpers' union. There was a rumor that the three were found guilty of conspiracy. The verdict will be read at 9:30 o'clock this morning.

The defendants are Charles Heintelman, 40 years old, of 2017 North California avenue, Chicago; Leonard Murphy, 34, of 3446 Church street, Niles Center, a former motorcycle cop, and Clifford Snyder, 29, of 1109 Hazel avenue, Deerfield. The trial is before Judge E. D. Shurtleff.

Prosecutors charged that last January the three forced O. J. Burandt of Waukegan to resign as business agent of the Lake county chauffeurs' council so the trio could control the union.

BOARD OF EDUCATION SPENDING IS ASSAILED BY MAYOR CERMAK

The board of education must reduce its expenditures to restore public confidence, Mayor Cermak asserted yesterday before a luncheon meeting of the Association of Commerce at the Hotel La Salle. The mayor assailed the board for appropriating money which could not be collected in taxes.

"If the city of Chicago had not come to the rescue," said the mayor, "the schools would have been closed before this." He pointed out that the city had loaned $28,000,000 to the board, and that he salvaged $7,000,000 from school costs for the taxpayers after taking office last year."

FINNS BEAT FIRE BRIGADE RECORD OF INDIANAPOLIS

HELSINGFORS, Finland, May 11.—(AP)—A Helsingfors fire brigade has beaten the record set up by an Indianapolis fire brigade of turning out in twenty seconds.

The Helsingfors fire chief, noting in an American fire brigade journal what had been done by fire engine company No. 11 at Indianapolis, decided to see what his men could do.

An alarm was sounded and before witnesses, who included Samuel S. Dickson, first secretary of the United States legation here, the Indianapolis record was beaten badly. The fire engine and tank car's rear wheels passed the engine hall threshold in exactly 11.2 seconds, the fire engine and foam producing car in 14.8 seconds, and the fire engine and ladder car in 18 seconds.

Dentists . . . are proud of their own teeth

They don't want you to lose yours either. They warn you to care for your gums.

To take a look at most dentists, you might be inclined to think that they had chosen the dental profession because they could boast fine, sound, perfect teeth themselves. Your dentist would laugh a hearty laugh at such an idea. He knows that his teeth are good and yours will be good—if you start, as he did, to care for your gums in time.

More than half of the adult teeth lost are due to that dread gum infection, pyorrhea. When it starts, you never know—and it may take five years, ten years and even longer before it causes the loss of even one tooth. The right time to watch your gums is now, right now.

It doesn't pay to ignore pyorrhea. You simply must have professional dental advice about twice a year and when you take up seriously the home treatment of your teeth, it will pay to use a toothpaste perfected by a dentist. Dr. R. J. Forhan devoted a lifetime to pyorrhea treatment. His professional formula is embodied in Forhan's Toothpaste. It's the finest toothpaste money can buy, with an extra-protection feature in its special formula. Don't let pyorrhea get started. Use prevention. Use Forhan's. Use it twice a day—old and young. It's never too early to start the children on Forhan's, the double-duty toothpaste, at all drug stores.

A SOUTHERN GIRL TELLS MARITAL WOES IN COURT

Says Fricks as Husband Is a Brigham Young.

Mrs. Kathryne Fricks, 10 East Elm street, blond, with a lot of pearls and a southern accent, entertained spectators in the court of Judge Craig Hood yesterday with a lively account of the marital misdemeanors which she charges against Charles W. Fricks, head of an auditing company. Fricks lived at the Congress hotel.

She alleged in her bill for divorce that Fricks was "a modern Brigham Young," guilty of misconduct with thirteen women, but most of her charges yesterday were directed against Mrs. Mary Thompson McGregor of Pontiac, Ill., a divorcée and a grandmother.

Mrs. Fricks' attorney, Arthur Frankenstein, opened her testimony with the routine question as to how she had treated her husband.

"Well, I was just cra-azy 'bout him," drawled Mrs. Fricks.

Tells Her First Suspicion.

She first suspected him, she said, when on Dec. 26, 1929, they went to Memphis to visit her parents. They had hardly arrived, she said, when her husband received a long distance telephone call, which she later traced to Pontiac.

"He got all excited and packed up and went right away," Mrs. Fricks said.

She followed him to Chicago the next day. The evening after that he entered their Elm street apartment, she said, and expressed surprise at finding her there. He was living in the Congress hotel, he told her. Soon after that, she said, she went to his hotel room and in a dresser drawer found a woman's handkerchief bearing the initial "M."

"When I asked my husband about that," said Mrs. Fricks, "he said, 'Aw, honey, don't you worry yourself. That's just an old hag that's followin' me 'round. She's old enough to be my mother.'"

"In a Terrible Jam."

Mrs. Fricks then quoted her husband as saying to her, about two months later: "I'm in a terrible jam. This woman I told you about before comes from a prominent family. She's old enough to be my mother, but she's got a brother who's a big bully. I'm just afraid of what's going to happen to me."

That led the way to a second conversation two months later when, Mrs. Fricks said, her husband told her that he was in "the worst jam of his life" and needed $2,000 at once. She refused to let him pawn some of her diamonds, she said.

"This woman is going to tell her brother if I don't get a divorce from you," she quoted Fricks as saying, "but I can pacify her with $2,000."

"When I told him I wouldn't give him any money," she said, "he sat down on the bed and sobbed out to me 'I'm not goin' to sell myself for $2,000.'"

Trails Them to Springfield.

In November, 1930, Mrs. Fricks testified, she saw her husband in St. Louis with Mrs. McGregor, and followed the couple by automobile to Springfield, Ill., where they put up at the St. Nicholas hotel.

"Their room was on the second floor," she said. "My husband never goes up high because he says his heart bothers him. I went to the hotel, but the clerk wouldn't let me in. He wouldn't believe I was Mrs. Fricks. But I took off my wedding ring [she illustrated] and I showed him my name inside it.

"I went up to their room and I whistled through the keyhole, and I pounded on the door, and I hollered over the transom, and I rang their telephone, but my husband wouldn't come out."

Last Sunday, she testified, she went to Pontiac and stood outside Mrs. McGregor's home. The lower floor was dark, but in a lighted room upstairs, she charged, she saw her husband undressing, while Mrs. McGregor, she said, was nearby in red pajamas with a yellow jacket.

Another View of Mrs. McGregor.

A more complimentary picture of Mrs. McGregor was given by Virginia Weiner, 1315 East 53d street, who followed Mrs. Fricks on the witness stand. She testified that while working as a member of an auditing crew for Fricks in central Illinois she knew that he was staying in Mrs. McGregor's home, since the head of her crew always called there to report to him. She was there herself one night, she said, and saw Mrs. McGregor and Fricks kiss each other.

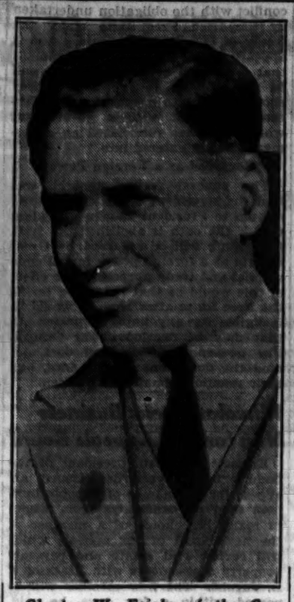
"Mrs. McGregor was a very charming lady," she said. "She dresses very nicely. Her hair is quite gray, almost white. She might be 60 years old. She's very young looking, though, not a motherly type at all."

"You thought she was a lady?" asked Attorney Frank B. Teed, counsel for Fricks.

"That depends upon the definition of the word," replied Miss Wiener.

Wife Tells of Husband's Affair with a Grandma

Mrs. Kathryne Fricks of 10 East Elm street, southern girl, who entertained those in Judge Craig Hood's courtroom with a lively story of her husband's exploits as a Lothario, including one in which a divorcee and a grandmother figured.



Charles W. Fricks of the Congress hotel, who was described by his wife in divorce hearing before Judge Craig Hood as a "second Brigham Young." He is the head of an auditing company.

Miss Virginia Wiener of 1315 West 53d street, witness for Mrs. Fricks, who told of seeing Mr. Fricks kiss and hug the grandmother who was named by Mrs. Fricks as one of the reasons why she desired a divorce.

WET VOTE IN OHIO FORECASTS G.O.P. DRY TEST PLANK

Majority for Referendum Seems Assured.

Washington, D. C., May 11.—[Special.]—The wet victory in the Ohio primary was regarded today as foreshadowing more than any other preconvention development the adoption of a prohibition referendum plank in the Republican national convention.

Not only was David S. Ingalls, a wet member of the Hoover subcabinet, nominated for governor in a clear cut test on the prohibition issue and with the backing of Postmaster General Walter F. Brown, the President's campaign manager, but the resubmissionists in the President's official family have been banking on such an outcome to clinch their argument for his acceptance of a referendum plank.

Ohio Wets Win by Wide Margin.

Columbus, O., May 11.—(AP)—Ohio, birthplace of the Anti-Saloon league, gave its support to foes of prohibition in yesterday's primary election on the face of returns nearly complete tonight.

Attorney General Gilbert Bettman easily won the Republican nomination for senator on an anti-prohibition platform, leading Louis J. Taber, dry, master of the National Grange, by about 55,000 votes. Next November Bettman will face Robert J. Bulkley, wet Democratic incumbent, who was renominated without opposition.

David S. Ingalls, assistant secretary of the navy for aeronautics, who made repeal his issue, won the Republican gubernatorial nomination from Secretory of State Clarence J. Brown, dry, and his nearest opponent in a four cornered race. Ingalls will run in November against Gov. White, Democrat, who favors a prohibition referendum.

DEMOCRATIC VOTE EXCELS REPUBLICAN IN ALASKA PRIMARY

Juneau, Alaska, May 11.—(AP)—Outvoting Republicans for the first time since 1918, Alaska Democrats have elected five national convention delegates instructed to vote for the nomination of Franklin D. Roosevelt. A sixth contest remained to be settled between a Roosevelt backer and uninstructed candidates.

With only about 1,200 more votes to be received from isolated settlements, the Democrats polled 4,929 votes to 4,173 for the Republicans.

George Grigsby of Ketchikan, Democratic delegate to congress during President Wilson's term, was defeated for nomination to that position this year by Anthony J. Dimond, Valdez attorney, who will oppose the veteran Republican delegate, James Wickersham, in the fall election. Wickersham, who has served seven terms, was unopposed for the Republican nomination.

The big Democratic vote was attributed to dissatisfaction among Indians, who heretofore voted almost solidly Republican.

The Republicans' two national delegates, unopposed in the primary, will vote for Hoover's renomination.

YOUNG TO ATTEND SMITH POWWOW OF DEMOCRATS

His Status as Candidate Stumps Oracles.

New York, May 11.—[Special.]—The political checker board in these parts is becoming more checkered every day. The latest move to mystify persons on the outside of the "inside" circles centers around the personality of Owen D. Young, head of the General Electric company and equally responsible with Charles G. Dawes for the Dawes-Young reparations plan.

Mr. Young has been mentioned for the Democratic Presidential nomination and until the last few days it had been thought that he would not accept the nomination.

Today it became noised about that Mr. Young is becoming chummy with the forces trying to block the Roosevelt movement. He is to be the honor guest next Tuesday night at a dinner at the Metropolitan club at which the hosts will be Alfred E. Smith, erstwhile Democratic candidate; John W. Davis, likewise former candidate, and John J. Raskob, present chairman of the Democratic national committee. Mr. Smith is an avowed aspirant against Gov. Franklin D. Roosevelt, and Raskob is hand in glove with Smith.

Merely a Testimonial.

The Roosevelt forces have contended right along that Owen Young would not enter the race. Even in the face of the plans for the big Young pow wow, Roosevelt supporters profess to see no danger to their leader's cause. They appear to accept the public explanation that the dinner is merely a personal testimonial to Mr. Young and will be used also to promote the campaign for funds to wipe out the million dollar deficit of the Democratic national committee.

Mr. Young threw a fresh scare into the camp of the Roosevelt followers tonight when he issued a statement approving of Senator Robinson's bill to provide $2,000,000 bonds for a federal public works program to relieve unemployment. In this statement, Mr. Young indicated an active interest in the pending political problems which may or may not mean that he is getting ready to throw his hat into the ring. The Roosevelt boomers continue to believe that Mr. Young will not permit consideration of his name for the nomination.

Wet Republican Plank.

The New York Republicans also are staging a little party of their own. They accept the renomination of President Hoover as inevitable, but they do not think they must swallow a dry platform without a murmur. Hence the executive committee of the New York Republican county committee tomorrow will report favorably a resolution which, if adopted, is to be filed with the resolutions committee at the Republican national convention, calling for repeal of the 18th amendment, with a request that the proposal be adopted by two-thirds vote in congress and referred back to county conventions in the several states for ratification.

The Republican leaders in New York county realize that the demand may prove embarrassing to the President and to the national party leaders at the convention, since the repeal plank would be out of keeping with utterances Mr. Hoover would be likely to make on prohibition in his campaign for reelection, but the action of the Republican county committee, it was explained tonight, is essential to put the local organization right with the voters in this city.

The New Yorkers believe the wet victory in the G. O. P. primaries in Ohio will make a resubmission plank more probable.

Belgian Drys Defeat Move to Ease Strict Liquor Laws

BRUSSELS, May 11.—(AP)—Belgium's "drys" have won their battle with the "wets" to prevent modification of the country's liquor laws. They defeate damendments to the present strict laws which would have made purchase and consumption of liquor an easier matter than is now the case.

BRUENING HINTS EUROPE HAS PACT TO FIGHT DEBTS

Says Cancellation Alone Can Save World.

BY SIGRID SCHULTZ.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

BERLIN, May 11.—"Full cancellation of all political debts alone can rescue the world from social and economic misery and form the basis for new progress," Chancellor Bruening told the reichstag today. "I am firmly convinced that after political debts are canceled all countries, including creditor countries, will be better off. The citizens of all countries involved, be they workers or employers, will benefit by the improvement."

Although Bruening did not mention European war debts to America, the reichstag is convinced that these were also included in his call for cancellation and that the chancellor's appeal was made on the strength of an agreement reached with the premiers of France, Italy, and England during their Geneva conversations recently.

Hints at Agreement.

Bruening stressed that the governments with whom he is negotiating to prepare the way for the Lausanne conference on reparations next month realize that Germany cannot resume payment at the expiration of the Hoover moratorium.

"Some of them cling to the hope that Germany will be able to make a final payment later," he said. "There is no reason to surmise that this will be possible. Only a few days ago an American politician said it is impossible to pay debts in gold as long as 70 per cent of the world's gold is in the hands of France and the United States. Prohibitive tariffs make the sale of goods to obtain gold almost impossible. The result is the collapse of credit."

The chancellor admitted that Germany has also restricted imports, but upon the "advice and sometimes even the undignified pressure of Germany's creditors, who withdrew their short term loans from Germany last year.

Willing to End Tariff War.

"Germany's measures for restricting imports are being kept as tame as it is possible to do without endangering the stability of her currency," he said. "We are willing to cancel them as soon as others abandon prohibitive tariffs and reëstablish freedom of trade, but we will not do anything that could endanger the currency of the country."

Besides cancellation of political debts, restoration of equality of armaments among nations is necessary to enable the world to surmount the economic crisis, Bruening said.

"We reject the idea of a new race for armaments," he declared. "We demand that the armaments of others be brought down to the same scale as those we were forced to accept."

Answers Fascist Attacks.

Answering attacks on the government by the Fascists, Bruening said his cabinet wants to rebuild industry and protect middle sized and small enterprises built on personal initiative. Plans for settlements of the unemployed in the country have been completed and will be started as soon as "financial problems involved are settled cleanly and clearly," he said.

Bruening warned the Fascists that they "would never be able to keep all the promises made to the voters. I tell the German people the real truth of the situation. We are close to a settlement of the reparations question. We must remain calm in the last 100 yards before reaching our goal."

HEIRESS AND HER BROTHER SUE FOR ESTATE OF 1849

Mrs. Marie Meehl, 2353 Newcastle avenue, has learned that she must await the outcome of a lawsuit before collecting on the California estate she first heard about ten days ago.

Mrs. Meehl, who was formerly Clarisa Bona Auerswald, was found by Al Little, investigator in the county clerk's office, at the request of her brother, Seawell Augustus Auerswald, Redwood City, Cal., who she had not seen in 22 years. Auerswald explained in a letter that their maternal grandfather, a forty-niner, willed half of his estate to his widow and half to his daughter, Augusta von Winkler. The daughter married Otto Carl Auerswald, a nephew of President von Hindenburg of Germany, in Breslau, Germany, Nov. 4, 1900, according to the letter.

Seawell Auerswald, son of Otto Carl, said the forty-niner's estate was sold by his grandmother without his mother's consent and that the records of the San Bernardino county court show the deed is still in the Winkler name. Suit has been started, with Attorney H. Meyer Simborg representing Mrs. Meehl, to recover half of the estate—their mother's share—for Mrs. Meehl and her brother. The estate consists of a 350 acre orange grove value at $1,800 an acre.

ENDS OWN LIFE IN HOME.

Joseph Jeblinski, 60 years old, ended his life yesterday by slashing his throat in the basement of his home at 1939 Evergreen avenue. Relatives told police that he was despondent over the loss of his life's savings, $5,000, in a bank failure.

Royalty Gathers as France Buries Slain President Today

PARIS, May 11.—(AP)—The funeral procession of Paul Doumer, late beloved "father-president" of France who was slain by an assassin's bullet last week, began from the presidential palace at 7:55 a. m. today and began its journey to Notre Dame cathedral.

PARIS, May 11.—(AP)—A king, a president, an heir to the throne of an empire, and two royal princes will take part tomorrow in the funeral procession of the humbly born Paul Doumer, assassinated president of France.

The funeral services will be held in Notre Dame cathedral, in which Napoleon was crowned. Then the body will be taken to the steps of the Pantheon, where Premier Andre Tardieu will eulogize the late president.

Prince Paul of Jugo-Slavia, the duke of Aosta of Italy, and the prince of Wales arrived today to take part in the funeral. King Albert of the Belgians arrived tonight. Ambassador Edge will represent the United States.

The German government is sending a special ambassador. Four of M. Doumer's sons lost their lives fighting the German armies.

The funeral procession will leave the Elysee palace at 8 a. m. In it will march war veterans, diplomats, and the chief mourner of France, Albert Lebrun, who yesterday succeeded M. Doumer as president.

Body to Pantheon.

After the religious service at Notre Dame, at which Cardinal Verdier, archbishop of Paris, will preside, the body will be borne through the Latin quarter to the Pantheon. At the conclusion of the services there troops will be reviewed and the catafalque will remain on view for the rest of the day.

In the evening burial will take place at the Doumer family vault at Vaugirard cemetery.

Paul Gorguloff, the president's assassin, was taken before a magistrate today for questioning about his personal history. He mumbled prayers on his way from Sante prison.

"Everybody is against me," Gorguloff said in a recess during the examination. "In Czechoslovakia I am denounced by the 'Whites' as a soviet spy, and now I am accused by the bolsheviks as a 'White.' Vive la France! Vive la France!"

After the examination the police disclosed that the man is working night and day in his cell writing an account of the slaying and the events which led up to it. They said the manuscript had no appearance of having been written under a strain.

Much speculation is evident, meantime, as to France's next government, to be formed June 4. Neither a left cartel nor a left and center coalition, but a transitional radical cabinet may be formed as a stopgap until the new chamber of deputies gets its bearings the newspaper Le Matin predicted today.

Question Doumer's Insurance.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 11.—London underwriters are making inquiries as to circumstances in which the $125,000 accident and life insurance policy—extended to cover assassination—was taken out by Dutch interests on the life of the late French president, Paul Doumer. The policy was taken out eleven months ago and had only one more month to run. The premium paid was $350.

DE VALERA CUTS OFFICIALS' PAY, LEVIES HIGH TAX

Bachelors' Rates Raised; Eases Up on Beer.

BY HUGH CURRAN.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

DUBLIN, Irish Free State, May 11.—Sean MacEntee, finance minister, today presented the first budget of the new Free State government which fulfilled expectations that it would carry out President Eamon de Valera's rigorous financial policy.

The estimates included a heavier income tax at the British rate of 25 per cent [92 cents in $3.67 or 5 shillings in the pound] with severe taxes on bachelors and surtaxes on high incomes. A new tax was placed on dance halls. The duty on tobacco was increased 100 per cent, though Irish grown tobacco is not taxed.

A new tax was placed on certain newspapers and magazines whose front pages do not exceed 320 square inches. The tax is three cents a copy with British preference of two cents, and is intended to benefit Irish printers and writers.

Tea, hitherto free, is to be taxed four pence [8 cents] a pound but the sugar tax was removed. With a view to helping the smaller breweries the standard tax on beer was reduced by $1.25 a barrel. Forty-three articles will be subject to new or increased duties, particularly protecting small Irish industries.

Salaries and allowances to persons in the public services were reduced. These cuts will help the exchequer by $1,400,000. MacEntee announced that a commission would investigate conditions in the public service and he hoped that a further $500,000 could be saved, which would balance the amount provided for poor relief.

A tax of 25 per cent on the Irish Hospital's share of the sweepstakes proceeds, is expected to yield $3,750,000.

To reduce unemployment the government hoped to make available for housing purposes $5,000,000 which would create employment by September and $750,000 which would be made immediately available for the alleviation of distress. Ultimately $10,000,000 will be provided and much of this will be borrowed.

Tax On Capital Invested Abroad.

One source of new revenue, the minister said, would be a tax on Irish capital invested abroad or frozen at home. He said he would give opportunity to people owning such wealth to disclose it to authorities and will make easy conditions.

Resolutions to make the duties operative were passed and the Dail Eireann adjourned until tomorrow, when the general principles of the budget will be discussed. Lobby comment on the budget was that it is daring and even revolutionary but if successful will be a tribute to the new government, particularly in view of an expected budgetary deficit of $12,845,000.

Thomas Serves Ultimatum.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 11.—The British government is not prepared to enter into any fiscal agreements with the Irish Free State at the Ottawa conference if the Free State government passes the bill abolishing the oath of allegiance to the king.

Political circles in London draw this inference from the statement to the house of commons today by Dominions Secretary J. H. Thomas.

"The provisions contained in the bill to abolish the oath are in direct conflict with the obligation undertaken by the Irish Free State under the treaty of 1921," Thomas said, "and it appears to his majesty's government that if the bill becomes a law it will be unreasonable to expect that they should enter into negotiations for further agreement with a government which thus has repudiated an agreement already entered into."

Regarded as a Foreign Power.

The general feeling tonight was that the statement was a definite ultimatum to President Eamon de Valera that if the oath is abolished the Irish Free State will be regarded by Great Britain as a foreign power for all commercial and trade purposes. The effect of this would be that regarding tariffs the Free State after Nov. 15 would be ineligible for any imperial preference that may be decided on at Ottawa. The government's decision does not bind the dominions in any way, and their reaction remains to be seen.

Whealan Seeks Business Man for Tax Appeals Board

L. Jacobs. The new member will be named within a few days, he said. Gov. Emmerson also will appoint a member of the board.

EASTERN GROUP INSISTS IT WILL VISIT KENTUCKY

After Injunction to Aid Mine Field Survey.

BY TOM PETTEY.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Harrisburg, Pa., May 11.—[Special.]—The delegation of the American Civil Liberties union, en route to the Kentucky mine region to investigate strike and unemployment conditions, expressed confidence tonight that it would achieve its objective despite threats of violence if its members entered Bell or Harlan counties.

"We know they are bluffing, and we have called their bluff," said Arthur Garfield Hays, the New York attorney who is shepherding the group of radical minded lawyers and educators into the forbidden territory.

"We hope to obtain a federal injunction from Judge A. M. J. Cochran tomorrow in London, Ky., and do not anticipate trouble of any kind."

Insists They'll Go.

"But we will go on into Harlan and Bell counties regardless of the outcome of our injunction plea," interrupted Dudley Field Malone, second in command.

"That's right," responded Mr. Hays, "we'll see what it's all about."

There were eight members of the delegation that left New York and the group will grow to twelve or fifteen before the actual "invasion" begins. The union "shock troops," who deny they are communists, but who represent an organization frequently identified with communistic endeavors, intend to hold a "great mass-meeting" somewhere in "the vicinity of Pineville on Thursday or Friday, regardless of the outcome of the legal pleas for protection."

Mr. Malone apparently was more interested in establishing the right to travel through Kentucky and stop off at will than in the organization of unions for the miners.

"We are going to Kentucky," he said, "without prejudice toward any one. We are neither communists nor radicals, but we know that communism only prospers when the workers are denied the rights of peaceful assembly, organization and free speech guaranteed by our laws. We are concerned with no propaganda of any kind."

Mr. Hays and Mr. Malone insist that communism is not involved.

Letters Made Public.

A copy of a series of letters exchanged between Mr. Hays and Walter B. Smith, Bell county prosecutor, which have been offered by Mr. Hays as a part of his plea to Judge Cochran for protection were made public today. They indicate that the eastern delegation will not be welcomed in Kentucky and will not be admitted to the mining region regardless of avowals of "non-communistic membership." A letter to Mr. Hays from Mr. Smith dated April 15, states:

"If a mad dog has a constitutional right to run rampant in Bell county biting people and scattering hydrophobia, then the American Civil Liberties union has the same right. But—just as we would suppress the mad dog, we also will suppress this un-American union, in spite of its deathbed call for the protection of a document which it despises and traduces. That document will not serve you in Bell county as a cloak for the iniquities of your organization."

Mr. Hays replied in a letter charging that, "persons with groups who have gone to Pineville have been flogged and maltreated by mobs," and advised Mr. Smith that he was asking for a federal injunction.

Prosecutor Smith came right back, writing: "We dare you to come under the veiled camouflage of your pretense of constitutional rights. You are a Godless, nondescript, iconoclastic minority of grandiloquent egotists who arrogate to yourself the right to meddle—in other people's business. It is now time for you to put up or shut up."

Lawyer Hays again replied that he was not a communist and not in sympathy with all communistic methods, but that the delegation was coming on to make its own investigation of affairs in the mining regions of Kentucky.

"Just One More Smell."

To this Prosecutor Smith replied: "To Bell county you and your self-appointed committee are just one more nauseating smell. We have had several. First there was Theodore Dreiser and we almost lost our appetites. Then there came Frank Borich and we completely lost it. We regained some strength, however, by the time Waldo Frank and his aids arrived, enough to gently, but firmly, spew them across the borders and we have spewed twice since. We might say that our capacity for spewing is not exhausted when our stomachs are assailed by bad odors. All roads lead to Pineville and some roads lead from it."

Besides Mr. Hays and Mr. Malone the party includes Dr. Ernest Sutherland Bates, editor; Robert S. Keebler, attorney; Jesse C. Duke, attorney; the Rev. Charles C. Webber of Union Theological seminary, Grover G. Sales of Louisville, Ky., former Circuit judge, and Dr. John R. Neal of Knoxville, Tenn., will join the group at London, Ky., for the hearing before Judge Cochran.

16 SERBIAN OFFICERS ARE SEIZED IN PLOT TO OVERTHROW KING

VIENNA, May 11.—(AP)—Sensational reports last night that King Alexander of Jugo-Slavia had fled the country in the midst of a military revolt apparently were based on the arrest of sixteen officers of the army for insubordination, it developed today.

The affair was serious enough, however, to cause Minister of War Stojanovic to go to Marburg, the scene of the insubordination. The officers, including a colonel, were brought to Belgrade for court martial.

Special dispatches to Vienna newspapers amplified these details considerably. The correspondent of the Reichspost said military officers were arrested at several garrisons besides Marburg and that one Marburg officer committed suicide and another attempted to end his life.

Officials at Belgrade insisted, however, that the affair was due merely to "personal" differences between the officers and a superior. The official news agency issued a communique which said:

"The reports which have circulated abroad concerning alleged disorders in Jugo-Slavia are completely without foundation and wholly biased in nature."

CITY WINS FIGHT TO GET RECORDS OF GAS PIPE LINE

Commerce Board Orders Cost Figures Shown.

After a bitter contest between attorneys for the Peoples Gas Light and Coke company and the city of Chicago, the Illinois commerce commission yesterday granted the city's motion to compel the gas company to produce separate blance sheets and monthly operating statements of the Natural Gas Pipe Line company and for the Texoma Natural Gas company.

The decision was regarded as a minor victory for the city in its contention that lower gas rates than the present charges should be applied to the new natural-manufactured gas mixture. More than 600,000 gas consumers are concerned in the hearing.

Fictitious Values Charged.

Production of accounts showing the investment and operating costs of the two companies which bring natural gas to the Chicago area from the Texas fields had been resisted by gas company attorneys on the ground that the data in the form sought was irrelevant to the litigation. Assistant Corporation Counsel Joseph Grossman had charged that fictitious values were placed in the gas leases and that an audit of the books of the two companies would indicate the need of a possible reduction in gas rates to consumers.

The actual value of the properties may be determined, according to Mr. Grossman, by ascertaining what was paid by the Standard Oil company of New Jersey in acquiring a fourth interest in the pipe line company. The pipe line company now transmits the natural gas from Gray, Okla., to Joliet, whence it is distributed to the Peoples Gas, the Public Service, and the Western United Gas and Electric companies.

Estimates Are Made.

The approximate average cost of $45 an acre for the 330,000 acres of natural gas property is too high, Mr. Grossman said. He declared that a determination of what cash or checks actually were paid in by the Standard Oil company for its 25 per cent interest would represent the actual investment.

In its decision, the commerce commission said that the information desired might not be material but that the commissioners were actuated by a desire to afford the parties in the case every opportunity to get what evidence was needed.

Attorney Francis Daly, counsel for the gas company, said the information sought by the city would be provided within a few days.

U. S. RUSHING TO TAX CRISIS, SAYS COL. McCORMICK

Officeholders Are Seizing Dearly Won Liberty.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Madison, Wis., May 11.—[Special.]—The plentiful life of America is imperiled, a message from Col. Robert R. McCormick, publisher of THE TRIBUNE, told the officers and members of the Wisconsin Chamber of Commerce here today.

Officeholders have become rulers and threaten to impoverish the nation was the warning note of Col. McCormick's address. It was read by Dr. W. A. Ganfield, president of Carroll college, Waukesha. Col. McCormick had accepted the chamber's invitation provisionally upon his being able to fly from Chicago. All morning a heavy fog wrapped that city and at noon he was compelled to notify the officers of the chamber he would not be able to be present.

Tax Laws Bleed Nation.

"The process of bleeding to death has been going on in this country under existing tax laws," Col. McCormick wrote in his address on the fall of liberty.

"How much will it be accelerated if proposed taxes are adopted? I prophesy that the imposts set up in the house bill cannot be raised in this country for even one year."

Col. McCormick closed with the warning that, having exhausted industry and by further taxation of industry created still further unemployment, the next step would be millions of unemployed and insufficient money extortable by taxation with which to buy them food.

"The country will then be faced by the alternative—'Shall the unemployed starve or shall food be provided for them, and since money will not be available to buy, shall it be requisitioned from the farms as in Russia?'

Example in New Zealand.

"Will the farmers resist such a requisition," Col. McCormick asked, "and will they be able to? If they do, will the government expropriate the farms for the workmen as they already have expropriated the industries, ostensibly for workmen and farmers, and if so, will our population, based upon a complicated industrial system, be able to return to the status of European peasantry, directed and dominated by the ruling class of officeholders from which our forefathers escaped, without widespread famine, starvation, and bloody insurrection such as is under way this moment in New Zealand, the country whose political doctrines long have furnished the example followed by the radical leaders in Wisconsin?

"The crisis is rushing upon us. The nerve center of that movement which seeks to put the nation in slavery to an officeholding class by the confiscation of private property should be warned before it is too late."

Following the address of Col. McCormick and a talk by Edward L. Kelley, executive director of the Wisconsin Taxpayers' alliance, the state chamber of commerce went down the line for government economy in state and nation by adopting resolutions not only to block further state interference with business but to take the state out of nonessential enterprises in which it is already enrolled.

No Relief for Jobless in Sight.

"We are greatly worried with the problem of unemployment," Col. McCormick's address began. "Millions of our fellow citizens, seeking it, cannot find work. Many industrious and thrifty people have expended or are expending the savings of a lifetime with no relief in sight. We are sorely troubled and confused because this problem is unknown to us. Only the middle aged and the old can remember such a situation. And to the middle aged the memory of the hard times of '93 is gilded by the recollection of the great recovery of '96.

"Only our travelers have seen such want, and more. They tell us that misery, disease, and starvation are the common lot in that vast fraction of the world known as the orient.

"All of North Africa, all of Asia Minor, all of Russia, all of Persia, Afghanistan, and the various countries of Asia are and always have been in a chronic state of want. Eastern Europe is not much better even today, while tolerable conditions for the many only reached western Europe toward the end of the last century in consequence of American development.

Slavery Base of Old Civilizations.

"The civilizations of Europe rose from the conquests of the dark ages. The savage conquerors were rulers; the conquered, slaves deprived of all rights, whose existence was on sufferance. They were ignored to such an extent that literature deals exclusively with the ruling classes. Only from fragments and from folklore, like the story of Robin Hood, do we glean the condition of the mass of mankind—oppressed, cringing, resentful, revengeful. We do not even know whether the word beggar used to mean mendicant or holdup man. It is uncertain whether the word translated by 'thief' as applied to the men crucified with Christ really meant rebel or rioter.

"Such is the social and economic history of Europe at the time of the migration to this continent.

Skill as Great Then as Now.

"Life was not hard because of a lack of machinery or of skilled workmen. The magnificent castles and cathedrals, unequaled in modern times, negative the idea. Nor can we show any superiority in working in metals or in wood over craftsmen of the middle ages. A visit to any museum will indicate that sufficient skill was shown to produce such mechanical articles as the rulers found necessary.

"The advantages of human achievement were denied to the multitude by the design, the indifference, and interference of the governing classes, who in turn were deprived of the natural abilities of the underprivileged. Poverty for the common lot was taken as a matter of course, while wealth displayed itself by excessive dressing in contrast to the common nakedness and in gross adiposity as a reaction against the general condition of semi-starvation.

Forefathers Fled Bureaucrats.

"Everywhere in Europe was enterprise checked by social stratification and by bureaucratic repression. Therefore it was to escape from suffering that our forefathers endured the horrors of the ocean voyage in unseaworthy cockleshells to uncharted coasts. The inhospitable shores of America were less fertile than the soil left behind, but on them was found an incentive denied at home—the incentive of hope.

"Admitting that the first years in the new country were inescapably hard, still the developments of the one hundred and fifty years from the early settlement to the revolution were microscopic compared to those that followed. Only after the revolution did opportunity become fairly free for the individual.

"The early charters show that the rulers of Europe everywhere intended to transplant their institutions to this continent.

Search for Liberty Widens.

"It was therefore in further search for liberty that settlers in the southern colonies crossed the Appalachian mountain barrier and came into conflict with the soldiers of the French monarchy before the revolutionary war. Later the refusal of the English governing class to permit settlements west of the mountains raised the southern colonies in revolt, just as interference with trade as well as taxation inflamed those of the north and east.

"It is important to note that the colonials refused the offices created to carry out the tax laws of parliament. They were not members of the officeholding class.

"The American revolution emancipated the average man. The spirit of the Declaration of Independence gradually permeated social and political thought. The political reforms of Jefferson were copied in the other states. Hope and ambition replaced despair and resentment. The great rise in civilization began.

Constitution Foundation of Growth.

"While the revolution freed the people, the constitution furnished a necessary but wisely limited influence of government, the first one conceived for the benefit of the ruled, under which they repulsed the English invasions, curbed the savages, expelled the Spanish, French, and Mexicans, settled the land, opened the mines, built the factories, laid out the railroads, devised legal and financial methods for trade and industry, and overcame the plagues.

"American commerce covered the oceans. American pioneers flocked across the mountain barrier, spread over the plains, bridged the rivers, penetrated the western deserts, took possession of the Alaskas and the Hawaiian islands, and before the spirit of recession set in captured the Philippine islands and freed and educated their natives.

Comforts Brought to All.

"Americans who remained in place were no less enterprising than the merchants and the pioneers. Inventions multiplied for the benefit of mankind. So prolific were the liberated minds that they produced for all countless instruments for the amelioration of conditions that were improvements upon and additions to those which the historically privileged had developed for themselves alone.

"The fireplace, first converted into the stove, became the furnace, the kitchen range, the gas range, the electric stove. The tallow candle was displaced by kerosene, by gas, by electric lights. The besom became broom, carpet sweeper, vacuum cleaner.

"The ballad singers gave place to street fairs, show boats, tent shows, and the theater. Today the movie and the talkie take the highest art into the lowliest hamlets.

Education Becomes General.

"The hand press and hand typesetting have been replaced in turn by the horse press, the steam press, the motor driven press, the linotype, and the stereotype. Reading, once the privilege of the exclusive few, is practically free for the multitude, while the industry furnishes employment to greater numbers than the total literate population of a previous generation.

"The Emperor Napoleon was served by a telegraph system of semaphores. Today every American has the use of the electric telegraph and the telephone.

"On the farm the hand pump had so long given way to the wooden windmill, to the steel windmill, to the gasoline engine, and the electric motor that many of us had to travel to France as soldiers to find out that 'the Old Oaken Bucket' was not merely a song. Over there in defending or taking the French chateaux we found out that the 'sons and daughters of a hundred earls' possessed fewer creative comforts than American farmers and skilled workmen.

"Only a few in Europe can afford motor transportation; American tramps scour the country in automobiles.

"An extraordinary revolution, so long accomplished as to be forgotten, was that agricultural machinery and railroads with their adjuncts, cattle cars and refrigeration, made farming a money earning enterprise for the first time in the history of the world, and also raised the masses of Europe from their condition of semi-starvation.

"How is it that such a magic rise in the lot of mankind was stopped and has been definitely headed back to the previous condition of want and misery?

"In the early days of American freedom, before its fruit had been produced, public life absorbed the men of greatest talents and raised the art of government to undreamed heights. However, as opportunity spread and larger and wider fields of usefulness and activities revealed themselves, brilliant men came to seek intellectual outlet in invention, in science, in finance, and business activity, while the offices of government fell more and more into the control of men not capable of the larger mental and spiritual activities.

Politicians Multiply Bureaus.

"When evils were perceived among the great blessings of our institutions—evils which loomed large in the altruistic imagination of the American people, but which in fact were Lilliputian compared with the oppressions from which our people had escaped and which the people of Europe were accepting as unavoidable—those manipulating political power could find no cure except by a slavish imitation of European governmental methods. Upon a people newly escaped from the curse of a ruling class were heaped department upon department, bureau upon bureau.

"After the department of the interior came a department of justice, a civil service commission, an interstate commerce commission, a department of agriculture, a department of commerce, a bureau of forestry, a department of labor, the federal reserve board, the federal trade commission, the national advisory commission for aeronautics, the employés' compensation commission, the tariff commission, and the federal board for vocational education, the prohibition department, the farm board, and others.

Constitution to I. C. C. in 100 Years.

"Just one hundred years after the adoption of our constitution was created the interstate commerce commission, perhaps the most cancerous growth of all our governmental tumors.

"Time today or even this month would not permit even an outline of the many subterfuges by which the American taxpayer is robbed.

"But listen to this: '. . . we have a bureau of animal industry. Among its various duties is the duty of inspecting meat which is shipped to the people by those killing steers, and sheep, and other live stock. . . . It so happens that last year four or five small concerns wanted to go into the business of selling meat, and before they could go into that business they had to have certain plans for the building of their plants and certain machinery and certain restrictions surrounding their industry, all approved by the bureau of animal industry. This before they could sell a pound of meat.

Plants Built—Can't Operate.

"'After these gentlemen had built their plants, installed their machinery, and had it all approved by the federal government, the bureau of animal industry served notice upon them that they could not sell any meat anyhow. The bureau of animal industry said that congress had failed to appropriate sufficient money to permit an inspector to be placed at these points where meats had to be inspected.

"'But these men said: "The Big 4 packing establishments have between them upwards of 600 meat inspectors. We only require one for all our activities." The bureau said it was powerless to act and could not give them an inspector. Therefore, after all the plants in question were constructed at a cost of many thousands of dollars, those men were told that they could not actually engage in business when they had done everything the law required them to do.

None to Inspect—Plenty to Arrest.

"'Finally, upon my own responsibility, I told the men to go ahead and sell the meat because the delinquency was that of the government and not theirs: that they had in every way complied with the law, and that, in my judgment, no jury in the world would convict them when the government, and not they, was at fault. They went ahead and sold the meat. The first carload that went into a neighboring state was seized by the policemen of the government, and those men were haled into court charged with the crime of selling meat which was not inspected by the government.

"'I immediately took the matter up again with the proper authorities, and I found that while they did not have money enough to supply an inspector for those meat plants, they did have money enough to have four or five policemen to catch anybody who violated the law. I suggested that they do away with one policeman and appoint one inspector with the money, which was done after a delay of over three months in permitting these small packing establishments to operate.'

Not a Fairy Tale, a Story of U. S.

"Is this a tale from the 'Arabian Nights'? Is it an incident from the reign of Louis XIV.? Is it, perchance, a story of soviet Russia? No, it is taken from a recent experience in this country told by Senator Millard E. Tydings of Maryland, as quoted by Sterling E. Edmunds in his splendid work—'The Federal Octopus.' It is entirely typical of the branches and bureaus of the government from which corruption and crime are at present covered from investigation by the full force of the government.

"Inevitably usurpation of government met resistance in a free press. The old war for freedom of utterance has been reopened. In Illinois and Ohio the courts upheld the constitution. But in Minnesota the European minded Supreme court of that state upheld a statute to destroy the freedom of the press, and we had to obtain a reversal of a decision contravening the first amendment of the federal constitution from the Supreme court of the United States.

Court Becomes Star Chamber.

"Since then a court in North Dakota has assumed over the press the powers of the star chamber of England. This has been appealed to the Supreme court of that state and we are waiting watchfully to see if in that jurisdiction concepts of governmental dictatorship alien to our traditions must again be overturned in the Supreme court of the United States.

"Nor need I tell you that your legislature has passed, and your executive officers are holding over the heads of the people, a law as tyrannous as anything in the history of freedom since James II. prosecuted the seven bishops.

"Is it more than a coincidence that the three greatest attacks on political freedom have been made in adjoining states?

Public Servants Become Rulers.

"The great prizes of public life are foreign appointments, which have been provided in increasing flood, both for the bureaucracy, the senatocracy, and the housocracy. In Europe they learn that, whatever the theoretic form of government, the officials are not public servants, but rulers. This status becomes the ambition of returned officeholders who join with the ever increasing tribe of foreign diplomats, always the social leaders in Washington, to give the capitol an old world tone.

"In consequence official Washington has developed all the mentality and much of the formalism of the aristocratic court that ruled France. Men are not designated by their names but by their titles. In addition to 'the President,' 'the secretary,' 'the senator,' and 'the congressman,' with their special privileges before the law and distinguishing badges, we find 'the superintendent of docks and yards,' 'the director of the census,' 'the commissioners of the district.' We even read of 'the bootlegger of the senate.'

Nepotism Grows Hereditary.

"A bureau of the protocol has been organized in the state department to determine the relative rank of our political hierarchy and to specify the ceremonies of an aristocratic society. Nepotism in government office is approaching the status of hereditary incumbency, and the senate has traveled far to the election of its own membership. So numerous have public employés become, so powerful behind their bulwark of civil service, that they and not the people of the nation dominate the congress and the executives.

"We have so many offices, appointive and elective, that obtaining office is both a profession and an occupation, so exacting upon its members as to leave them no leisure with which to engage in other occupation or even to learn about the necessities of civil life and of national economics; they just do not know what is going on outside their own officialdom.

Officeholding a Profession.

"The recreation and emoluments of the bureaucracy being officeholding, their occupation is politics. Power is maintained by the perfection of political machines operating behind some simple emotion.

"Quite naturally, and very usefully, the desire for general welfare was long the successful platform of politics. The earliest political recollections of many of us are the appeals to 'the full dinner pail,' reminiscences of the reaction against the hard times of 1893.

"However, as the hard times of '93 fell farther and farther into the background this appeal began to lose its charm. Another emotion was appealed to, one older than Iago, as old as Cain—the feeling of envy. Not the elevation of the lowly, but the tearing down of the well-to-do has been the alibi behind political manipulation in recent decades.

Appeal Now to Class Against Class.

"In different sections of the country different appeals to envy and hatred have been made. Where you meet today the appeal has been made to the farmer against industry, to the newly arrived citizen against the older, who furnished him his opportunity, his land, and his political power.

"Immigrants from continental Europe, with no experience in self-government, are easily led to direct their old world hostility to social superiors, against the Americans who preceded them here. Untrained in self-reliance, they are easily persuaded to rely upon officeholders rather than upon themselves.

"While the officeholders have been the officers, the unassimilated have been the mass in the attacks on the American way of life.

Faults Prove Own Undoing.

"Politically, they have been all successful; economically, their accomplishment has been like a Greek tragedy. Their own faults have led to their undoing. Having vindictively destroyed the existing marketing machinery, having seized five hundred million dollars of their people's money to finance a food soviet, they have brought the price of farm commodities down to the levels obtaining before America created free institutions.

"The tax raisers in our Capital city and elsewhere, very few of whom have produced any wealth of any kind in any way, think an income is like a flowing artesian well; that the fortunate possessor of an income has somehow come into possession of a running stream, smaller or greater in size, and all that the beneficiaries of government taxation have to do is to reach a pipe into the well, take as much water as they want, and leave the owner as little as may be.

Too Great Drain Kills Source.

"Now, unfortunately for the tax raiser and his victim, that is not the case. A better analogy would be the example of the sugar maple tree or the turpentine pine. About them we know that by a proper and conservative form of farming the trees may be tapped for maple sap, or for turpentine, up to a certain point, but beyond that the tree will cease to grow, and beyond that it shrivels and dies.

"An even closer comparison is found at Rochester, in Minnesota, where is an industry supplying human blood to the hospitals. Through long experience the doctors know that they can take a certain amount of blood from a healthy man without affecting his health; the sick can get the benefit of his strength and he may complete his normal years, but beyond that, either slowly or fast, they bleed him to death.

Bleeding Nation to Death.

"That process of bleeding to death has been going on in this country under the existing tax laws. How much will it be accelerated if the proposed taxes are adopted! I prophesy that the imposts set up in the house bill cannot be raised in this country for even one year. In other words, the taxes proposed will not balance the budget because the blood givers will sicken so fast that they cannot supply the government at all.

"The tax raisers, living in semi-idleness on other people's money, assume that income flows constantly and continuously. It does not.

"A lawyer, for instance, goes through the equivalent of a period of apprenticeship during which he works for a bare subsistence while he establishes a practice and a reputation, and then, at the maturity of his intellect and toward the end of his active life, he has a few prosperous, perhaps very prosperous, years.

Robbed of Fruits of Lifework.

"I knew a great lawyer who once received a fee of $400,000, up to which time he had made no more than a living. That great fee came during the period of war taxes, and, although his case had nothing to do with the war or war profiteering, but was the result of long litigation which finally matured at that time, the government took so much of his fee that he died a poor man.

"The same course runs through practically every money making occupation.

"The confiscationists incite the envious against supposed families with large regular incomes from investments, but if I ask you who these are you will find trouble in naming them. The fact is that in this country, with the abolition of primogeniture and the wide and varied course of business activities, wealth has not been handed down from generation to generation.

Wealth Changes Hands Rapidly.

"If you will run through the roster of the big names in industry, commerce, and finance today, and will look back over as short a period as twenty years, you will not find many names repeated. And if you go back to a prior age—say, the period before the panic of 1893—I doubt if in the whole country you will recognize enough names represented in both lists to mark on all the fingers of your two hands.

"The fact is that industrial life is hard, and commercial life is hard. The percentage of success that enterprise, intelligence, application, and hard work can win over all the unknown quantities is not great.

"Every new venture is a gamble and every new day is an adventure. If too much is taken away from the successful ventures the inevitable result is bound to be a preponderance of unsuccessful ventures, and that means stagnation and sterilization.

Taxes Pave Industry's Road to Ruin.

"The taxes piled on industry have risen to the point where industry is on the road to ruin. This was contemplated, but the ruin carries in its train certain unavoidable consequences which were not contemplated.

"The first of these has been the widespread unemployment mentioned in my opening paragraph, which is the result of capital confiscation. To provide for the unemployed the politicians have turned to further taxation on industry, with the resulting consequences of still further unemployment and a decrease in taxes received as earnings have disappeared.

"The next situation which we face is that we will have millions of unemployed and insufficient money extortable by taxation with which to buy them food. The country and its rulers will then be faced by the alternative: Shall the unemployed starve, or shall food be provided for them; and, since money will not be available to buy it, shall it be requisitioned from the farms as in Russia?

Col. McCormick closed with his comment, quoted near the beginning of this dispatch, on the situation in New Zealand.

Abolish Farm Board, Demands Illinois Grain Association

Danville, Ill., May 11.—[Special.]—The Illinois Grain Dealers' association in its closing session here today adopted a resolution to devote the organization's power toward the abolition of the federal farm board, and the repeal of the farm marke ing act.

Three hundred delegates from all over the state pledged their efforts to bring pressure upon their congressmen and senators toward this end. Adoption of the resolution marked the end of two days in which the delegates assailed the operations of the federal farm board, the Stabilization corporation, and the Farmers' National Grain corporation and advocated immediate and complete withdrawal of the government from business.

N. L. Hubbard of Mount Pulaski was reëlected president of the association for the coming year.

Addressed by Dietrich.

William H. Dietrich of Beardstown, congressman at large, made an address in which he ridiculed the federal farm board, the Grain Stabilization corporation, the Farmers' National Grain corporation and other measures intended to give general aid to the farmer.

He charged that these bodies were costing American taxpayers millions annually through unsound business dealings, excessive salaried officials and other discrepancies.

"No measure of prosperity can be expected for business of agriculture until the government is taken completely out of business," he said.

Criticizes Congress.

He bitterly criticized congress for discussing reductions in salaries of low paid postal clerks and other government employés while officials of the stabilization corporation and Farmers' National Grain corporation were paid annual salaries of $50,000 and $70,000. He also charged that these men have operated the government regulated corporations for individual profit.

Meanwhile the taxpayers were forced to make up a deficit of more than 60 cents per bushel resulting from the deals.

RUSSIA REMOVES BAN ON BUYING OF MILK, EGGS, CHEESE, TEA

MOSCOW, May 11.—(AP)—Government restrictions on the purchase of certain articles of food were lifted today, in line with the recent promise that every effort would be exerted to make living conditions more comfortable for the people.

Milk, eggs, cheese, and tea were taken off the ration list, thus removing the limitations on the amount any purchaser might buy. Other important foodstuffs remain on the list. These include flour, bread, meat, herring, butter, oil, and sugar.

Purchase restrictions were taken off all kinds of candies, tinned foods except meat, soap, cigarets, and knitted goods. Regulations covering the sale of men's clothing were made less severe. Although the government decree permits unrestricted purchase of numerous articles, prices are very high and stocks are small.

The decree followed upon lightening of the restrictions on farmers with cattle to sell. Under a new regulation the farmers may dispose of their cattle in retail markets for the rest of this year instead of selling to the government.

ICELAND TAKES FIRST STEP TO END 19 YEARS OF PROHIBITION RULE

REYKJAVIK, Iceland, May 11.—(AP)—Iceland, the only prohibition country in the world aside from the United States, took the initial step today toward restoring liquor. The parliamentary commission prepared a bill to legalize the sale of strong drink within hours to be fixed by local administrations.

Official statistics, showing that the bootleg trade and home brewing are on the increase, have recently been published. Opponents of prohibition have advocated the establishment of a liquor monopoly to be administered by the government.

Prohibition was decreed in Iceland under Danish rule in 1913. In 1916 the parliament passed its own dry law.

URGES SANITY IN GOVERNMENT TO SAVE NATION

Maj. Lorillard Spencer, world war veteran, member of a socially prominent New York family, and former aircraft manufacturer, believes a return to sanity in government is the surest way to lift the country out of the depression. He made this observation last night when he stopped off in Chicago on his way to the Philippines.

Maj. Spencer, with his son, Lorillard Jr., is on his way to see his mother, Mrs. Catherine Spencer, who is recovering from injuries suffered in the typhoon that swept the Philippines ten days ago. Since 1913 Mrs. Spencer has been a leader in the Moro Educational Foundation, which is seeking to promote friendly relations between the Moros and the Filipinos through education. She is stationed at Jolo.

Arouse the Majority.

Maj. Spencer's primary concern at present is to arouse the "inarticulate majority" of the American electorate. With Richard Washburn Child, former ambassador to Italy, and Hugh Milliken, textile manufacturer, he is a founder of the National Action committee. Frank J. Loesch and Albert D. Lasker of Chicago are numbered among the founders. The committee is engaged in sending out hundreds of thousands of post cards, to be mailed by voters to the senators and congressmen from their states and districts.

The cards make these demands upon the legislators at Washington:

"Balance the budget; kill the cash bonus and stop all raids on our treasury; cut government expenses to the bone, but preserve our national defense; enact a fair sales and stamp taxes; amend the Volstead act and tax light wines and beer; pay attention to America first and get out of this mess."

Minorities in Saddle.

"Organized minorities have been in the saddle," said Maj. Spencer. "Cranks and raiders of the treasury continue to blackmail congress through their lobbies.

"It is time for the unorganized wage earners and investors to say something. We must hear from the silent voters. It is the purpose of the National Action committee to give voice to these voters."

W. J. Fallon's Daughter Wins Libel Suit on Film

Syracuse, N. Y., May 11.—(AP)—Perry Spencer, theater manager, was convicted of criminal libel today for exhibiting the motion picture "The Mouthpiece." Sentence will be pronounced tomorrow. The maximums are $500 fine, imprisonment for one year, or both. The charge was brought by Miss Ruth Fallon, 13, who declared the film libeled her father, the late William J. Fallon, noted New York defense counsel. The attorney in the picture, she said, was meant to represent her father in an unsavory light.

TAX WASTE WAR INDORSED IN ALL SECTIONS OF U. S.

Rossetter Urged to Speak in California.

Indorsements of the campaign of the Chicago Association of Commerce to reduce the tax burden on the American people through sharp curtailment of governmental expenditures were received yesterday by George W. Rossetter, president of the association, from all points of the country.

GOV. JAMES ROLPH JR.

Mr. Rossetter received an invitation sent jointly by Gov. James Rolph Jr. of California, Mayor Angelo J. Rossi of San Francisco, and Leland W. Cutler, president of the San Francisco chamber of commerce, to address a meeting of representatives of all the business interests of California in the Golden Gate city on May 16.

All California to Hear.

The invitation indicated Mr. Rossetter's message urging economy in government would be broadcast by every radio station in California, with chambers of commerce, schools, and various civic bodies listening in.

In addition to the California meeting, Mr. Rossetter received reports on activities of a number of cities in the campaign for lower taxes. The president of Scranton, Pa., chamber of commerce, announced that a meeting will be held there May 19. A tax meeting is to take place in Bartlesville, Okla., on May 12, and Cleveland, O., will hold one on May 16.

A number of chambers of commerce of other cities also expressed to Mr. Rossetter their sympathy with the anti-tax waste drive launched in Chicago by the Mid-West Tax conference last March. Among them were Dayton, O.; Rome, Ga.; Butler, Pa.; South Holland, Ill.; Hammond, Ind.; Geneva, N. Y.; Fond du Lac, Wis., and Danville, Ill.

Rotary Calls on Senators.

Here in Chicago the Rotary club voted unanimous support of the conference and advised that it has sent messages to Senators Lewis and Glenn at Washington.

The messages conclude by saying that the emergency calls for the placing of the national welfare above all other considerations and appealing to all other organizations to join in the patriotic movement.

Words of encouragement was received from Leroy A. Lincoln, vice president and general counsel of the Metropolitan Life Insurance company, who hopes to reach the company's millions of policy holders through its thousands of agents.

"Efforts which are being made in the federal government, in state governments, and in municipalities to reduce governmental expenditures should have the earnest consideration of all life insurance policy holders," a message by Mr. Lincoln reads.

India to Place Its Fabulous Gold Hoards Into Circulation

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 11.—The export of gold from India continues to be well over $30,000,000 per month, in spite of the fall in gold prices in London, and the government of India is arranging to send at least ten times that much to England during this year.

Coupled with this, the government of India is considering changing the exchange rate between rupees and sterling. A rupee is now worth 1 shilling 6 pence, or about 28½ cents at the present dollar exchange. It is reported the rupee will be lowered on the London exchange to 1 shilling 4 pence, which would give it a value fractionally above 25 cents.

Profitable for Britain.

From the British government's point of view, the change would be extremely profitable. The Imperial Bank of India has become the most important exporter of gold from India on governmental account. Gold sent from India for sale in the world's markets through London would bring in a profit of millions of dollars when changed from sterling into a depreciated Indian currency.

The flow of gold from India has opened up a new source of cash in a surprising way. Gold has long been something to look at to most Indians. Temples, whose wealth in precious metals is tremendous, and the Indian princes also, have stored all the gold falling into their hands in vaults. There it lay sterile.

Several Years' Supply.

Since the profit in gold has reached such a high figure due to the pound deserting that metal as the basis for its value, Indians have discovered that their hoards could be both sold and invested at a good figure.

Both the temples and the princes, therefore, are bringing their holdings to light either for sale or for investment. In this way alone something like $95,000,000 has been restored to circulation. The gold stores of India have only been touched so far. It is claimed that enough remains to supply the world for several years.

Hindu Temples Loaded.

Hindu temples in India constitute one of the world's greatest storehouses of treasure. The vast hordes of gold and silver hidden in the secret vaults of these places of worship is incomputable, but a very conservative estimates places the number of temples at 1,500,000, and their annual income at something above $665,000,000.

When this figure is considered and the centuries during which the Hindu wealth of India has been amassed, the staggering figure which the total must represent can be approached. Estimates measure the stores of gold and silver in tons, and one authority places the gold stock at 1,500 tons and silver at 200,000 tons.

Temples Are Not Taxed.

Since the reforms of 1919, the Hindu legislators have been obliged to pay some attention to these places of worship in their search for fresh revenue sources. They could not bring themselves to tax the temples directly, so they started by inaugurating a scheme for bringing all public temples under a central control. A beginning was made in the Madras presidency, where a religious endowment board was set up. It began its work two years ago, and the latest reports are that it has brought 15,500 temples under supervision and control. But for every one of these so-called public temples there are ten owned privately.

Every temple has a deity, an image of a god, which is the object of worship. As such, these idols have received gifts for thousands of years in the form of gold or precious stones made up as ornaments for the god or silver dishes used in religious services.

Contributions Are Enormous.

These offerings, by a modest computation, are said to approximate a per capita "tax" on all Hindus of $3.85 annually. Considering that the average income of an Indian is $19 annually, the extent of his religious contributions can be seen as one of the largest in the world.

In a majority of cases the treasures of the temples are of unknown quantity and quality. A typical case is the state temple at Trivandrum, capital of Travancore. Every year, on an average, gold and silver coins and ornaments to the value of about $95,000 are packed in copper barrels, sealed, and rolled down into the huge underground vaults beneath the temple and sealed by the maharajah himself.

This practice has been going on for hundreds of years. The treasure locked up there is computed at something like $380,000,000. Among some of the rich temples of India this would hardly count as seventh rate.

Deity "Repays Loan."

Another type of temple which makes a prodigious income is represented by that to the sleeping god at Sirringam, where it is believed that the deity is under an obligation to repay a loan to an old devotee prince and merchant. Every penny contributed by pilgrims goes toward releasing him from bondage.

That these treasures have lain hidden for 2,000 or 3,000 years is shown in reports of vast hordes of gold already amassed nearly 1,000 years ago. Wasaf, an Arab tourist and trader, wrote such a revelation in reports of sales made in Arab horses early in the twelfth century. The horses were sold at Malabar, on the southwest coast, and the total price of the animals was paid, says Wasaf, "out of the overwhelming revenues of the estates and endowments belonging to Hindu temples and from tax on courtesans attached to them, and no charge was incurred by the public treasury."

Families Endow Temples.

A century or so later a writer named Al Beruni recorded the sale of 11,400 Arabian horses, arranged by Jamaluddin Ibrahim, an Arab. The trade in horses at Malabar amounted to $30,400,000 a year and was transacted in red gold coins. Only the temple treasures at Malabar were able to finance the trade, Al Beruni wrote.

Many fabulously wealthy merchant families have endowed temples, and there is one case of a merchant who today keeps a vow made by an ancestor in 1680 to give one-sixth of his income to the god of a temple at Trichinopoly. This merchant enjoined his heirs to continue the gifts because he credited the god with saving his life during a shipwreck. The present owner of the business has applied for remission of tax claims on 15 per cent of his income for this reason.

India, it is declared, could not produce all the gold which lies in its temples. It was acquired in exchange for raw products, cotton, silk, spices, and other produce. During the last 75 years India has imported around $1,900,000,000 worth of gold.

30 HURT IN NEW JOBLESS RIOT IN NEW ZEALAND

WELLINGTON, N. Z., May 11.—(AP)—Ten men were sent to the hospital and twenty others were less seriously hurt today when police, swinging their clubs, broke up a riot by 2,000 unemployed.

The mob grew unruly during a harangue from a soap box. When police ordered them to disperse they threw sticks and stones, and the police charged.

Yesterday a disorderly crowd stoned the parliament building and stores, breaking 150 windows and looting some of the shops.

SWANSON'S AIDS TOLD TO DEMAND LIFE FOR RAPISTS

Mueller Urges New Law for Juvenile Cases.

Acting First Assistant State's Attorney Charles J. Mueller yesterday held a conference with the regular trial court staff of prosecutors to instruct them in the campaign ordered by State's Attorney Swanson against sex criminals. Legitimate rape cases should be prosecuted speedily, and under no circumstances should any bargains be made with those charged with sex crimes, the prosecutor said.

Mr. Mueller, who has built up a reputation as a vigorous prosecutor during his dozen years in the state's attorney's office, took occasion during the conference to differentiate between what he called legitimate rape cases and others involving youths which are catalogued under the law as statutory rape, but which often amount to no more than misdemeanor.

Rape Law Held Inadequate.

"My experience has taught me that each case must be judged on its merits," said the prosecutor. "You cannot really say that any two cases are exactly alike. The legislature should, to be consistent, make some new definitions of the sex laws.

"Calling crimes by names which should not have been applied to them, and then changing the charge in court to fit the facts, breeds contempt for law. When a person is brought into court, he should be tried under the proper charge, and only in extraordinary circumstances should any change be made in the charge."

It was pointed out at the prosecutor's office that many charges of statutory rape involving young girls and youths have been changed to charges of contributing to the delinquency of a minor because of the inconsistencies in the laws passed by the legislature. This inconsistency, it is said, is due to the failure of the legislature to take into consideration the fact that girls of certain nationalities are known to mature before the age limit of 16 years as set by the statute in rape cases.

"Puppy Love" Legal Problem.

In many cases young girls and youths not yet out of their teens have become involved in what an assistant prosecutor termed "puppy love affairs." In such cases the state is compelled to substitute a delinquency misdemeanor charge for the statutory rape charge. The full force of statutes should, of course, be preserved where the victim is a mere child, the prosecutor said.

A separate misdemeanor statute should be passed to take care of such "puppy love affairs," where no force or duress is used, instead of designating the crime as rape, as must now be done under the law, some of the prosecutors suggested. Marriage before conviction is at present the only alternative to a penitentiary sentence, unless the court records are changed to show a different charge.

"In cases where the defendants are men, who should know better, the statutory provisions of the age limit should be strictly followed," Prosecutor Mueller told his conferees.

Life Terms Held Just.

"The Supreme court of this state has ruled that a life sentence in a rape case is not a cruel and inhuman punishment. The assistants should not hesitate to ask for this sentence in cases where the facts warrant a severe punishment.

"Sex crimes have been on the increase of late and it is the duty of you men, under the direct instructions of Mr. Swanson, to see to it that rape cases are disposed of speedily. In the cases which are actually rape there must be no compromising of punishment, even though the defendants offer to bargain in return for a plea of guilty. Sure and speedy punishment is the only deterrent to any class of crime, and we hope that this drive on rape cases will soon cause a decrease of sex crimes."

15 Year Old Girl Attacked.

A 15 year old girl was kidnaped by two men last night at Western avenue and Logan boulevard and driven to a lonely road between Gary and Hammond, where she was raped. The pair then drove the girl to Indiana Harbor and threw her from the car. She notified police.

FOSTER FATHER GIVEN CHILD ON MOTHER'S PLEA

A mother yesterday urged Superior Judge Joseph Sabath to give the custody of her 5 year old son to his father by adoption rather than to the child's foster mother. The judge agreed and gave the boy to William E. Stielow, former trustee of Niles Center who now is recovering from an accident in the Great Lakes Naval Training Station hospital.

The mother was Mrs. Barbara Eddinger, whose son William was adopted by the Stielows before their divorce. Stielow was awarded the child when he obtained the decree on grounds of adultery in March, 1931. Subsequently Mrs. Stielow married H. S. Shields of Niles Center, who had been named co-respondent in the suit. Yesterday she appeared on a motion to give her the custody of her adopted son.

When Judge Sabbath learned that the real mother of the child was in court he asked her to choose between the foster parents.

OPEN SHOP FIGHT HALTS WORK ON STATE INFIRMARY

$183,000 Contract Tied Up by Strikes.

State Architect Charles Herrick Hammond announced yesterday that work on the addition to the Illinois Eye and Ear infirmary, 904 West Adams street, will be stopped unless there is an adjustment of labor difficulties. Teamsters, plumbers, electricians, and steamfitters have called strikes because the building is being erected under open shop conditions under the supervision of the Landis award committee.

GEORGE BARKER.

"The contract is for $183,000 and under ordinary circumstances about 200 men would be employed," Mr. Hammond said. "As it is, only the bricklayers, who do not belong to the Building Trades' council, are working. Much of the space which the building would provide is needed by the blind and deaf immediately, but we will have to abandon the project unless we can reach some agreement with the unions."

Unions Oppose Contractor.

The contract was awarded to Schmidt Brothers, a Chicago firm identified with the Landis award group.

Various labor union leaders protested this award. Patrick F. Sullivan, president of the Building Trades council, said he had warned state officials of strikes if Schmidt Brothers got the work.

Mr. Hammond said the law would not permit state officials to discriminate between various types of labor, and the contract was let in accordance with the law. Union leaders declare politics entered into the award, which was made after bids were opened Nov. 3, 1931.

Among the first to offer opposition was George "Red" Barker, ex-convict, who aspires to succeed Capone as chief gangster and racketeer of Chicago, officials said. Barker is business agent of one of the teamsters' union and is said to control many other unions.

Pile driving was hampered by union trouble, and Barker, it is said, prevented the delivery of materials, so arrangements were made to get materials from outside the state.

Add to Unemployment.

"Union labor leaders, by their action, not only are working a great injustice upon the unfortunates who would benefit from the increased facilities to be provided, but are preventing deserving men, both union and nonunion, from working and thereby caring for their families," Mr. Hammond said.

"Such action is deplorable in normal times, but during the present depression it seems incredible that these leaders would assume the responsibility of throwing men out of work. If union labor will not let men work when the opportunity arises the opportunity should be withdrawn and the money spent in other sections of the state, where other men will be able to secure employment."

CHEMIST ENDS LIFE WHEN GIRL SPURNS HIS MARRIAGE PLEA

His proposal of marriage rejected, Mason Page Mitchell, 24 years old, of Indianapolis, committed suicide yesterday by taking poison in the apartment of Rose Furgus, 4721 Malden street. It was learned that young Mitchell had come to Chicago from Indianapolis, Tuesday night, to ask Miss Furgus to be his wife.

When Mitchell was being carried into the Lake View hospital, his sister, Miss Lesta Mitchell, 23 years old, a nurse at the hospital was assigned to the emergency case. As hospital physicians pronounced Mitchell dead, she recognized the victim as her brother.

Mitchell, a chemist, was employed by the Lilly Varnish company, Indianapolis. Until three years ago he worked for the American Aniline Products company, 820 South Clinton street.

"I told him that I loved some one else," Miss Furgus told police after the tragedy. "He seemed stunned and went into the bathroom. A few minutes later I heard him fall and found him on the floor."

Miss Furgus ran to the apartment of Dr. Austin Van Dusen, on an upper floor in the same building. Unable to revive Mitchell, Dr. Van Dusen took him to the Lake View hospital.

Miss Furgus was questioned by Town Hall police and released. She is a cashier for a loop candy company.

An inquest into the death was continued until today by Coroner Walsh.

CRIMINAL COURT.

Carl Hallex, larceny, sentenced to 1 to 10 years in the penitentiary by Judge Walter Stanton.

The first four members of the jury, all qualified for the death penalty, were selected yesterday in the court of Judge Philip L. Sullivan to try Attorney Ward Swalwell and three others on the charge of kidnaping Dr. Max Gecht and his wife, Georgia.

The second day of questioning of veniremen went forward slowly and the total of prospective jurors excused reached 54. The state rejected 24 on peremptory challenges and the defense 21. Two were dismissed after confessing prejudice against kidnapers because of the Lindbergh case, and three others because they object to the death penalty.

On trial with Swalwell are William Thomas, John Pingera, and Edward Finnen. The jurors accepted yesterday are Fred J. Frey, 1917 Nelson street, unemployed electrical worker; Edward P. Lauriesch, 2141 South St. Louis avenue, a clerk; George D. Broderick, 1551 West 86th street, also a clerk, and Harry Baker, 6404 South Morgan street, a plumber. Dr. Gecht and his wife appeared in court under a police guard.

FORTY HOSPITALS TO HONOR "FIRST NURSE" TODAY

Will Be Open for Visiting Public.

Forty Chicago hospitals will throw open their quiet corridors to the public today—Hospital day—in commemoration of Florence Nightingale's birthday. The latest methods of nursing care and medical service will be explained, but hospital leaders say the one thing that represents most effectively the spirit of Florence Nightingale is hidden in a statistical report.

A survey conducted on May 2 by Dr. Bert Caldwell, secretary of the American Hospital association, revealed that for the past fiscal year hospitals have been shouldering the burden of caring for nonpaying patients, victims of unemployment. A third of the patients in seventeen private hospitals in Chicago were given free service, while half of the remaining 67 per cent were given part free care during the year. In terms of days, these hospitals gave 530,905 days of free care to patients occupying 4,731 beds.

Cost Is $4 Per Day.

"The actual cost of a patient is $4 a day at Cook county hospital, so it can be seen what the hospitals are sacrificing," said Miss Veronica Miller, superintendent of Henrotin hospital and chairman of the Hospital day activities. "All private hospitals in Chicago are carrying on, doing the best they can with fewer paying patients. The unemployment situation has brought on increases in several diseases, chiefly tuberculosis."

As laymen enter the hospitals for the annual inspection today they will be greeted by ushers who, will take them throughout the institutions. There will be teas, the hospital board members will be on hand, and the patients will be given special dispensation such as extended visiting hours and holiday trays.

Parties at Two Hospitals.

At Frances Willard hospital children from there and their parents are invited to attend the reception, and moving pictures are to be taken. At Garfield Park Community hospital a party for babies born there during the last year will be held in the solarium, and a tea for the mothers and other guests.

Last night dress rehearsal was held for the pageant, "The Spirit of Nursing," to be given tonight by the staff of the Visiting Nurses' association in honor of Florence Nightingale, at the May meeting of the Illinois League of Nursing Education, at Harriet Hammond McCormick Y. W. C. A., 1001 North Dearborn street.

The supervisors of the Visiting Nurse association were given a dinner last night by Mrs. James C. Hutchins at her home at 1450 Astor street. Tonight a dinner will be given by Mrs. Richard I. Stearns for directors of the association.

N. Y. NEGRO BISHOP IS SUSPENDED FOR CHURCH FUND THEFT

Cleveland, O., May 11.—(AP)—Bishop Joshua H. Jones of New York today was suspended for four years by the African Methodist Episcopal conference on charges of misappropriating funds.

Bishop Jones, according to a report of the episcopal board which has been considering his case, misappropriated $15,000 in church funds.

He was the second bishop to be suspended during the church's twenty-ninth quadrennial convention. The Rev. W. T. Vernon of Arkansas was suspended when he could not satisfactorily account for funds. Similar charges against a third bishop are being investigated.

NAME CHIEF AID FOR ROCHE IN NEW POLICE PLAN

Seen as a Step Toward Metropolitan Force.

Details of the plan for closer coördination of police work throughout Cook county were revealed yesterday with the appointment of Lieut. John M. Leonard as chief assistant to Investigator Pat Roche of the state's attorney's office. Lieut. Leonard has been assigned to the state's attorney's office for the last four years.

The appointment was made, State's Attorney Swanson said, to free Roche from office routine and allows him to operate actively in field investigation. The move is regarded as a step in carrying out the Metropolitan police plan, sponsored by Chief of Police William O. Freeman of Evanston, because it provides for coöperation between suburban forces with Roche as the link which would hold the organization together.

How Plan Would Work.

Under the plan suburban policemen would serve as auxiliary state's attorney's police. They would have jurisdiction in all parts of Cook county and would be given state's attorney police badges. Chiefs of the suburban departments would report crimes in their districts to Investigator Roche each day. Then police could be apportioned as needed. If criminal activity was heavy in Oak Park and light in Evanston, police of the latter town would be sent to Oak Park for service.

Asked if the Metropolitan plan would mean a change in the personnel of the state's attorney's police force, Roche said that Lieut. William V. Blaul, considered head of the state's attorney's police, would remain but would be a subordinate.

Other Appointments Soon.

The appointment of Leonard is believed to be the first of a series of changes in the state's attorney's force which have been rumored in the criminal court building. The next appointment expected is that of first assistant state's attorney.

State's Attorney Swanson is said to be considering Assistant State's Attorney Charles Lounsbury and Milton D. Smith for the appointment. Lounsbury is co-director of the activities of the racket bureau.

Attorney Smith held the post of assistant state's attorney during the régime of Robert E. Crowe. He is a member of the law firm of Ald. Bert Cronson, who is a nephew of Samuel Ettelson, corporation counsel during a former Republican administration.

TEX 'DOES' PARIS IN 24 HOURS AND SHE'S 'SHOCKED'

PARIS, May 11.—"Yes, dearie, I was shocked and I don't mind if you quote me on that."

This admission was made by Texas Guinan after 24 hours of investigating conditions in Paris. The particular cause of her reaction was the cabaret Tex visited in Rue Blondel, noted for the number and scanty attire of its female entertainers. "That's what I call a real sucker club," said Tex. "I can't understand places like that."

Tex wasn't shocked by Montparnasse, however. "I love the dome. I never saw so many gigolos in my life. They are certainly voracious. Several asked me if my diamonds were real. There doesn't seem to be much unemployment in France, except among the gigolos."

Jack Zuta's Jewelry Sold for $173.75 at Auction

Eleven pieces of tarnished jewelry, the personal effects of the late Jack Zuta, one time gang leader who was slain at a Wisconsin resort in July, 1930, were sold under the hammer yesterday afternoon for $173.75 in the office of Public Administrator H. O. Crews. A lodge emblem containing three diamonds brought $47, the highest bid at the sale, and a diamond studded belt buckle, supposedly the gift of Al Capone, sold for $28.

Engagement Denied

New York, May 11.—[Special.]—Mrs. James B. Duke, whose daughter, Miss Doris, is heiress to the Duke tobacco millions and is said to be "the richest girl in the world," denied today a published story that her daughter is engaged to Elmer F. Quinn, an attorney, who succeeded Mayor Walker in the state senate.

"Neither I nor my daughter ever heard of this Mr. Quinn," Mrs. Duke told reporters. "Of course, Doris is not engaged to him."

Mrs. Duke added that she and her daughter, expecting to sail for Europe tonight, had postponed their trip until later in the summer.

The widow's denial of the engagement was followed by this statement from Miss Duke's secretary:

"Miss Duke knows nothing of this supposed engagement. She does not care to talk about it. There have been many rumors. She will say nothing now."

Mr. Quinn lives with his mother on Grove street and his mother had the same kind of a reply to a question.

"I never heard of Miss Duke," she said.

The report was published in an afternoon newspaper of pale pink persuasion which later came out with an "explanation" of its error. The revised account conceded that the $53,000,000 heiress probably was not the "bride-to-be" its reporter had in mind, but insisted that Mr. Quinn really might be going to marry somebody.

"Just who Quinn's future bride is could not be learned," the new account said, "although it is known that she is the daughter of an investment banker."

Lawyer Quinn said nothing.

FINISH HEARING IN WOMAN'S SUIT TO GET $500,000

Taking of depositions was completed in the Hotel Sherman yesterday by attorneys for the $4,000,000 estate of Nathan Frank, 79 year old St. Louis bachelor attorney and former congressman who died April 5, 1931. The evidence was taken for use in a $500,000 suit against the estate pending in the Circuit court in St. Louis and filed by Mrs. Ann Hamilton of Chicago. She was formerly a manicurist in a St. Louis barber shop and is now manager of the Hollywood Cleaners and Dyers, 511 Davis street, Evanston.

Mrs. Hamilton in her suit alleges that Frank promised her in 1923 that if she would not marry again he would care for her and her children during his lifetime and will her $500,000 on his death. Testimony has been introduced in depositions that her husband, Louis, is alive and that they never were divorced.

Previously testimony that Mrs. Hamilton was known over a period of years as a disturbing influence in the home life of Julius Birck, a cleaner and dyer of 7835 Morgan street, and his wife, was repeated yesterday in a deposition taken from Attorney Charles D. Bradley, 5055 Sheridan road. Bradley testified he was an assistant corporation counsel under former Mayor Dever and that he gave legal counsel to Mrs. Birck.

Mrs. Erwin Smith, 7538 Morgan street, and Mrs. Mort Mason, 415 East 78th street, sisters of Mrs. Birck, also made depositions yesterday in which they substantiated the story of Mrs. Birck, given on Tuesday, that no illegal relationship existed between Julius Birck and Mrs. Hamilton.

Victor Packman, St. Louis, representing the Frank estate, said he would depart today for New York to take depositions in reference to another suit. It is one of several filed against the estate by women shortly after Mr. Frank's death and after the mysterious disappearance of his personal correspondence with women, which he had ordered his stenographer, Miss Estelle Sensenbrenner of St. Louis, to burn at his death, the attorney said. She departed with a black suitcase and the correspondence, returning the suitcase but not the letters, he said.

The New York woman who has filed suit in the federal court in St. Louis and claims the entire estate on the basis that Mr. Frank promised in 1913 to adopt her, is Mrs. Gladys Catania, 24 years old.

Miss Sensenbrenner has filed suit against the estate for $85,000, also alleging that Mr. Frank promised it to her on condition she wouldn't marry. Mrs. Esther Hansel of St. Louis, an old friend of Mr. Frank from 1922 to 1924, has a suit pending against the estate for $44,000, claiming she deposited that sum with Mr. Frank for safe keeping and that it represented alimony.

Kills Self in Electric Chair He Constructed in Home

Philip Harris, 40 years old, 1360 East 62d street, a structural steel worker who had been jobless for two years, killed himself yesterday in an electric chair which he had constructed in his room. He ran wires from a transformer, which he had connected to a light socket, to two safety razor blades which he strapped to his chest.

INDIANA WILL SEND 3,500 IDLE MEXICANS HOME

Arrangements for the voluntary repatriation of nearly 3,500 jobless Mexicans who are receiving poor relief in the northern Indiana industrial area were completed yesterday. Judge Maurice E. Crites of East Chicago, is in charge of the project.

Industries in East Chicago have advanced $30,000 to the township, to be deducted from their 1933 taxes, and $15,000 of this will be used to pay the railroad fares back to Mexico. The Missouri Pacific and Wabash railroads have offered to carry the families to Laredo, Tex., on the Rio Grande river, for $15 a head for adults and $7.50 for children.

Arrangements have been made for the Mexican government to transport them from Laredo to Lower California to work on a government reclamation project. About 2,000 East Chicago Mexicans have signified their desire to return to their homes and a thousand more are expected to go later. In Gary 400 jobless Mexicans have expressed willingness to accept free rides home.

HERE'S THE QUALITY TIRE PRICED within reach of all!

SIX PLIES?
You can count six layers of cord fabric here, but the first two under the tread do not run from bead to bead. Some tire-makers count these as "plies," but they are really "breaker strips," so we call them that.

Of course you want quality when you buy tires. You want all the safety, all the sturdy strength, all the long life and trouble-free mileage a dollar can buy.

And you get quality in Goodyear Pathfinders — millions of people like yourself know that from happy experience. Because it has always been "the quality tire within the reach of all"—Goodyear Pathfinder is one of the big reasons for Goodyear popularity.

Now look what these tires cost today. There's no need to tell you that quality has never been so low-priced — the figures shown here make you ask yourself: Why be satisfied with second-choice tires when first-choice tires cost no more?

"The newspaper is an institution developed by modern civilization to present the news of the day, to foster commerce and industry, to inform and mold public opinion, and to furnish that check upon government which no constitution has ever been able to provide."

NEW ZEALAND POINTS THE WAY.

Another riot is reported in New Zealand. This time 4,000 demonstrators marched on the parliament house in Wellington, hurled rocks through the windows, and then did what they could to sack stores and shops. The avowed object of the demonstration was to protest against the government's most recent action in reducing the dole and requiring those who received it to do some work in exchange for the money they got. Recently there were similar riots in Auckland and Dunedin. More disorders are expected.

Riots, disorders and bloodshed are the price which New Zealand is paying for governmental extravagance. A government which taught its people to believe that there is no limit to the amounts which can be borrowed and spent for public works and public relief is now the victim of its own doctrine. Borrowing has been carried to the point where credit is all but exhausted. Business is at a low ebb and no more money than is now being squeezed from the taxpayers can be obtained. The sums which are taken out of private hands to provide the dole are not available for wages and for investment in New Zealand enterprises. The result is increasing insecurity of employment and a gradual falling off in the sources of government revenue. A vicious circle has been created, and not the least important link in it is a pauperized citizenship which believes that the nation owes a living to its people.

What has already come to pass in New Zealand is the fate which the government of the United States is preparing for itself and the American people. An extravagant government, an insupportable tax program, a gradual drying up of government credit, and a citizenship schooled in pauperism cannot fail to produce the same results in this country that have already been noted on the other side of the world. We, too, are headed for ruin. If we have not yet reached the pass which has been reached in New Zealand it is only because we started with more surplus capital to exhaust and with more diversified sources of national income. Our well-being has therefore been more difficult to destroy, but that the work of destruction is proceeding apace cannot be questioned.

Successively, England, Australia, Newfoundland, and New Zealand have produced object lessons to the American people in how not to manage public affairs. If government expenditures are allowed to grow until the capital of the nation is wiped out in the effort to support the government, private ruin and national humiliation are unavoidable.

The point at which the vicious circle can be attacked successfully is the point of governmental appropriations. If they are kept within bounds, taxation cannot be confiscatory and the reconstructive forces of the nation can be released. If we do not retrench, our fate is sealed.

ROMANCE LIFTS THE MORTGAGE.

The Fair Rosamond was out of luck. When Henry's angry queen, Eleanor, ferreted her out at Woodstock the scene was pastoral and there were cows and pastures, but the lovely frail had only the alternative of the dagger or the poison. It may have been her misfortune that the queen did not want to lift a mortgage but only a scalp. Angry queens may be of stern stuff and those were violent times. Later English kings discovered easier ways of giving their subjects cause for addressing them as sire. They did not hide their romances in other castles but housed them in their own.

The Elmhurst romance, now a current best seller from the Wheaton courtroom, reveals that the male eye may stray and yet the husband remain a good provider. His attentions roam, but his wife comes home with the mortgage lifter and there is nothing over the vine clad cottage but the roof. Domesticity triumphs and a wayward impulse only puts the family on a paying basis. In older times an attractive lady could advance a kinsman's fortunes. Churchill's sister made him Marlborough or set him on his way. In an improved political order a lady may unexpectedly and an asset in a husband whom she never suspected of being so attractive. It's probably the nineteenth amendment working on the seventh commandment.

THE LEASED WIRE TAX.

A number of newspapers and press services in this country are seeking to defeat the proposal for a tax on leased wire and other telegraphic and telephonic messages at least as it applies to newspapers. Openly or under cover, some newspapers are exerting pressure to obtain exemption.

These efforts are unworthy, undignified, and in the long run must serve to undermine the confidence of the public in their newspapers and to place the newspapers which participate in the attempt under embarrassing obligations to their congressmen. It ought not require a particularly keen eye or a particularly high standard of professional conduct to discover that this kind of thing is self-defeating. It reduces the press of the country to the rank of a racketeering farm cooperative with outstretched palm.

Furthermore, it is futile. Instead of joining the procession of special interests engaged in seeking to avoid taxation the newspapers will accomplish far more by insisting with all the force at their command upon rigid federal economy. As long as newspapers seek merely to dodge their share of the taxation which is leading the nation to its ruin they will not escape the universal fate. If subscribers and advertisers are reduced to penury, as congress seems determined to reduce them, it will make little difference to publishers whether or not they pay a few thousand dollars in taxes for their wire services.

This is no moment for groups of taxpayers to play hide-and-seek with each other. The situation calls for united action by all the taxpayers of the country against the unconscionable waste in Washington. As long as the taxpayers are disunited and seeking favored treatment congress will crush them in detail. United, the taxpayers may succeed in putting an end to the extravagance which is the cause of all the new tax proposals.

SUBSTITUTES FOR VOLSTEAD.

John M. Morehead, United States minister to Sweden, seems to have made a good impression on a senate subcommittee which has consideration of a proposal for submission of the repeal of the eighteenth amendment. Mr. Morehead has seen the Bratt system work in Sweden. The citizen is licensed and limited. He has a book for the purchase of hard liquor, but it permits him only four quarts a month and upon misbehavior it can be taken away from him. There is less restriction on less intoxicating beverages.

Apparently the system works in Sweden, but there is little reason to believe it would work here. There is too much machinery in it. Sweden is a small country of orderly habits and a homogeneous people. A system which might work very well there might break down at the first test in the United States. Americans do not need look to Europe to study experiments tested under different conditions. Canada has made successful demonstrations of control under conditions more similar to those in the United States. Of the Canadian system the Quebec is the most rational and it offers the best example.

Quebec does not ticket the citizen and it does not impose restrictions which would provoke evasions. Americans might not like direct government vending of spirits, but in that fashion Quebec has taken the element of private profit out of the sale of whisky, gin, etc. No one is trying to increase sales. Although the government gets a revenue from the business, it is out of nature for a government clerk to think of himself as a revenue producer. That is not his end of the transaction. More sales are more work and the customer can take it or leave it.

The use of spirituous intoxicants is not permitted in public places, but a reasonable distinction is made in favor of wines and beer, for the public sale of which licenses may be granted. A civilized use of wine with meals is allowed and a citizen may have his beer in a taproom.

Here is a system which keeps its restrictive regulations within the probabilities of human acceptance of them. That is the first victory in planning a control of conduct which is to affect great masses of people. The United States sought the line of great resistance, Quebec that of the least.

America is not the only land which has considered the social problem of intoxicating beverages. Its only distinction is that it is the country which has made the greatest mess of it. No other country is having such spasms. There is no reason why the United States should continue to have fits. Americans are in the dry delirium tremens.

Editorial of the Day

FREE PRESS IN SOUTH DAKOTA.

[St. Louis Post-Dispatch.]

The power of judges to inflict punishment for contempt of court is, when abused, one of the greatest dangers to our free speech and free press. The press is wise to be constantly on the alert for such arbitrary actions, and to oppose them with all its resources when they occur. The American Newspaper Publishers' association at its recent convention took notice of the latest such incident and unanimously commended the intention of the disciplined newspaper to carry the case to the highest court.

James A. Mathews, publisher, and Howard C. Anderson, editor, of the Aberdeen [S. D.] American-News, were the victims in this case. They criticized Circuit Judge Howard Babcock for inflicting light punishment on Royal A. Hasse, former county auditor, who had pleaded guilty to third degree forgery, whereby he obtained $87 in public funds. Hasse was fined $300 and sentenced to six months in the county jail, the jail term being suspended. The newspaper men, sentenced by Judge J. H. Bottum, got 30 days in jail and were fined $200 each, with suspension of the jail terms on condition their paper remain silent on the subject thereafter. Of course, such terms, no less than a censor's gag, could not be accepted by a self-respecting newspaper.

The contempt charge was grounded on editorial criticism before completion of the case, in that the jail sentence was suspended. Yet, the newspaper's counsel pointed out, Hasse had paid his fine, thus relinquishing his right of appeal, and thereby terminating proceedings. The newspaper held Hasse's guilt was beyond question, for, confronted by an auditing firm's report, he admitted forging two warrants and pleaded guilty. The sentence was compared with that of another man, sentenced by the same judge to five years in the penitentiary for a similar offense

For two years the American-News has been making disclosures of graft in South Dakota public offices, and a full inquiry, under state auspices, into highway funds now is under way. The paper had performed a public service in its inquiry. Its punishment for criticizing this light sentence is in effect an encouragement to official corruption at a time when it should have short shrift from courts and press alike. The criticism did not interfere with the processes of law. It expressed an opinion of a public official's action, and it is an axiom that such actions are not immune from criticism. For protection of the people's fundamental rights, appeal is essential. Its results should enlighten those few who may agree with Judge Bottum. He asserted his belief that no newspaper had a right to criticize a judge even if the case were not pending, for such criticism "violated the spirit of the law."

SOME STANDBYS IN ORGANS.

WHEN an engineer makes plans for a structure he calculates the maximum expected load, then the strength of the structure required to carry the expected load, and next adds more than one hundred per cent as a margin of safety. An insurance company, laying its plans, calculates its risks from standard actuarial tables and then adds a large factor of safety before adopting its insurance rates.

In 1876 visitors to the centennial were amazed at the great Corliss engines working so well within their capacities because they were so much overbuilt. The wisdom of always having something in reserve is not questioned. Few of us know that the architecture of the human body provides for an excess capacity that makes the above cited illustrations appear unimportant.

In his "Wisdom of the Human Body" Dr. W. B. Cannon gives the following proof on that point:

Most organs of the body are built in pairs. Any one of the pair is more than equal to all the need. Any one of any pair can be removed without interfering particularly with the supply of product. If two-thirds of each kidney is removed and only one-third of each is left, the body seems never to know the loss. If one-tenth of the adrenal glands are left sound, the body gets all the adrenal secretion it needs. One-fifth of the thyroid appears to be ample. There are four parathyroid glands. We get along comfortably enough after two have been removed. One-fifth of the pancreas is about all we need. We get along very well with one-fourth of the liver, provided what is left is sound.

Surgeons remove much more than one-half of the stomach without interfering greatly with digestion. We can lose ten feet of the small intestine, and nearly all of the large, and still keep in a pretty good state of nutrition. The lungs can be well-nigh solidified with pneumonia or compressed by pleural fluid, or riddled by consumption, and yet we manage to breathe pretty well with what is left in condition to work.

We think of the brain as being semi-sacred—an area that must not be invaded—noli me tangere. All of the right half of the brain can be removed without seriously interfering with a person's well being. We think of that part of the brain that lies just back of the brows—the frontal lobes—as being necessary for thinking. Both frontal lobes have been removed without seriously affecting the individual's ability to think, to converse, to remember, or to take part in the affairs of life.

In every part of his makeup man is fabricated along very generous if not wastefully extravagant lines. His blueprint specifications call for a margin of safety far greater than any mechanical engineer ever allows.

ACUTE CORYZA.

G. M. L. writes: I am interested in acute coryza. I have made various attempts to find a cure—vaccines, sprays, etc.—but the thing that helps me most is simpler than any of them. At the very first indication that an attack is beginning, I cover my nose, inside and out, with vaseline, snuffing some of it in gently. My face generally itches all around my mouth and I rub vaseline whenever it feels that way. I am sure that I have stopped a good many attacks by this method, and that I have lessened the severity and discomfort of other attacks, though I could not stop them. It is necessary to get on the vaseline very promptly if it is to do any good, and to replace it if it gets rubbed off.

BANKER'S LIABILITY.

Chicago, May 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—If a deposit is made toward a checking account on Tuesday and the bank does not open for business on Wednesday on account of being ordered closed by the state auditor, is it legal that the bank must pay back in full the Tuesday deposit? If it is legal, where can I find the statute? H. O. K.

"If any banker . . . shall receive . . . any money . . . or other valuable thing which is transferable by delivery, when at the time of receiving such deposit, said banker . . . is in his . . . knowledge insolvent, whereby the deposit so made shall be lost to the depositor, said banker . . . shall be deemed guilty of embezzlement and . . . shall be fined in a sum double the amount . . . and in addition thereto, may be imprisoned." LIMITATION PERIOD.

Chicago, May 10.—[Legal Friend of the People.]—1. I was in business some years ago. A party owes me on open account a bill of $356 since 1927. Is it too late to start suit in court? 2. I am also holding a check drawn on a bank which was returned to me marked "no account." What does the statute of Illinois say on how long a time must elapse before it is outlawed to take action to recover? 3. Is a judgment outlawed in seven years if it is not renewed? 4. Is a judgment note good for twenty years or ten years?

C. P.

1. The limitation period on oral contracts is five years.
2. The limitation period on written contracts is ten years.
3. The real estate lien expires in seven years, but the judgment is not permanently barred short of twenty years.

A LINE O' TYPE OR TWO

A MAN WHOM—WELL, WHOM WHAT?

Tammany and Al Smith are reported from New York to have decided to throw all their influence for Owen D. Young for the Democratic presidential nomination. Which may or may not be true, but certainly Al and Tammany seem quite positive that whoever the nominee is it will not be the w. k. governor, Mr. Franklin D. Roosevelt. But Young—Owen D. Young? Now who is Owen D. Young? He is probably an able and efficient gentleman, but really the habit the country has dropped into of making Presidents out of somebody never heard of until just a few minutes before he was nominated ought to be given up. It's going to get so that some day they'll run in a bird with side whiskers and pearl gray spats, who plays the saxophone, and we'll never know it until the neighbors around the White House begin complaining.

MAY MIRACLES.

My feet have stood where Homer glimpsed the dawn
Of rosy-fingered glory; I have strayed
In Trojan realms, where Helen, wondrous maid,
Must oft have walked; my eyes have gazed upon
The grandeur of the pyramids at morn;
The lands which Alexander made his own
By conquest are not strange to me; the throne
Whence Cæsar looked upon a world reborn:—
All these are but as common things to me,
Who now, by May enchanted, scour the wood
In search of treasure Cæsar never knew,
Athrill with beauty Helen could not see:
For I can bow before the Source of good,

THOMAS CURTIS CLARK.

MAYBE WE COULD come to an amicable agreement with Great Britain about the war debts in this way: The U. S. release England from any further payment of war debts on condition that ten times as many American debutantes are presented at court as formerly. This will take a lot of pressure off the state department and permit it to give its attention to other public matters, so that it will be a great saving to the country after all.

AND, ANYHOW, LAST NIGHT was the night and we went to press before the great news flashed under or over the Atlantic. But now that Uncle Andy Mellon has either worn silk panties to King George's court or hasn't worn them, we can once more take interest in the fact that the public debt of these somewhat United States has increased in two years $3,000,000,000 to $19,000,000,000 and the budget deficit at fifteen minutes of six (Chicago daylight saving time) stood at $1,241,000,000 and that somebody ought to do something about it.

THE CHICAGO SCHOOL BOARD is paying one hundred thousand bucks to a New York expert to tell 'em how to run the schools. The expert says the way to run 'em is to close 'em. We'd have told the board that for seventy-five cents.

You Must Stop Sleeping on Your Back.

Sir: Gee! I had 'nother bad dream last night on account of me an' Gert givin' a party and her usin' 3 parts of angostura bitters in the dry martinis when she was thinkin' of 3 dashes. I dreamt that I was in Hell or that the Devil was up here—I don't remember which, but it don't make no difference on account of both places being so much alike—an' the Devil was makin' speeches against evolution 'cause his monkeys was raisin' so much hell on account of so many of our congressmen going down there and claimin' relationship with 'em.

THAT OTTAWA FELLA.

LADY CHETWOOD OF ENGLAND, we never heard of her before, but we have now because she has just come over to this country traveling third class tourist. "Why should I spend all that money for first class passage in these times?" asks Lady Chetwood. We'll bite, m'lady, why should you? However, while we have traveled third class tourist and never got into the news column because of our heroism, we will say that we like to travel first class these days just to see people in the smoke room buy champagne. It's such a pleasure to hear the corks pop. We can't afford to buy champagne, but we can listen to the corks popping free of charge. Down in third class tourist we can hear beer corks pop, but there isn't much of a kick in it.

GHOST OF THE RIVER.

Men throw filth down the green
River banks,
And the river runs as fast
As it can
To find the blue ocean
Leaping free
Far from the realm
Of Man.

The river mirrors the bird's
Quick flight,
And sings to the wild
Dove's croon,
And lonely would be
The river's lot
Were it not for the birds
And the moon.

When rivers become blue-green waves
Of the sea,
They laugh when a drowning man
Dies—
But when a gull falls with blood
On its wings
The Ghost of the river
. . . cries!

Every Man's University

Questions and answers prepared by members of the faculty of the University of Chicago outline what they consider a well educated person ought to know. Today's instructor, Arthur Pearson Scott, associate professor of history.

TODAY'S QUESTION:

How did our universities originate?

YESTERDAY'S QUESTION:

What were the medieval scholastics trying to do?

ANSWER:

The group called the schoolmen or scholastics attempted to harmonize reason and faith, philosophy and revelation. They accepted what the church taught about God and salvation, but they tried to show that reason and logic, particularly as shown in the work of Aristotle, led to the same conclusions. Some things, like the doctrine of the Trinity, were admittedly beyond human reason, but the scholastics tried to show that they were not contrary to reason. The schoolmen have often been accused of wasting time on futile hair splitting, but their keen development of logical processes and their confidence that the universe was reasonable have been of value for later science.

FROM THE TRIBUNE'S COLUMNS

NATIONAL CONVENTIONS

REPUBLICAN—1864.

CHICAGO, June 9.—We stop the press to announce that the glorious news has reached us of the renomination of Abraham Lincoln, at the Baltimore convention, by acclamation. Gov. Andy Johnson of Tennessee has been nominated for Vice President.

BALTIMORE, June 7.—About twenty-nine or thirty states are represented at this National Union [Republican] convention, which is more than were represented in the Chicago convention which nominated Mr. Lincoln. Gen. Morgan's opening speech was most happy in all respects and his proposition that the platform should advance a proposal FOR THE TOTAL ABOLITION OF SLAVERY was received with three cheers, the delegates rising and swinging their hats with the wildest enthusiasm.

DEMOCRATIC—1864.

CHICAGO, Sept. 1.—The Democratic convention proceeded to cast the vote by states for the candidates put in nomination the preceding day. The gentlemen named were Gen. George B. McClellan and Thomas H. Seymour. Besides these, the names of the Hon. Horatio Seymour of New York and Charles O'Conor of New York City were mentioned.

After the states had voted and before the result was announced the chairman, the Hon. Horatio Seymour, rose and said:

"I could not forbear expressing myself in behalf of the distinguished Gen. George B. McClellan. I will stake my life and soul upon it that when he shall be elected to the presidential chair he will carry with him to that station that truth, fidelity, boldness and zeal, love of liberty and love of law which animates all our hearts."

The secretary announced the vote as follows: McClellan, 202½; Seymour, 23½. The chairman announced officially that Gen. McClellan was the choice of the convention for President. [Prolonged applause.]

16 YEARS AGO TODAY

MAY 12, 1916.

EL PASO, Tex.—The border protocol between Gens. Hugh L. Scott and Frederick Funston for the United States and Alvara Obregon, Mexican minister of war, over the disposition of the American expeditionary forces in Mexico came to a futile end. The conferees announced they had decided to suspend their conferences, seven of which have been held since April 29. Coincidental with the ending of the negotiations came word of a new raid by Mexican bandits on American soil in the Big Bend country. Troops from various sections of the country are being rushed to the border for duty in Texas or in the Mexican campaign.

WAR NEWS.—Only artillery actions in the Verdun sector were reported. Berlin claims the capture of more French positions.

A CALL TO ACTION.

Chicago, May 2.—I have always been a believer in the greatness of the United States, a hater of communism and anything even approaching a Red. But, having read, with increasing disgust, the daily reports of the activities of the present congress, I realize that to save this nation we need a change from the present class of men who make our laws.

Knowing that the United States is in a perilous financial position, that it is an absolute necessity to balance our budget, we are in the hands of a group of unbelievably stupid politicians obviously putting their own selfish ambitions ahead of their country's need. For almost every economy suggested to reduce government expense we witness the awful spectacle of some politician, or group of politicians, objecting because that may please his community and get him votes in the coming elections.

Apparently few of them have the vision to see that something drastic must be done and that small ambitions and selfish desires must give way to the larger wish to help the country, if we are to be saved. Are they so blind that they do not feel the temper of the country? We are disgusted with a prohibition law that does nothing but take revenue away from the government and give it to the scum of the country. We are amazed and cannot understand the bread lines, the loss of fortunes, the business failures in this land of plenty.

It seems to me that the rulers in Washington are as blind as was the czar of Russia before the revolution. Not that I anticipate or want a revolution in this land of freedom. God forbid. But we do need a change from the class of ignorant, narrow minded and selfish men who compose the majority in the congress.

If we had the courage and unity of England we would demand a coalition cabinet. We would pick the best men from the Republican and Democratic parties, men of action, of knowledge of the seriousness of the situation—not necessarily politicians—and let them put the country back on its feet.

Are there not enough far-seeing, red-blooded men to rise up and demand such a thing? We have been lethargic long enough. We have been robbed by crooked politicians for so long. We knew it in the prosperous days, but then we only shrugged our shoulders, because there was enough for every one.

But now it is different. Unless something drastic is done soon those prosperous days will not come again.

You Americans, who love your country and think she should once more take her place in the sun, do something.

Let us all rise up and insist that the budget be balanced, that prohibition be repealed, that crooked politicians be obliterated from our fair land.

MARJORIE LETTS.

BONUS AND CONSTITUTION.

Chicago, May 4.—In answer to the editorial, "The Bonus and Its Friends," and to Mr. Arthur S. Henning, I wish to call your attention to the United States constitution, amendment 14, section 4, which reads:

The validity of the public debt of the United States, authorized by law, including debts incurred for payment of pensions and bounties for services in suppressing insurrection or rebellion, shall not be questioned.

"Sec. 5. The congress shall have power to enforce, by appropriate legislation, the provision of this article."

Of course you have a right to say something on the matter, but it is apparent that your views are wrong. I must remind you that last year business was stimulated for at least four months and if that money was still here in the United States we would all be working and surely we would not ask for the passage of the bonus bill again.

S. A. MORASKE.

THE UNION OF STATES.

Chicago, May 2.—Let me commend your editorial yesterday entitled "The Untouchable Government." It seems to me thereby you have presented a fundamental issue.

The civil war established that some of the states could not destroy the United States; not that the United States could destroy the states.

During the world war the United States became practically our supreme government. When that war was over we should have, but did not, return to our peacetime basis, viz.: an indissoluble union of sovereign states.

The process of centralization of powers and functions in the federal government must be stopped and the process of decentralization be soon and effectively put in motion if our governments are to be what they were intended to be under the constitution of the United States.

The present tendency is strongly toward making of the states little more than counties or political subdivisons of the federal government. That, as it seems to me, would be a consummation devoutly not to be wished.

CHESTER E. CLEVELAND.

DIABOLICAL.

Chicago, May 7.—The cartoon on the front page of THE TRIBUNE of May 5 is one of the most diabolical assaults upon the character of one of the few senators who have the courage to try to uphold the interests of the masses, who are already crushed into the depths of despair by unemployment and excess taxation, as has ever come from a corporation minded, capitalist owned newspaper in many a year. If THE CHICAGO TRIBUNE cannot sanction the opinions of Senator Huey Long, the best or least it can do is keep quiet and let us of the masses feel good at the coming to the front of a people's champion.

TRIAL OF INDIANA OFFICIALS FOR RUM PLOT OPENS

Witnesses Tell of Gifts of Liquor.

BY WALTER FITZMAURICE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Indianapolis, Ind., May 11.—[Special.]—The United States government opened today in the prosecution of fourteen city officials, policemen, and alleged bootleggers of Anderson, Ind. It is a case which United States Attorney George R. Jeffrey terms a "wholesale liquor conspiracy" and which friends of the defendants claim to be a frameup perpetrated by federal prohibition agents at behest of powerful Hoosier Republicans in Washington.

JESSE H. MELLETT.

The principal defendant, Mayor Jesse H. Mellett, leader of the Democratic party in Anderson, was not called to trial. The mayor suffered a paralytic stroke last fall and the government decided to withhold his arraignment until he recovers, if ever. His physicians believe his case incurable.

Jury Completed in 45 Minutes.

With Federal Judge Robert C. Baltzell examining the venire only forty-five minutes was required to complete the jury. The judge ascertained that none of the jurymen had ever contributed to associations opposed to prohibition nor to the Anti-Saloon league and that each juryman regarded the Volstead act with the same respect as any other law.

In his opening statement Prosecutor Jeffrey said the government would show that bootleggers flourished in Anderson as far back as 1925. Mellett became mayor in 1928, succeeding a Republican, and it was early in 1929, Mr. Jeffrey said, that the bootleggers decided they needed "protection."

"Witnesses will testify that Joe Melcher Jr., son of the Anderson garbage collector, offered political and police protection to the bootleggers and in at least one instance took a $25 protection fee," he asserted.

Gifts of Liquor Admitted.

The trial progressed swiftly. Before noon Prosecutor Jeffrey had called four ex-bootleggers, all of whom said they had formerly sold liquor in Anderson and had been arrested either by police or federal agents, and had been convicted.

The first witness, George Halpert, testified he was bootlegging on or about April 1, 1927, at the home of Mrs. Irma Whetsell in Anderson. Asked if he knew Police Captain Ralph Rich, he nodded affirmatively.

Q.—Did you sell or give him liquor?
A.—Yes, I gave him a pint.
Q.—He never arrested you for it?
A.—No, sir.

THE COURT—Was the place at which you gave the liquor within or outside the corporate limits of Anderson? A.—It was on a farm outside of town.

On cross-examination Attorney Symmes brought out that Capt. Rich, three months after the alleged gift of liquor, had been arrested with witness for bootlegging within the limits of Anderson. The lawyer dismissed the witness with a smile.

Woman Tells of Buying Booze.

Mrs. Whetsell, a comely woman of 35, estranged from her husband, a former Anderson bootlegger, was called to the stand. She, too, knew Capt. Rich. She said she had conducted a roadhouse, buying alcohol at $35 a tin from the garbage collector's son on his promise that her resort would be protected from raids.

Twenty-eight persons were named in the original conspiracy indictment. Ten of these have pleaded guilty, including Melcher, who is expected to take the stand as the government's star witness.

SUES AUTO MAN FOR MILLION DUE FOR PAINTINGS

Detroit, Mich., May 11.—(AP)—Charging an unpaid balance is due on paintings sold to him, the Howard Young Galleries, Inc., of New York, today filed notice of a suit for $1,000,000 against Lawrence P. Fisher, president of the Cadillac Motor Car company.

The praecipe of the suit was filed in federal court by A. M. Frumberg, New York attorney, and local attorneys acting for the Young Galleries.

"Mr. Fisher owes Mr. Young nothing," said David H. Crowley, attorney for Fisher. "He has paid him everything he agreed to and is obligated for. There was never any misunderstanding on this matter."

The collection of art objects in Fisher's Grayhaven home near here is valued at more than $2,000,000.

No More Piles

You Can End Your Awful Misery Quick Without Cutting or Salves

Thousands of Pile sufferers do not know that the cause of Piles is internal—bad circulation of blood in the lower bowel.

That is the scientific truth about Piles—the real reason why salves and suppositories do not give permanent relief, why cutting does not remove the cause.

Piles will only go when you actually remove the cause—and not one minute before. External treatments can't do this—an internal medicine should be used. HEM-ROID, the prescription of Dr. J. S. Leonhardt, succeeds because it stimulates the circulation, drives out congested blood, heals and restores the almost dead parts.

Dr. Leonhardt's HEM-ROID has an almost unbelievable record of success right in this city. So why waste time on external remedies or worry about any operation when Walgreen's invite every Pile sufferer to try HEM-ROID with guarantee of money back if it does not end their Piles, no matter how stubborn the case?

WALGREEN DRUG STORES

Tell It to SWEENEY...

The Stuyvesants don't care—much!

THREE YEARS back, the financial writers quoted Mr. Stuyvesant frequently, but of late haven't consulted him so much. He is not exactly reassuring—to a business world hungry for good news. Mr. Stuyvesant has repeatedly said that this depression must wear itself out. The end is not yet in sight. Commodity and security prices may go lower; the buying level has not been reached. Economy is the order of the day. He hints darkly that wages must be cut further, although he will not permit himself to be quoted on this point.

In his club, over a modest three dollar lunch and a Partagas perfecto, Mr. Stuyvesant boasts that he has not bought a new suit in almost three years, and that his shoes have been resoled twice. He bought a Cadillac V-16 last year, instead of another Hispano-Suiza—a clear saving of $12,000. His yacht has been in drydock since 1929. And he is a little sharp with girls at the office about using pencils down to the last inch and things like that.

Mrs. Stuyvesant—well, you will remember her as the woman who let her three servants go, so she could contribute their wages to the Emergency Unemployment Relief Fund. She has cut her guest and charity lists, switches off unnecessary lights, and turns off the heat in the maids' rooms. She saves as much as a dollar a day by buying much of her groceries at the chain store. She is eagle-eyed and alert at finding bargains, and lets the stores wait six months for their bills. ("Interest, my dear, is worth as much to me as it is to them.") She says that in these terrible times, every woman must do her bit cheerfully.

No question about it, the Stuyvesants have been feeling poor these last two years. In mid-1929 Mr. Stuyvesant reckoned his assets at ten million; today the figure is four million. (Of course, in 1921 he had less than one million—but why bring that up?) So the Stuyvesants are conserving their cash, waiting until securities drop to their 1907 prices, so they can recoup. They are in no mood for spending. And until better times—or at least better sentiments—arrive, the Stuyvesant shekels will not come out of cold storage. You haven't much chance of selling them anything just now.

JIM SWEENEY wasn't in the market in 1929, or any other year. The young Sweeneys and current expenses permitted him only to save a little money, but never to "invest" it. So there has been little shrinkage in the Sweeney assets—or in the Sweeney expenses.

Totally unversed in economics, the Sweeney children wear out shoes and schoolbooks, clothes and toys, have to have their teeth straightened and music lessons, and ask for scooter bikes and ice cream cones—just as if there were no depression. Jim wishes he could save more money, but doesn't want to save it on the kids. Of course they could have done without the car they bought early last Spring, but it was a bargain!

Mrs. Sweeney is frank to say that she can't make head or tail out of the depression. If times are so bad, why are prices so much lower? And why does every newspaper advertisement and shop window flaunt temptation in her face? A trip through Macy's has become her spiritual exercise in restraint. Actually, she and the children have never in their lives been as well dressed for as little money. And if she can possibly manage the means—and Jim—the living room is going to benefit by some new furniture and a new radio before Santa Claus comes again.

Mrs. Sweeney feels that the depression has been overdone. As long as Jim keeps his health and his job and pays his insurance premiums, she sees little to worry about. Of course, some people are out of jobs, and in want, but she is unwilling to meet hardship before it comes. Meanwhile the children are growing up, and life goes on!

IN AND around New York City there are ten million Sweeneys. Their incomes are under $6,000—but most of them still have incomes. Independent of agriculture and the primary industries, they have escaped most of the economic distresses prevailing elsewhere. These Sweeneys are the best-off group of people in the world today. They have made the savings banks bulge with unprecedented deposits. Cash in circulation was never higher. New York's expansion goes on—with subways building at $14,000,000 a mile; the $350,000,000 Radio City development is rising, requiring 10,000,000 working days; last year the Hudson River Bridge gave the jobs that $60,000,000 buys.

In 1931, residential building was 26% above the previous year—due mostly to small homes built for and bought by the Sweeneys. Fourteen million dollars a day was spent in retail trade; with less money the Sweeneys bought more merchandise from department stores than in bullish 1929. Automobile sales, Ford excluded, increased 13% in 1931—and 78% of the increase came from districts where family incomes average under $4,000! The Sweeneys made 1931 the best year the manufacturers of mechanical refrigerators and oil-burners ever had in this market. They are still living much as they always have, still spending, and still in the mood to spend. They believe that business will get better in time—as it always has!

And they still continue to read this newspaper in overwhelming majority. The News reaches two-thirds of all city families—including more Stuyvesants, and Sweeneys—than any other New York paper; and one-fifth of the families in the New York suburbs. It is the only medium here that singly covers the market.

And they still buy from News advertisements. Otherwise there is no way of accounting for the advertising gain of 1,925,000 lines this paper had last year.

So if you want to do more business in 1932, give some quick and thorough consideration to the Sweeneys—and The News. The market is the best in the country just now. And the medium is the best in the market! The small page still does more work for advertisers. And 1932 circulation—at 1928 rates—lowers advertising costs!

CATHOLIC "TECH" TO SPECIALIZE IN TRAINING AIRMEN

Cardinal Reveals Plans for New School.

BY THE REV. JOHN EVANS.

Underprivileged boys from the Catholic archdiocese of Chicago, who qualify for admission to the new Holy Name Technical school at Lockport, will receive thorough training in aviation. Formal announcement of the opening on Decoration day of the new school, which he declared to be a "new departure" for the church, was made yesterday by Cardinal Mundelein.

He explained that the selection of aviation as a primary subject was made after a study of the technical field. He said he found that the only expert craft not overcrowded is that of the aviation ground mechanic. The development of aviation, the cardinal added, might be materially aided by the training of additional first class ground mechanics.

He Stresses Training.

Thorough training for this work was stressed by the cardinal as he outlined plans for the new school. He stated that the aviation and other departments of the school will be supervised by thirty Franciscan brothers from a religious community in Coblenz, Germany. The new Diesel motor, as developed both in America and Germany for aviation purposes, will be the school's specialty.

The project, Cardinal Mundelein said, is one of the efforts of the church toward the relief of the present unemployment. The school is intended, at least at the start, to accommodate 500 boys, 14 years old or over.

"Special efforts," the cardinal explained, "will be made to learn the inclination and adaptitude of each boy before being admitted. Hundreds of boys are annually thrust into 'white collar' jobs for which they are totally unfitted."

Cardinal Mundelein reviewed the history of boys' interests in the past generation.

Today, It's Flying.

"The youth of the last generation wanted to learn about automobiles," he said. "Today his ambition is to know how to fly. One of the ways to advance aviation is in having expert ground mechanics, together with skilled pilots. Of course, the new Holy Name school will only be a drop in the bucket, but we expect to make it a good drop."

"In no sense is the institution to be a school for delinquents," said Cardinal Mundelein. "Only those boys whose parents are unable to give them the advantages they crave will be enrolled. Admittance to the school will be made by application to the central office of the Holy Name society and these applications will be passed on by a clerical committee."

Cardinal Mundelein announced that the huge hangar, one of the largest of a dozen or more buildings to be erected on the school site, has already been completed. Classes will begin this summer. The institution will be maintained principally by the Catholic Salvage bureau, an organization of prominent Catholic laymen of the archdiocese, he said.

FATHER KILLS SLAYER OF SON AND CONFESSES

Waverly, O., May 11.—[Special.]—Joe Reilly, 60, whose son John, 34, was shot to death during an election argument yesterday, gave himself up to Pike county authorities today and admitted he had killed the slayer of his son.

The second victim of the double tragedy was Charles Pratt, 45, who lives on a farm adjoining that of the elder Reilly.

The shooting of John Reilly took place at a voting booth at Camp Creek, 15 miles southwest of here, following a dispute over issues involved in the primary.

Today Reilly told authorities he went into the woods near his farm and met Pratt. He said Pratt had a pistol wrapped in a red handkerchief and that Pratt fired at him three times. Reilly said he then shot Pratt with a shotgun.

Reilly was taken to jail, but no charge was immediately filed against him.

He will be escorted by the Chicago Black Horse troop and mounted band under command of Capt. Paul Butler. The Northwestern Military and Naval academy, the St. John's Military academy, and the Morgan Park Military academy have also consented to participate in the parade, Maj. Beals said.

HERO OF HOLDUP INTERCEDES FOR GUILTY BANDIT

Laurent Clody, who last Sunday shot and killed a bandit who attempted to rob his flower shop at 3900 North Clark street, appeared yesterday in Judge Walter Stanton's court to intercede for Carl Hallex, under sentence of from one to 10 years for larceny.

Hallex had just been sentenced by Judge Stanton when Clody stepped to the bench and asked that the defendant be placed on probation. When Clody identified himself, Prosecutor John L. Murphy expressed surprise at the plea.

"Hallex is my brother-in-law," Clody said, "The man I killed was a known criminal." Judge Stanton refused the request and pointed out that the charge of robbery with a gun against Hallex had been changed to larceny on his plea of guilty.

Hallex, 23 years old, of 6450 Kimbark avenue, was arrested in the attempt robbery of an employé of the Young drug store, 6201 Stony Island avenue. His accomplice, Jack Hawes, was shot and killed by police.

FIRE NEAR SCHOOLHOUSE.

Fire yesterday slightly damaged a frame house near the Franklin Junior High and Elementary school, Goethe and Wells streets. The pupils were not endangered and no fire drill was called.

"NURSE, show her our bottle"

"AFTER using Astring-o-sol in my office regularly for years I now have complete confidence in it. It will do what is claimed for it. After office treatments I will say to a patient—'I want you to gargle with Astring-o-sol. Do you know what it is? Nurse, show her our bottle. Let her taste and smell it. You can get Astring-o-sol anywhere and it isn't expensive. Dilute it to suit your taste. Use it regularly. It soothes irritation. It is antiseptic, with combined bactericidal and astringent action. It penetrates deeply and leaves the mouth clean, fresh and tasty.'"

The above is quoted from a letter in the files of Frederick Stearns & Co., Detroit. Astring-o-sol is a mouthwash which is used and prescribed widely by physicians and dentists in every section of the country.

DIG UP VIRTUES OF SINFUL SODOM AND GOMORRAH

Excavators Find a High Culture Existed.

ROME, May 11.—(AP)—The inhabitants of Sodom and Gomorrah reached a high state of culture before they were destroyed by "brimstone and fire from the Lord out of heaven."

Such is the conclusion of Jesuit archæologists of the Pontificial Biblical Institute of Rome, who are unearthing near the Jordan what they believe to be the twin cities of "very grievous" sin.

The excavators have concluded that 4,000 years ago, in the later bronze age, the supposed cities where there lived not ten righteous men held residents who knew how to paint murals and to write a language.

Pope Aids Expedition.

An anonymous American and the pope have financed the expedition, which has uncovered mural paintings declared by the institute to be the oldest yet found in Mediterranean countries with the possible exception of Egypt.

Among the ruins of this largest city excavated in Palestine were dozens of flat pieces of pottery with marks of a crude alphabet on them. These indicated that the inhabitants had a primitive language. They have not yet been deciphered.

The pottery pieces gave occasion to workmen excavating the city to perpetrate a swindle on Fathers Alexis Mallon and Robert Koeppel, in charge of the work.

Workmen's Trick Bared.

The Jesuits suddenly began to find an astonishing number of pieces bearing language marks. They carried them to the laboratory at Jerusalem for examination and ascertained that the vast majority were present day fakes. The workmen, who were given small tips on finding objects of archæological interest, had made them themselves and planted them on the site.

The people of the supposed Sodom and Gomorrah lived before the iron age, but they exercised great ingenuity in utilizing other materials. The excavators found stone ovens in the irrectangular houses. These are similar to ovens still in use in some peasant parts of northern France, England, Wales, and Ireland.

Confirms Bible Story.

Traces of violent conflagrations were found in the ruins, tending to confirm the Biblical story of the city's destruction. Father Mallon said that on the plain below the hill on which the cities stood there was a curious rock formation, about five feet high which legend associates with Lot's wife, who, according to the Biblical story, was turned into a pillar of salt at the time the cities were destroyed.

The excavators penetrated twenty-six feet and dug through three cities, each built on the ruins of another. Underneath these three, they said, is probably a fourth. The ruins of Sodom and Gomorrah were found in the top layer.

Aviation Notes

Many Chicago stamp collectors have watched the flight of the U. S. S. Akron with great interest, for the Navy airship carries 706 pounds of mail, about 41,705 pieces, packed in eleven pouches, in special covers bearing cachets reading, "U. S. Navy, 1932. U. S. S. Akron. Coast to coast trip carrying mail. United States Postoffice Department." Another cachet, giving the arrival time, will be stamped on the back at Sunnyvale, Cal., and the covers will be sent to the collectors who prepared them.

The National Air Transport division of United Air Lines, operated between Chicago and Dallas, Tex., is six years old today. It was the first American company formed to carry air mail and during six years has carried 333,130,120 letters, flying a total of 15,000,000 miles. The original daily flight schedule has been increased from 2,010 to 15,000 miles.

The Birmingham Aero club and other civic organizations of the Alabama city are sponsoring an air carnival to be held June 3 to 5, at the city's Municipal airport, which recently was given an ATA rating, the highest conferred by the United States Department of Commerce.

British Court Hears About 'Sportsmen's Dispute.'

BY JOHN STEELE.
[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 11.—Two men involved in what was "regretfully" described as a "sportsmen's dispute" appeared as parties to a suit for damages for assault today. One charged the other with striking him several hard blows on the wrist with the butt end of a hunting crop.

Basil Ronassen testified that the incident occurred when Capt. Ronald Fox, who is a member of the Midkent stag hunt, rode on to the private pheasant shoot maintained by himself and several others.

Refused to Dismount.

"I asked him to dismount, but he did not do so," Ronassen testified. "Although I warned him that it was dangerous in the presence of seven guns he made no attempt to leave. I took hold of his bridle to get him out of the wood."

Ronassen started to lead the horse away, whereupon Capt. Fox used his spurs, according to the testimony. Then Ronassen stumbled, discharging his gun.

Afraid of Other Barrel.

Capt. Fox testified that the master went into the wood to get the hounds while he held his horse. Ronassen grabbed his bridle, shouting angrily, he said.

"When the master returned," the captain went on, "Ronassen shouted, 'Pull him off!' and the master replied, 'No, I'm blowed if I do.' The gun suddenly went off and I struck Ronassen once in order to get away. I was afraid the other barrel might go off."

New Hats Have an Abundance of Personality

And Beach Models Are Marvels for Size.

BY RHEA SEEGER.

THERE'S nothing vague or unassuming about the new hats. They all have plenty of personality, from the tiny pan size variety to the floppy cartwheels of straw which will take up much of the space on all beaches this year. To pursue the beach hat subject, and to do right by it, needs a person with a collection of gigantic adjectives, superlatives that have been magnified and inflated to describe the immensity of these giantess size creations for the normal size 1932 sun worshipers.

The beach hats wildly defy description . . . They will dwarf everything you can exaggerate about them . . . but they are to date the biggest and smartest circles to be found in any sports shop in Chicago! You won't encounter any difficulties in finding them; they sprawl all over the tops of the tables . . . perfectly huge concentric circles of bold colors that reel themselves around a correctly sized crown . . . the straw is usually smooth and woven in a wide pattern.

You'll wear them with beach clothes, of course, but the way to get them to the beach without adding a trailer to your method of transportation will be something to sharpen your imagination with.

Street hats are going in for much wider and bigger brims. . . . You'll have to admit that there isn't anything more flattering for the feminine makeup than a drooping wide brim that soothingly keeps you from squinting and squizzling from strong sunlight and glaring pavements.

Big leghorn hats have been revived . . . thin supple models that can be creased and folded and even packed and then unpacked days later without a wrinkle. Silk crowns that look like a piece of material carelessly draped and tied around the head make the new difference in these new leghorns that come in a most delightful crusty brown shade called burnt brown. You will find leghorn straw hats with both black or brown silk crowns. . . . They are the correct answer as to what to wear for summer prints or for popular black and brown silk crêpe afternoon frocks.

Shiny black balibuntal straw hats also boast about their wide, becoming brims. . . . However, these new brims are stiffly bent and curved to stay in place. They seem a bit more molded than softer straws. Exciting new models are real—something to be thrilled over—for they are trimmed with perky bows of plain and tucked white organdy, quite the freshest and most original idea that you could dream about for a hot day. Other air cooled ideas in the millinery mode are the straw hats with crocheted crowns . . . some sophisticated black and navy blue sailored brims keep company with shallow crowns of white or cream colored Irish lace . . . others use crocheted crowns of soft thread or thin yarn.

The small hats seem smaller but smarter than ever . . . Beret buyers will cheer loudly for the new ping-pong berets that are cleverly knit or crocheted or maybe it is tatted, of soutache braid. . . . The diminutive results are properly bumpy and nubby . . . the perfect tops for boucle and knitted clothes, since every sporting color is available at absurdly small sums.

Lovely Gowns Mark Annual English Court

American Women Bow to Their Majesties.

BY ANN WHITTINGHAM.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 11.—The spectacle which never fails to fascinate London with its brilliance was staged again tonight—an endless queue of motor cars carrying debutantes to their majesties' first court of the season at Buckingham palace.

Although King George, Queen Mary and the court circle were in mourning for the late French president, guests at the palace wore the exquisite dresses originally intended for the occasion. Ladies of the royal circle all wore gowns suggesting mourning—white, grey or court trains of black velvet. The king wore black buckles on his shoes and a black jeweled sword.

Thirteen Americans were among the hundreds who answered their majesties' gilt edged "command" cards to attend what was known as the diplomatic court. At the request of the American ambassador, Andrew W. Mellon, they were sponsored by Mme. Regis de Oliveira, wife of the Brazilian ambassador and acting doyenne of the diplomatic corps.

Mrs. David K. E. Bruce, Ambassador Mellon's daughter, who will hereafter be the official embassy hostess, was the first American presented. Mrs. Bruce wore a simple white gown, becoming to her youth, of georgette with an overdress of lace, lightly embroidered with rhinestones, a train to match embroidered with silver, and carried a white feather fan.

Four other ladies of the embassy enjoyed the distinction of entering Buckingham palace not by the long queue in the Mall, but by the diplomatic entrance on Buckingham palace road. They were the wives of embassy officials who have taken their posts since last season. Mrs. Eugene H. Dooman, wife of the first secretary, wore a satin gown and train of a delicate shade of coral and carried a white feather fan. Mrs. H. David Finley, wife of the honorary counselor of the embassy, wore a gown of heavy white taffeta, trimmed with silver. Her train of the same material was lined with lamé. To complete her all white ensemble Mrs. Finley carried a white feather fan and wore a diamond necklace and other diamond jewelry.

Mrs. Finley is a granddaughter of the late Levi P. Morton, former vice president of the United States and minister to France. She was a bride this year and has taken a house in Eaton place, thoroughly suitable for fashionable entertaining. The other embassy ladies were Mrs. William T. Pigott Jr., wife of Maj. Pigott, military attaché, and Mrs. Cortlandt Parker, wife of Lieut. Col. Parker. Mrs. Parker's court gown was a beautiful creation in peach blue. The gown's tippet was of peach satin and the train of turquoise blue velvet. She carried a blue feather fan.

In the general circle of ladies who went to the court was Miss Estelle Frelinghuysen of New Jersey, cousin of Lieut. Col. Parker. She chose white tulle for her gown with crystal embroidery. It fitted tightly to the knees and from there flared in innumerable folds. The train of this Reville creation was of silver lamé, lined with pink chiffon. She carried a pale pink fan. Having short hair, Miss Frelinghuysen found it necessary to wear a bandeau to hold the headdress. Pearls were her jewels and she wore a Burgundy red evening cloak with a becoming blue fox collar.

Among the debutantes were two girls from Boston, Alice Lovering and Hilda Foster, and one from New York, Natica Nast, who is a daughter of Condé Nast, publisher of Vogue. In Miss Nast's court gown was reflected the most appropriate design of a Patou creation. Simplicity was found in only the most perfect cut. It had a Grecian effect with soft folds of white satin falling from a high waistline, with train and slippers of the same material. No color note was introduced into the ensemble and her jewels were restricted to diamonds in earrings, bracelets, and brooch. Her evening cloak was of mink.

Miss Mary Elizabeth Beebe followed her debut of last November in Philadelphia by her curtsey in the English court. The bodice of her dress was cloth of silver and the skirt of soft clinging material, which flared at the hem. The train was her mother's wedding veil, lined with cloth of silver to match her dress, and she carried a dainty formal Victorian bouquet. In her "carriage," as autos still are called by the palace footmen, she wore a sealskin coat with white fox collar and cuffs.

Miss Denise Livingston of New York, who claims descent through Robert Livingston from the earls of Linlithgow and Callendar, made her debut tonight in the land of her education. Her gown was of white, silver and lamé, with two white silver roses fastened on her shoulder. Her skirt fell from an effective torsade belt in graceful fullness to a train of the same material.

Hailing from the far west Miss Isobel McCreery of San Francisco wore a simply draped gown, a creation of rose, silver and lamé, with a chiffon and velvet train of slightly deeper shade of rose with embossed silver flowers. She carried a pink ostrich feather fan and wore satin slippers to match her dress. A narrow pearly diamenté bandeau held the three white feathers required of presentees in honor of the prince of Wales.

Many Informal Parties for Visitor

Miss Letitia Channon and Miss Edith Nesbit (right) are busy every moment during the latter's visit to Miss Channon and her mother, Mrs. James H. Channon of 222 East Chestnut street, for although there are no large, formal parties being given just now, every one is glad of an excuse to entertain in a jolly, informal way, and what better excuse could there be than a young and attractive out of town visitor? Miss Nesbit is from Warrenton, Va., and is a sister of Scott Nesbit, the husband of the former Ruth Channon. Miss Nesbit will be here through next week.

Fail to Agree on Orchestra Personnel Cut

BY EDWARD MOORE.

Peace has not settled yet on the affairs of the Chicago Symphony orchestra. A protracted conference between Henry E. Voegeli, manager of the orchestra, and the board of the Chicago Federation of Musicians headed by its president, James C. Petrillo, at the federation headquarters yesterday afternoon ended in a deadlock with the opposing parties as much at issue as when they began.

The single point of debate was the number of men to be employed. The orchestral association made a proposal to carry on next season with an orchestra of eighty-seven men, ten less than the number used in the season just ended. This was opposed by Mr. Petrillo, who insisted upon the full strength. No compromise was considered and the meeting ended with no date fixed for future negotiations.

The controversy involves $21,000 for the season. The orchestral association had previously issued a statement to the effect that its deficit for this season would be $82,000, also that the income of the orchestra was derived mainly from the intake of the orchestra, rentals of Orchestra hall, and various investments, all of which had been falling off of late. Its only chance of continuance, continued the statement, was to lower the expenses of the orchestra. The dismissal of ten men would therefore account for more than one-third of the amount involved.

Several other plans for lowering expenses had been proposed by the association and accepted by the federation. Among them was the reduction in number of concerts from 126 to 100 during the twenty-eight weeks' season and the lowering of the weekly wage scale from $85 to $75 a man. This would have meant less money to the players and a further saving of some $27,000 to the association, but with practically no change in the rate of pay per concert. At the best, the association contemplated a deficit of $40,000 for next season.

This was verbally accepted by Mr. Petrillo, but the meeting broke up on the question of the discharge of ten players. No indication was given by either side as to what the next move would be.

At no time this season has the orchestra association made an appeal for funds to assist in its operations. Even though the orchestra should not play next season, it is promised that the closing down will not be permanent, but that the orchestra will be revived as soon as financial conditions look better.

Masons to Dedicate Lodge Memorial to Washington Today

Washington, D. C., May 11.—(AP)—Leaders in Masonry today reviewed their plans for the dedication tomorrow of a towering temple of granite—the national memorial of the order to Washington the Mason—and found them complete.

There were thousands of Masons in the capital for the ceremonies on Shooters hill in nearby Alexandria.

The George Washington Masonic National Memorial association convened in the temple at Alexandria and retained its present slate of officers.

Many of them have been identified with the work of raising funds and directing plans for the structure since the idea grew out of the call almost a quarter century ago by members of the Alexandria-Washington lodge, No. 22, for some safe place to house memento of Washington.

The first President was once master of the Alexandria lodge and he at one time owned the land where the temple was built.

President Hoover, members of his cabinet, diplomats and house and senate members will be among the spectators tomorrow at the dedication. Robert S. Barrett, grand marshal of ceremonies, said today that 75,000 Masons and spectators were expected.

Louis a Watres of Scranton, Pa., president of the association, reported that not one cent of indebtedness remains on the structure thus far completed. He said that $3,644,189 had been spent.

A large delegation of Illinois Masons left Chicago yesterday on the Capitol limited of the Baltimore and Ohio railroad for Washington, D. C., to attend the dedication of the Washington Masonic memorial at Alexandria, Va., today.

Methodists Urged to Approve More Liberal Divorce Rule

Atlantic City, N. J., May 11.—(AP)—Further liberalization of the Methodist Episcopal church's regulation on divorce was recommended today to the Quadrennial conference.

The proposed changes, as presented by the subcommittee to the committee on the state of the church, suggested that the church recognize as valid grounds for divorce "adultery or other conditions, which through mental torture or physical peril invalidates the marriage vow."

From the date of Methodism's foundation in 1784 until 1928 the church recognized only adultery as grounds for divorce. In 1928 the discipline was changed to make grounds for divorce valid for "adultery or its moral equivalent."

The 1928 change, which was regarded as a liberalizing move, was adopted only after strenuous opposition, and a similar fight against further liberalization was forecast.

Woman of 100 Describes Life in Early West

BY KATHERINE KELLEY.

Miss Margaret Gorman will be 100 years old on May 22. At the home of her nephew, William F. Gorman, 7440 Merrill avenue, yesterday she apologized because she "hadn't ever done anything to be interviewed about."

"Dear me. I've lived most of my life right here in Illinois, and I haven't gone anywhere much," the centenarian said, bobbing her gray head brightly as she pulled a lavender shawl about her shoulders. A prayer book lay open in her lap. She removed her spectacles and looked at her inquisitor out of a pair of twinkling Irish eyes. Then came the story of a life that "wasn't worth telling about."

"Why, I was born in Ireland. But when I was 8 years old I sailed with my parents for America on the George Washington. We made our trip in 23 days, the fastest up to that time. We came by canal boat and train to Indiana, where my father took a homestead at New Providence in Clark county.

"Father loved America. But he only lived two years to enjoy it. My mother didn't want to come to America, but she liked the farm and never wanted to leave it.

"I can remember how we cooked meals before there were any cook stoves. We would have a pot hanging over the blaze in the fireplace and a skillet on the hearth. If the fire went out we would walk a mile to borrow some live coals from a neighbor. Once I saw a man lay some kindling near a stump and fire his musket into it. It made a nice fire.

"During the war every one was talking about Chicago, and in 1865 we moved there like every one else. We built a house at 15th street and Racine. I lived in that house until seven years ago—60 years in all.

"I missed all the excitement of the Chicago fire. A few days before the fire I went on my first visit back to Indiana. I wanted to come back, but I was advised to wait, although our house wasn't in the path of the fire. There was no depot and they were afraid I wouldn't find a place to land Chicago smelled like parched peanuts for ten miles around. Every one came to our house to tell their stories of the fire and O, dear, dear, it was so sad."

A part of Miss Gorman's life was spent raising her dead sister's motherless brood of six, all but one living to see a 70th birthday. Her relatives told of her ability as a business woman in managing some Water street property.

The hundred years which rest so lightly on Miss Gorman's shoulders have not exacted such payments as deafness, bad eyesight, and illness, although she walks with a cane. She declared she hadn't had a real cold in three years—well, maybe only one—and there wasn't anything on the family table she couldn't eat. She reads the newspapers faithfully.

British Court Will See One Chicago Gown

Louise Dewey Will Wear Hometown Product.

BY JUDITH CASS.

THE Americans being presented at the Court of St. James's this month may be complying with the request that all ladies wear dresses of British material, but at least one of those to be presented at the June courts won't be able to comply with this request, which was attached to each gilt edged invitation sent out by the lord chamberlain for these first two courts, for Louise Dewey's gown is to be made right here at home.

Her mother, Mrs. Charles S. Dewey, has sent drawings of several different frocks—a presentation dress should be a gown, shouldn't it, even when the wearer is as youthful as Louise?—to the young lady at Farmington, who is busy with preparations for her graduation from Miss Porter's fashionable school and with rehearsals for the Shakespearean play in which she is to have a part on June 8, and probably is more concerned with those immediate affairs than with her presentation on June 23 or 24. However, I have no doubt she is properly thrilled at the idea of "going to look at the queen," for what young girl—or old one, for that matter—wouldn't be?

Mother Will Order Gown.

Mrs. Dewey will order the gown as soon as Louise makes her selection, and then Mrs. Dewey, with the precious outfit [perhaps the necessary three plumes and court train will be obtained in London, but they, too, may be Chicago products], will go east for the graduation exercises, and to sail on June 10 on the Paris.

Miss Marjorie Goodman, the other Chicago girl to be presented at court in June, has been studying in Florence this winter, and her mother, Mrs. James M. Hopkins, says: "I have no idea where she is getting her gown or what it will be."

Mrs. Hopkins is sailing on May 28 to meet her daughter in Paris. Accompanying her will be her father's widow, Mrs. Henry S. Robbins, and since both women are in mourning they will take no part in the festivities attendant upon young Miss Goodman's court presentation, the arrangements for which were made many months ago.

Invitations for the June courts have not been sent out yet, so neither Miss Dewey nor Miss Goodman has received hers, but they have been notified that their names were on Ambassador Mellon's list, so there isn't much doubt but that the engraved invitations will be forthcoming.

TRIBUNE'S MAP OF CHICAGOLAND ON SALE TODAY

Forty-Foot Highways Are Shown in Red.

BY HAL FOUST.

THE TRIBUNE'S 1932 Chicagoland map is offered to the motoring public today as a guide for maximum pleasure and efficiency in driving the highways and byways of the metropolitan area.

As in other years, the map covers in detail an area that includes Milwaukee and Oconomowoc, Wis.; Harvard, Genoa, De Kalb, Joliet, and Chicago Heights, Ill.; Dyer, Valparaiso, South Bend, and Elkhart, Ind., and Cassopolis, Dowagiac, and South Haven, Mich. The map includes the 134 miles of two lane pavement built in Chicagoland in the last year.

Wide Roads in Red.

The four lane pavements, constructed after years of editorial campaigning by THE TRIBUNE for wider roads, stand out on the map in red ink so that these fast and safe lanes of travel may easily be selected in planning a trip. Grade separations are also indicated.

New this year is an index of 677 villages and cities in the metropolitan area, listed alphabetically with their populations, mileages from the loop, and a guide for locating them on the map. There is also a directory of 301 golf and country clubs, with the daily fee courses identified.

Three hundred and five lakes, 46 forest preserves, 47 airports, and 24 points of historical interest are included on the map with an index and guide for locating them. Rivers, railroads, and landmarks, federal highways and undeveloped country lanes are also shown on the map with symbols readily understood.

Map Easy to Read.

All of this detail is carried on a map of reasonable size without any crowding and without any confusion to the reader through the use of colors that not only contribute to the legibility but also result in a lithograph of esthetic merit. On an old ivory background are blue lakes and rivers, green forest preserves and golf courses, red 40 foot roads, and black two lane roads.

New this year is an insert in large scale showing a seven mile stretch of Chicago's lake front, from Diversey parkway to 41st street. Identified with numbers or legend are the World's Fair buildings, completed, under construction or proposed; the loop business district with railroad stations and important buildings, and the through traffic streets.

Map Will Not Tear.

The map is printed on a high grade of paper that will not tear when opened in the wind while on a drive. The fold is accordion style so that it can be used on a trip without being opened all of the way. When folded, the map fits easily into a coat pocket or a pocket of an automobile.

The map may be had for 25 cents by calling at THE TRIBUNE public service offices at 1 South Dearborn street, at the Tribune Tower, or at 3101 East 63d street. By mail, the price is 30 cents, which includes postage. The Chicagoland map is issued annually without profit to THE TRIBUNE.

CANADA ACTS TO TAKE CONTROL OF RADIO PROGRAMS

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

OTTAWA, Ont., May 11.—Canada is taking immediate steps to institute nationalized radio broadcasting as recommended by a parliamentary committee. House documents today carried Premier R. A. Bennett's notification of a nationalization bill to be submitted at once to parliament.

Under the scheme five government owned and operated 50,000 watt stations, stragetically situated across the continent, will broadcast what the government promises will be high class programs.

A commission will control all radio matters, including advertising, which is to be limited to five per cent of the broadcasting time. The nationalization move will in no way preclude Canadian hookups with existing American chains.

CERMAK PRAISES POLICE COURAGE IN BANDIT FIGHT

Mayor Cermak praised the police yesterday for their willingness to shoot it out with bandits and other criminals, even at the cost of the lives of four policemen who have died in such battles since the first of the year. Commenting on the fact that while four policemen had been killed, they and their comrades had killed 18 criminals in the same time, he said:

"I should think that the crooks would begin to realize that they can't win when they are up against an outfit which kills four or five of them for every one of its own men who gives up his life.

"The number of criminals killed by citizens also appears to be increasing. There were 28 slain by citizens in 1931 and 13 so far this year. I wish there was some adequate way of recognising the courage of the untrained citizen who stands up and shoots it out with a desperado, especially in such cases as that of the 17 year old girl who recently stood up under fire in her father's store and brought a bandit down.

"The community should mark such persons for distinction for their part in ridding Chicago of its diminishing criminal element."

Chicago's unemployed were assured yesterday of seed for their vegetable gardens, when the joint emergency relief fund put a crew of men from its shelters to work at 330 South Market street, making up family assortments of vegetable garden seed. Under direction of the fund's county-wide garden committee, headed by Warner G. Baird, twelve thousand pounds of garden seed and onion sets purchased at cost are being sorted into packets. These will be sent to local welfare and relief stations through the county to be supplied to needy families.

Girls! DON'T REDUCE
Until I tell you of the wonderful new way I discovered in BATTLE CREEK
YOU eat all you want of delicious foods—take no harmful drugs like back-breaking exercises—Yet you lose thyroid—no nauseating "salts;" no excess fat so fast you can hardly believe the scales—you wear clothes sizes smaller as inches peel off bust, hips, limb, neck, arms, and face—Oh! it's so wonderful—you'll never realize how thrilled you are going to be until you actually see what it does for you. You feel so peppy—and you look years younger. If you don't win love after this—you are just hopeless, girls.
Here's the recipe—and be sure to cut it out of the paper—You just get yourself a big bottle of BonKora—enough for a month or six weeks. It never costs over a dollar. Eat three square meals a day—four if you prefer—but cut out the starches and fats and eat more of the good strength and tonic foods that the directions in the package tell about.
This BonKora is different from every other treatment you ever heard of. Doctors tell us fat is 66 per cent water anyhow, and this treatment simply makes the fatty parts of your figure throw off enough of the heavy water to make you more nearly NORMAL in weight.
Now let me warn you—when you have reduced your weight and measurements to normal, be satisfied and quit taking BonKora, except occasionally as a conditioner. Don't let yourself become too thin.
BonKora is free from any harmful drugs, is not habit-forming and may be taken by any one according to directions. Remember the name BONKORA—Beware of imitations! Big bottle of BonKora only 98c at all

GUERNSEY CLUB AUCTION SALE TO OPEN TODAY

Members of the American Guernsey Cattle club will open their annual national consignment sale at 11 a. m. today at the Chicago Guernsey farm near Hinsdale. Plans for the sale were completed at the 55th annual meeting of the association yesterday at the Hotel Sherman.

Sixty head of pure bred cattle will be up for bids with Col. Bain, Lexington, Ky., acting as auctioneer. About 50 consignees are represented as owners of the cattle, which have been shipped here from Maine, Massachusetts, Pennsylvania, Washington, Oregon, and intervening states.

Noted breeders and dairy farm operators yesterday found optimism in the report that sales of Guernsey milk were steadily gaining in the 48 states. In the election of officers Robert Scoville of New York City was named president for his 16th successive term.

Story of Maid and Households Is Interesting

Beatrice Kean Seymour Is the Author.

BY FANNY BUTCHER.

"Maids and Mistresses," by Beatrice Kean Seymour. [Knopf].

THE members of the Book League of America were presented with "Maids and Mistresses" as the club's choice for May—542 pages of fine print about a parlor maid by the name of Sally and the households in which she lived and worked. When the book ends Sally has had four positions, the first one of which is disposed of in a page, she has been deeply in love, she has been the mistress of a man twice her age, she has watched two disastrous marriages, and she knows life as few human beings of 20 know it. She has the quality of peace and gentleness, a character which is like a quiet eddy in the whirlpool of life.

BEATRICE SEYMOUR.

The book divides itself into two parts —Sally's observations of life and her own participation in it. The illegitimate daughter of a woman who died soon after the war [without ever disclosing the name of Sally's father], Sally is put into service at less than 14 by her grandparents despite a special aptitude for "learnin'," which she showed by winning a scholarship, and she always has a sort of aureole of breeding about her which endears her to those whom she serves.

Sees Marriage In Two Phases.

Sally observes marriage in two phases in the service of the Yorkes and the Hansons. The Yorkes consist of a passionately devoted husband, a beautiful wife who believes that marriage exists only for the purpose of bearing children, and the fruit of their union. As the years pass the wife becomes more and more the mother and less and less the wife until the husband finds surcease from his desperation first by an affair with another woman and finally by leaving his wife altogether. The wife promptly finds another man to give her his name, support her and to provide her with another child, and Sally leaves the uncongenial new household, her departure made easy by the illness of grandfather.

Her next position is [accidentally] in the London household of the woman who took pity on Mr. Yorke. She is married to a man who was injured in the war, and who, after urging her to take a lover, became passionately jealous when he suspected that she had. The reader and Sally meet her first when her husband has taken her to the country safely away from temptation—an outer suburb in which the Yorkes are also among the young marrieds.

With the Hansons Sally observes a marriage in which both the husband and the wife love each other devotedly but find their love a harassment. Tragedy stalks on the heels of Sanchia Hanson's resumption of the affair which, two years previously, had nearly wrecked her marriage. Until the last moment Sally hoped to go to France with Sanchia [whom she admired profoundly] but it was thought best that Sanchia sever all connection with her former life.

Starts to Take Part in Life.

Then Sally ceases to be an observer of life and becomes a participant when the son of her employer returns from Oxford during his mother's absence at a "cure," and finds Sally as she finds him, the most enchanting person in the world. He plays the piano. She listens with rapt bliss to his playing. He wants to marry her. She innocently believes that marriage with him is possible. She is desperately, deeply, wholly in love with him. Only fate prevents her giving herself to him. She is sacked when the angry mother finds out what has happened, and, still in love with the weak Colin, she is about to jump off the Westminster bridge when a middle aged man grabs her, takes her to his house, installs her as helper to his housekeeper and pays no attention whatever to her until he suddenly realizes that Sally is the only person in whose presence he is at peace [after a life of hectic unhappiness].

Very gently and without any pretenses of marriage he persuades her to become his mistress. Then he does really fall in love with her and is determined to divorce the wife who ten years before had run off with another man and whose return he had been awaiting with gradually decreasing eagerness. He is about to buy a house in the country where he and Sally can live happily, he has just made a will leaving to Sally everything he owns, he is as happy as Sally over the idea or the child which is on its way, when fate steps in.

The story of Sally is absorbing, even for 542 pages, although it would have been much more absorbing if there had been 200 pages less! The stories of the Yorkes and the Hansons are gone into with thoroughness and a frankness about sex which is not common in modern fiction. The characters discuss the relationships of men and women in marriage and out of it and in love and out philosophically—which is somewhat usual in modern novels.

There is real poignancy to the ending of the book, a poignancy which in retrospect vivifies the whole five hundred odd pages of the novel.

Eye Strain and Worry Create Tiny Wrinkles

Lift Up Those Sagging Mouth Corners.

BY ANTOINETTE DONNELLY.

Wrinkles that come on suddenly are caused by a withdrawal of the fatty tissue under the skin, as seen in the faces of women who have reduced not wisely nor too well. Also, you see the same thing in faces of women who have undergone a loss of weight through illness or through a nervous breakdown or some great emotional upheaval.

Other face wrinkles come from eye strain and from expression habits that are not conducive to a calm brow. Eye strain numbers a great many victims. The wrinkles may run horizontally or vertically over the brow. Also, the eye strain wrinkles appear under the lower lids and at the outer corners of the eyes. The ugliest and most disfiguring of eyestrain wrinkles are those vertical ones that are etched deeply into the skin just above the bridge of the nose.

I have noticed that this eyestrain disclosure will run in families, not by any heriditary right, but by a common family aversion to having to wear glasses. There is no other relief to offer than to wear glasses to ease the strain, with perhaps an eye lotion used daily to help along the good work. But if vanity is what is deterring folk from not wearing glasses, there is nothing gained if those two heavy, ageing lines appear above the nose bridge.

Nerve strain will cause wrinkles where there is no noticeable weight loss. Now, it isn't humanly possible to avoid nerve strain, nor to avoid the worr. that certain conditions of life precipitate from time to time. But the fact that every time we indulge in worrying we are spoiling that only face we have to greet the world with, ought to be of some help.

The expression habits we have full control over. We have to look the face over every once in a while to see that we are not developing some bad facial habit unconsciously, such as pulling down the mouth corners, squinting the eyes, or holding the eyebrows raised questioningly. That mouth corner depression is responsible for more aged looking mouths than any other contribution. The remedy is a mouth lift of your own operating.

Even though you feel silly, lift those mouth corners up in a beatific smile until you get the muscles so that they stop drooping. If the lines are deeply etched there by now, you'll need a skin food and a good astringent to tighten up the flabby corners.

Green Chiffon Print Perfect Dancing Frock for Discriminating Debutante

BY BETTINA BEDWELL.

PARIS.—[Special.]—Prints, ever since the Paris collections for spring and summer were shown, have been strenuously denying their predicted demise. For day wear, printed coats over plain dresses, printed dresses under plain coats, printed scarfs, fichus, hat bands, etc., are rampant for spring and summer. Coin dots, marguerites, and stripes are some of the outstanding print motifs.

Prints are going over big, both figuratively and literally, for evening as well. Large scattered flowers, either in two colors or more, are seen on pale pastel grounds. Sometimes the flower motif is in only one color. In the latter case there is often an accompanying little jacket in the same color, with shoes to match.

In the sketch today you will see the printed dress that every young débutante should have. It was made expressly for her, by Redfern. It is in green chiffon with large carnations printed in dark green and pale yellow, widely spaced. Smocking indicates the waistline, and there are two lines of smocking which start there and descend to the bottom of the hips, where they continue around the skirt in back, up to the waistline. This same smocking is repeated on the bodice of the dress.

The skirt of this dress, which reaches the floor, becomes very full at the sides, below the hips, where the smocking ends. The square neckline has a small standing ruffle of plain chiffon, which starts from the front sides, extending around the back. The short puffed sleeves are banded into rows of smocking.

YoungLoveCan Vanish Rapidly; Blue Skies Fade

Doris Tells Youngster to Be Prepared.

BY DORIS BLAKE.

"A sweetheart of mine told me he loved me. Then, when I saw him the next time he had forgotten all about it," tells "Epica." "He told me he wasn't sure whether he loved me or not because he didn't know."

And thus are sentimental dreams shattered! The girl takes the man at his word—and the boy tosses the word out carelessly, not realizing of what stuff the dreams of maids are compound.

My warning to you, boys, is that you'd better not be so careless with that good old "love you" phrase. One fine day you'll trip yourself into a breach of promise suit with it, or worse, into an unwelcomed altar trip. You can't go on fooling with those love phrases. There's dynamite in them. Anyway, you shouldn't go around telling girls you love them when you don't mean it, or when you don't know whether you do or not. It's not good cricket.

Tell them you like them awfully, you admire them, you love to be out with them, but reserve that big punch line for the real girl and occasion. Aside from the possibility of a breach of promise suit or any other discomfort to yourself, you don't want a girl going around dreaming about you, building up false hopes over you, do you, now? It isn't fair to the girl.

To you girls who believe everything you hear from the lips of boys, let me say you'd better abandon the practise. In this love business, better let actions do their loud speaking, too, before you begin thinking in trousseau terms. You see, of late years there has been pretty loose bandying about of the noble old phrase, "I love you!" Like the kiss, it has lost much of its old import. One time, you know, kisses were a sort of seal following the love declaration. Now kisses may mean no more than a "Howdy," and the love phrase has suffered a comparable collapse.

it was thrashed out pretty thoroughly at yesterday's meeting at Mrs. Waller Borden's.

Some felt that it would be better since the committee already had raised more than the quota it set itself—incidentally it is twice as much as the men thought the women would raise—to find out how much real chance there is of opera continuing, but others, including Mrs. Rockefeller McCormick, who certainly is the soul of optimism and faith, thought that every bit they can add to the fund is that much more of a guarantee that opera will not die in Chicago. The outcome was that it was decided to meet again on May 25 at Mr. Maurice L. Rothschild's apartment in the Drake.

Pledges of $625 were reported yesterday, bringing the committee's total to $51,725 and the total amount raised thus far by the men and women to $350,050. This is $149,950 short of the amount Samuel Insull says must be guaranteed for next year. Mrs. Arthur Meeker, chairman of the Friends of Opera, presided in the absence of Mrs. Charles K. Corsant, committee chairman, who is still in California with her sick daughter.

Among others at the meeting were Mrs. Charles H. Swift, Mrs. Harry H. Shearson, just back from a winter in Florida, Mrs. Jacob Baur, Mrs. Charles W. Dempster, Mrs. Arthur A. Small, Mrs. Edward F. Swift, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Miss Marie Rozet, Miss Peggy Hambleton, Mrs. Erich Gerstenberg, Mrs. David S. Cook, Mrs. Edwin Austrian, Mrs. Vernon Herbst, Mrs. Rothschild, Mrs. Ludwig Plate, and Mrs. H. B. Vanzwoll.

Mrs. Laurence O. Wilson is opening her residence at 700 Rosemary road in Lake Forest this afternoon from 1 to 5 o'clock for an exhibition and sale of children's clothing under the auspices of the Social Service committee of Highland Park. The proceeds of the sale will benefit the unemployed.

New Orient Society Lecture.

Henry Field sends word for the New Orient society of a lecture on "Educational Values in India," by Prof. J. M. Sen of Calcutta university on Sunday evening at the Chicago College club.

The Harvard school alumni are planning a dinner at the Blackstone on May 19 for Wilbur H. Ford, who has been teaching for fifty years. One hundred alumni of this south side school where so many well known Chicagoans went as boys, expect to attend the dinner.

Mrs. John Payne Kellogg of Lake Forest has just returned from a visit to her sister, Mrs. Robert Hunter, and her brother, Clarence B. Mitchell, and their families in California. Mr. and Mrs. Clarence Mitchell will arrive in Chicago on June 6 for a visit with their relatives, including Mrs. Mitchell's parents, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Garfield King. The Kings, by the way, plan to spend the summer as usual at their Montecito place and will go west the latter part of June.

Mr. and Mrs. John J. Mitchell are just back from a month's stay at their Santa Barbara estate. Mrs. Mitchell's mother, Mrs. J. Ogden Armour, is planning to go to her Michigan residence, "The Timbers," near Traverse City, in mid-June, and Mrs. Mitchell expects to spend part of the summer with her mother.

More News of Summer Plans.

Mr. and Mrs. Oakleigh Thorne Lewis (Bertha Palmer) have gone to Santa Barbara to spend the summer at "Las Tejas," the residence of Mr. Lewis' grandparents, Mr. and Mrs. Oakleigh Thorne, on Hot Springs road in Montecito. Mr. and Mrs. Potter Palmer III. still are in Sarasota, Fla., and the date for their coming to Chicago is indefinite.

Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Hall McCormick have moved out to their Lake Forest residence to spend the summer months there.

Mrs. Alfred H. Granger is sailing on the Statendam on May 21 to spend the summer in Vienna where she has taken an apartment for the season. She will be joined late in June by her daughter, Mrs. Charles E. Brown Jr. (Betty Granger) of New York and her two small sons, Charlie and Peter.

Miss Gwethalyn Jones has returned from Santa Barbara where she spent the winter at her residence, "Pepper Hill," and is at her Lake Forest estate for the summer. There has been some talk of Miss Jones introducing to Chicago society her niece, Miss Nora McCurdy, next winter, but Miss Jones tells me there are no definite plans made and that if her niece is with her it will be only for the Christmas holidays for Nora is to continue her studies next year at Bryn Mawr where she is a freshman this year.

Relief Society Told of Army Tourney Plans

Branch No. 16 of the Army Relief society, that comparatively small group which gives so much assistance to widows and orphans of officers and enlisted men of the regular army, held its annual meeting yesterday at the Casino, and Mrs. William H. Hubbard, who has presided over its meetings for six years, was reelected president. All the other members of the board are to continue in their respective offices. Mrs. Harry H. Shearson was reelected treasurer; Mrs. George A. Wildrick, secretary, and Mrs. Charles F. Fitts, recording secretary. Mrs. Frank Parker is honorary president.

The society is to continue its splendid work in its own quiet way and plans to branch out this year through coöperating patriotic organizations. The biggest thing on the immediate calendar, however, is the huge Washington bi-centennial military tournament to be staged by the 6th corps area from June 24 to July 4 at Soldier's field. Col. George A. Wildrick told the members all about it yesterday in a "sales talk." The show is to be the most impressive thing of its kind ever staged, according to Col. Wildrick, and the entire program of military maneuvers, gigantic tableaux, fireworks, and mock battles will be announced very shortly. Proceeds will be divided between the Army Relief society and the Joint Emergency Relief fund.

THE WHISPERER

By ROY VICKERS

SYNOPSIS.

The "Whisperer" crimes have held London terrorized for month. Numerous wealthy persons have been kidnaped and held for ransom. The ransom victim is sent a small wireless receiving set, by means of which the Whisperer speaks, using his own short wave, and gives directions for delivering the ransom demanded. Police dare not interfere, because death results for the captive if instructions are not carried out.

Roland Blatch joins the Whisperer's band in order to try to recover jewels he was forced to steal from his employer, Sir Henry Glazeborough, M. P., a leading philanthropist, in order to insure the safe return of his fiancée, Joyce Merrow, who was kidnaped by the bandit. Roland carries out the tasks assigned to him by the bandit and is involved in the killing of an unransomed victim, although the Whisperer has remained hidden from his view. Roland trails him, however, to his hideout and makes the startling discovery that the arch criminal is Sir Henry. The Whisperer takes Roland captive, but Roland escapes and returns to see Joyce. Chief Inspector Larpent is with her. Roland agrees to give himself up to the Whisperer to gain proof of Sir Henry's guilt.

INSTALLMENT XXVIII.

FACING DEATH.

To have asked where the house was would have been to put the Whisperer in a difficulty. And Larpent's instructions were that everything must be made easy for him.

"You will be quite safe there for a week or more. I shall, of course, tell your—er—hosts, but I think I may say without boasting that they would welcome a chance to do me a small service. I'll just get Weston to bring round the car."

To Roland's enthusiastic thanks, Sir Henry spoke on the telephone. Weston, Roland knew, was the private chauffeur, in no way connected with the gang—and he wondered what would be done about him

Sir Henry got over the difficulty with all his normal adroitness.

In the lower hall he said in an undertone:

"I have long waited for a man with more courage than sense to sit in that chair."

"I don't think we will trust Weston. A good, reliable fellow—but men of his class are incurable gossips. I will drive myself."

Roland nodded profound agreement then claimed a large Gladstone bag which he had left with the porter.

"As a matter of fact, sir," he explained, "I thought I was going straight to prison, so I brought along a change of clothing and a typewriter to write up my defense."

"That, I hope, will be quite unnecessary, but you will need your clothes."

A minute later Roland was sitting in the front of the big saloon beside Sir Henry—to be driven to his place of execution.

As the saloon started forward, a flying squad car slid out of the shadows of an adjacent side street and settled down to a steady pursuit. Simultaneously a red signal flashed on every police telephone box throughout London.

Sir Henry Glazeborough drove the big car to Parliament square, then turned north.

"It occurs to me, my dear Blatch, that possibly you might have been followed to my flat. Be good enough to turn the driving mirror so that you can see whether any one is following us now."

Roland did so. They were running up Whitehall. A hundred yards behind was the flying squad car.

"No one following!" reported Roland. Then it struck him that this might be unwise—that it might possibly arouse the Whisperer's suspicion. "As a matter of fact, I'm not quite sure. Carry on for a bit, sir, and I will report again soon."

"Upon my word, I do really believe that I am enjoying this adventure!" said Old Glassy with the fatuous Old Glassy laugh.

Sir Henry might be professionally fatuous, but the Whisperer was nothing of the kind. At any moment he might switch the driving mirror.

As they turned into Piccadilly Roland spoke again.

"There's a car about a hundred yards behind us. It was behind us in Whitehall."

"Dear, dear!" said Sir Henry. "I wonder if it could be—let me see, what do they call that department of Scotland Yard—O, yes, the flying squad! I wonder whether it could be the flying squad car? If it is, I am afraid our case is hopeless."

Roland said nothing and a few minutes later reported that the other car was still following them. He dared not do otherwise.

"I have an idea!" exclaimed Sir Henry. "Little did I ever think that I should deceive Scotland Yard but circumstances, my dear Blatch, alter cases. They are, we will presume, pursuing this car. We will let them go on pursuing the car but we ourselves will get out of it."

They had reached Kensington Gore and Sir Henry turned the saloon into the Mayflower garage.

"Drive this car back to the garage behind St. Christopher's mansions, Victoria street, and—er—please do so at once!" he ordered.

Roland, gripping his Gladstone bag, got out of the saloon. It was an enormous garage with an inclined way, up which cars could be driven to floors above. Old Glassy led the way for some hundred yards to the other end, where stood the coupé which Roland had last seen driven out of the garage in the house in St. John's wood that morning when he had discovered that the Whisperer was Old Glassy himself.

"This little car belongs to a friend of mine. And I feel sure—nay, positive"—Sir Henry was being very arch—"that in the circumstances he would be very glad to lend it to me for an hour or so."

Roland got in and placed the Gladstone bag between his knees. Sir Henry at once drove out by the opposite exit.

"I think we have thrown off the myrmidons of the law!" said Sir Henry as he turned southward. Roland, with something approaching consternation, thought so, too. All the elaborate machinery of telephone boxes and alert constables was now thrown out of gear. "But we must remember the old adage, my dear Blatch. 'Pride goeth before a fall.' Let us not be puffed up—let us rather be cautious! Keep your eyes open for a blind alley."

Roland had no intention of pointing out a blind alley. It was Sir Henry himself who spotted one and swung the coupé into it. He drove to the far end of it, turned, and waited.

"A fundamentally simple proposition, my dear Blatch! If a car is pursuing us, it is bound to pass very close to the mouth of this alley or it will not know which direction we shall take when we come out. I think we will now see whether there is a car waiting. Will you look to the left—I will look to the right. 'Two heads,' you know—'two heads'!"

There was no car waiting to the right and none to the left.

"I think we can now drive straight to the house of my friends.

The coupé ran south, then southeast, across Victoria street, and came to a stop outside a tall house in Pimlico, within half a mile of Sir Henry Glazeborough's flat. It was one of a terrace of houses which belonged to rich men a hundred years ago but were now mostly let in tenements.

It was now a quarter to two. The terrace was utterly deserted. Had there been a policeman on the beat, he would have paid no attention to the coupe.

In this house, Roland knew, the Whisperer intended to murder him. It was very unlikely that Sir Henry Glazeborough carried a revolver in his evening dress. He would have to pick one up in the house. Larpent's plan was all very well but Roland intended to keep the Whisperer in sight.

Inside the house Sir Henry produced an electric torch, professing that he did not know where the switch was. He led the way upstairs to a room on the first floor. He switched on the light at the door and Roland looked into what appeared to be a comfortably furnished study. Roland did not intend to go into any room alone but Sir Henry went in first. Roland followed, putting his Gladstone bag just inside the door.

In one corner a large safe had been built into the wall. An unusually long writing table, half the length of the room, was in the center of the floor.

The writing table, Roland guessed at once, was a fake. You lifted a lid and underneath was the Whisperer's wireless apparatus, a duplicate of that which he had seen in the house in St. John's wood.

There was the sofa—the bookcase of paper covered French novels and the cabinet which Roland knew contained food. There was every fitment in this room, complete with a loud speaking disc over the mantlepiece—that there had been in the other room. The difference was that there were no wires visible. This, evidently, was a permanent depot.

"Phew!" Sir Henry Glazeborough took out a large handkerchief and mopped his forehead. "The excitement of the chase has made me quite hot. We can, I think, congratulate ourselves that we have shaken off pursuit. If any one sees that coupé it will attract no attention. But what is the next step? There are no servants in the house and—O, dear, I feel quite exhausted! Let us sit down for a moment and make our plans."

Sir Henry sat in the chair that had its back to the fireplace. Roland took the chair opposite—the fake writing table between them. Perhaps there was a revolver in the drawer. Roland was watching the other's hands—ready to spring. But the hands folded on the surface of the table.

"I have long waited," began Sir Henry, the drawl gone from his voice, "for a man with more courage than sense to sit in that chair."

YOU COME OVER AND SEE WHAT THAT COW OF YOURS HAS DONE!
MINE! OURS YOU MEAN. WE WERE GOING TO GO SHARES ON HER.
SHARES NOTHING— SHE'S YOURS! SHE GOT INTO MY GARDEN AND HAS EATEN ALL THE VEGETABLES I'VE BEEN NURSING ALONG FOR WEEKS. THIS WILL COST YOU TEN BUCKS, AVERY.
OH BILL! YOU KNOW IT'S ONLY AN ACCIDENT. AND THEY WILL HAPPEN YOU KNOW.
I'M AWFULLY SORRY, BILL. I WAS GOING TO OFFER YOU A QUARTER INTEREST IN HORTENSE, THE COW, FOR $9.
ALL RIGHT, I'LL TAKE A QUARTER INTEREST IN LIEU OF DAMAGES. BUT IF SHE DOES IT AGAIN SHE'LL BE FOUR QUARTERS OF BEEF.

Pineapple Pie Begs for Place in May's Menus

Fresh, Juicy Fruit Now at State of Perfection.

BY MARY MEADE.

Here's hoping you are just as enthusiastic at your house about fresh, sweet, juicy pineapple as we are at ours. For that means we're both in luck this month. I've been wandering past genteel groceries and casting eyes at the big brown and green beauties for two months now. But always—except for a few weak moments—I have resolutely clutched my pocketbook and liedy on in anticipation.

Now, however, it's another story. Fresh pineapple is decidedly in season. It's to be had at less than half the price at which it came on the market back in March. And what's more—today's buys are more mature, better flavored, and altogether more desirable than the first comers.

Like all natural foods, pineapples vary with price and place, so whenever possible I should advise doing your own pineapple purchasing rather than leaving it up to the grocer. Choose the larger fruits with an all over smooth, yellow-brown coloring. This is important, for the greener fruits are unripe, and contain caustic juices which might injure the stomach lining. The spikes will pull out easily if the fruit is ripe.

Another seemingly inconsequential but really important thing to remember in using fresh pineapple is the fact that unlike most fruits, raw pineapple cannot be used successfully in gelatine mixtures. An enzyme in the raw pineapple juice dissolves the protein in the gelatine, giving a sad, weepy product instead of a sparkling jelly. To avoid this domestic tragedy, simply precook the pineapple a few minutes in its own juice. Then cool and combine with the gelatine mixture.

Have you ever served your pineapple with the skin on? Convenient tapering wedges with the peeling on may be served with powdered sugar spoke-fashion around a big fat strawberry for breakfast or for a dinner appetizer, though, truthfully, I like my pineapple best covered with sugar and left to chill in the refrigerator for a day before serving.

It's nice diced, but I think it's more novel whittled into thin "cat tongues." You'll like these in an icy mint cocktail or sprinkled with a trace of crushed maple sugar and toasted cocoanut.

Pineapple fritters, pineapple upside down cakes, pineapple puddings, salads, sauces, omelets, and pies! They all beg for a place in the month's menu—and well deserve it.

Here are three of my pineapple favorites. And if you have a happy thought or a pet pineapple special of your own, how about sending it in so we may share it some time with our other Chicagoland readers?

PINEAPPLE PIE DE LUXE.

1 fresh pineapple.
¾ cup sugar.
2 tablespoons lemon juice.
¼ cup pineapple juice.
3 tablespoons butter.
3 tablespoons flour.
Salt.
2 eggs.
2-3 cup milk.

Cut the pineapple into cubes and cook gently with one-fourth cup of the sugar and a tablespoon of its own juice. Stir in the lemon juice and let cool. Over the remaining sugar pour one-fourth cup of hot pineapple juice. Dissolve the flour in the remaining pineapple juice, left cold. Combine these two mixtures, add the milk, butter and beaten eggs, and cook in a double boiler until thick and smooth. Cool. Now mix the drained pineapple with the custard, and turn into baked pastry shells. I like this best served with sweetened whipped cream, or, if the egg whites are omitted from the custard, they may be used for a meringue.

PINEAPPLE PUFF.

½ pound marshmallows.
1 cup heavy cream.
2 tablespoons sugar.
2 tablespoons lemon juice and grated rind of ½ lemon.
½ cup chopped dates.

Shred the pineapple with a fork and mix it with the marshmallows cut in fourths with wet scissors. Set away in the refrigerator to chill. When icy cold, add the cream, whipped stiff, and the sugar, lemon, and dates. Serve at once in chilled sherbert glasses.

PINEAPPLE TARTLETS.

You'll love these little pastles! Cut flaky pastry, rolled one-half inch thick, in three inch rounds. Cut the centers from half of the rounds with a smaller cutter. Place a centerless round on each whole round, a bit of butter in each center, and bake in a hot oven [400 degrees F.] about twenty minutes. Fill the holes with fresh shredded pineapple and serve with thin wedges of cream cheese.

66% of All Babies Suffer Needless Torture

This New Knowledge May Save Your Little One Countless Trouble

Don't resign yourself to the idea that it is just "temper" when your infant starts to cry. More than half the time, physicians tell us, there is another cause—much more serious—that is responsible. Yet how few mothers are really aware of it.

The next time your infant cries—heed the warning. If the child is healthy, if his little body is protected from sticking pins—the trouble most likely can be traced to Urea irritation. For this is something you cannot see—and Baby cannot tell you!

The stinging uric acids crystallize almost immediately into tiny, gritty particles—so small they are inviaible, yet so harsh as to turn a baby's sensitive skin into a raw, inflamed surface.

A remarkable powder has now been perfected for exactly this type of irritation. Whereas ordinary talcum powders dust off almost as soon as applied, Z. B. T. Baby Talcum contains a special ingredient which adheres so closely to the skin as to make it almost completely moisture-proof. Thus a delicate, coating is formed against acids, irritation and chafing. Yet the powder does not cake, and allows the free, normal flow of perspiration.

Your druggist or chain store sells Z. B. T. in three sizes—10c, 25c and 50c. Resent substitutes! Get a can of Z. B. T. today and test it yourself. Or send us your name and address, with 4 cents to cover postage, for a full-size "Junior" can. Z. B. T. Products Co., Dept. CTR, Bronx, N. Y.

Drama League Breakfast Is Merry Affair

Stars of 'The Devil Passes' Are Guests.

The Drama league played hostess yesterday at a theatrical breakfast and everybody present blessed the organization for brightening a dull week with such a gay noontime party. The merriment began after the dessert course, when the distinguished guests at the speakers' table—all members of the all star cast of "The Devil Passes"—made brief, witty talks to an eager audience that filled the crystal ballroom of the Blackstone.

Things really got going when Arthur Byron, following an introduction by the league president, Mrs. Clarence Hough, announced that he had "never taken breakfast with so many women before." Then, for just a few minutes, Mr. Byron waxed serious with the suggestion that, in view of the criticism of the Pulitzer prize awards each year, the Drama league should make its own selection annually of the best American drama.

The incomparable Cecelia Loftus took up the comedy where Mr. Byron left off. Miss Loftus had some funny things to say about her age, and then, at the request of Mrs. Hough, dazzled her audience by doing two of her famous impersonations. First she gave her impression of Ethel Barrymore in the closing scene from "The Kingdom of God," and then impersonated the late beloved Mrs. Fiske in a bit of sparkling comedy from "Contrary Mary." Needless to say, she brought down the house, and stole the show so thoroughly that the suave Basil Rathbone, who was introduced after her, told his audience that it was "impossible to follow Cissie."

Among the other shining lights at the speakers' table were Mary Nash, looking lovely in a brown and coral dress and brown hat; Miss Diana Wynward, the blonde English beauty; Robert Loraine, and J. Malcolm Dunn. Eric Blore was absent because he is staying in Lake Forest and doesn't come in to town until theater time.

Among those at the small tables in the ballroom were: Mrs. Otho Fisher Ball, Mrs. Benjamin H. Marshall, Mrs. Marvin E. Miner Jr., Mrs. Lewis A. Louer, Mrs. Frederick T. Haskell, Mrs. Vernon B. Herbst, Mrs. Paul Shorey, Mrs. Helen Walton, Mrs. Frank J. Loesch, Mrs. Robert Peacock, Miss Helen Tieken, Miss Betty Brown, Miss Polly Perry, and Mrs. William F. Tuttle.

Infant Welfare Group Reports on Busy Season

That there is one group of Chicago and suburban citizens—the babies—who must not be affected by the depression was the dominant sentiment emphasized at the Fortnightly, 120 Bellevue place, yesterday afternoon, where officers and members of the woman's auxiliary of the Infant Welfare society lunched and discussed the problems of their twenty-eight welfare stations at a semi-annual meeting.

Miss Helen D. Wilkins, president of the auxiliary, presided. Miss Wilkins discussed the increasing demands on the stations maintained by the society.

"Last year's records show an increase of 55 per cent over the number of mothers and children we helped in 1930," Miss Wilkins said. "This year we must meet even heavier demands. And our cod liver oil bill! Four years ago it was $3,684. Last year it was $13,307."

A financial report revealed that the stations are operating on a deficit.

Reports were read by presidents of the various centers. Among those who attended were Mrs. Edwin M. Ashcroft Jr., Mrs. Harve Badgerow, Mrs. Knight C. Cowles, Mrs. John H. McIlvane, and Mrs. Robert W. Hyman.

Don't Spring the New Baby on the Other Children

Take Them Into Your Confidence.

BY GLADYS HUNTINGTON BEVANS.

Question: "My cousin is expecting her third baby [the oldest is 5] and she intends 'springing' the new baby on the other two. Don't you think that is mean?

"They would love to know that they were pretty soon to have a little brother or sister; they would be thrilled, ready to welcome it, and things would work out just as you explained in one of your articles some time ago. I know because I told our boys immediately and we talked about the little sister for months and they loved her dearly when she came and do still, and we had no trouble at all.

"Haven't you tucked away somewhere an article or booklet that will help my cousin?"

Answer: I'm sorry that I have no copies of the articles which have appeared from time to time about the coming of the new baby where there are other children, and how unwise it is to "spring it" on them. But in the "sex education" booklet are the names of several simple short booklets which tell the story of how life begins.

If a mother is at a loss, she could use these as a guide. The book, "Growing Up," by Karl de Schweinitz, tells the story simply and briefly in language children can understand.

Any mother who is going to have a baby and does not tell the other children is missing a rare opportunity to give them a wholesome understanding of birth and also a respect for this most miraculous of natural things.

Ambition Bites Youngsters of Movie Colony

Son of Actor Demands His Opportunity.

BY GEORGE SHAFFER.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

Hollywood, Cal., May 11.—[Special.]—The second generation in the movie families is just as impressed with the glamour of films as the rest of the juveniles of America.

Buster Keaton's lively boys, Joe, 10, and Bob, 8, for instance, became so enthusiastic over seeing the interesting things on the MGM lot where their father works that they had the directors yelling for relief a few weeks ago.

This week John Miljan was surprised to receive a message from his business agent, Philip Berg, who is the husband of Leila Hyams. Berg wanted to know why Miljan was trying to "rib" him. Miljan could not understand.

Then Berg hauled out a letter he had received from Miljan's stepson, Bobby, in which the latter asked Berg to take him to the MGM studio. "I have asked by father and he refused," Bobby wrote. "I want to get work at the studio, as I intend to become an actor." Miljan then had to laugh and explain that Bobby was only 11 years old and would have a long career of school ahead of him before he would be allowed to try his Thespian aspirations.

The court battle between Capt. Leopold McLaglen and Victor McLaglen is due for another court airing tomorrow, with Superior Judge Douglas Edmonds scheduled to pass on Leopold's motion for a new trial of his $90,000 slander suit against Victor. The suit was opened, and some testimony taken here six weeks ago, but was dismissed for lack of evidence after Leopold's attorneys presented witnesses.

Sam Katz of Chicago and New York, one of the principals at the Paramount production and distribution force convention here, said the Paramount-Publix corporations hopes to save $1,900,000 by having 30,000 Paramount employés take two weeks' vacation without pay this summer.

Adolph Zukor, organizer and for many years president of Paramount, introduced John Hertz at one meeting by saying: "I could speak for hours and not complete the fine thoughts I have for Mr. Hertz. He was invited to come into our company. He does not want my job. He wants to help build the company. Having a man of his far reaching vision, modesty and sane counsel is our life insurance policy."

MINOR LEAGUES' ILLS GO TO A. A. CLINIC TODAY

Ban Is Proposed on Radio Broadcasts.

One of the sickest minor leagues of baseball, the American association, goes to the hospital today with all its relatives hopefully eying the sickroom for a financial cureall.

Staggering, like almost all the minor leagues, with an unusually sharp decline in attendance and burdened with 27 postponed games because of cold and rainy weather, the American association club owners were called upon by President Thomas J. Hickey to hold their special meeting in the Congress hotel today to consider many suggestions ranging from mild to drastic. President Hickey admitted the situation was critical in his and other minor leagues.

Crowds Shrink to New Low.

"I can't say what will be done," President Hickey said, "but it appears that something radical is necessary. Bad weather, of course, has been the biggest blow, but our average attendance to date is far, far below that a year ago at this time."

Almost a score of proposals have been forwarded, but the most discussed ones are to boost the admission price, play double headers on Wednesday and Sunday, cut players' salaries between 10 and 25 per cent, abolish ladies' days, and charge women 25 cents for all games, trim the player limit from 20 to 18, bar the radio from all parks, reduce the salaries of umpires, and start the 1933 season approximately two weeks later.

President Hickey refused to discuss the proposals except to say that he didn't think the radio broadcasts would be affected, as only Minneapolis and Milwaukee have radio announcers in the park.

Pay Cuts Unlikely—Evans.

Billy Evans, general manager of the Cleveland Indians and president of the Toledo club of the American association, said he didn't think it would be possible to cut players' salaries because of contracts, although he recalled that some clubs in other leagues had succeeded in slashing pay rolls by informing players that their teams would stop playing otherwise.

"I don't see what we can do in regard to admission prices," Evans said. "We can't cut them very well and we certainly should increase the price to include the federal tax if the tax is passed. Baseball made a mistake in boom times by not increasing admission prices and then following up by cutting them in times like these."

The player limit is listed at 20, effective June 1. Some of the club owners are known to favor reducing it to 18, while some want it trimmed to 17 or even 16.

Milwaukee Barometer Falls.

Milwaukee long has been regarded as the barometer of the American association's prosperity. It always has been one of the best of baseball cities and as Milwaukee's turnstiles clicked so went the league's credits and debits. Last Sunday the Brewers, steaming along in fourth place and very much in the race, had an almost perfect baseball day but one of its poorest Sunday crowds in history. That was the tipoff for all club owners and today's meeting was called.

$500,000 BONDS OUTSTANDING ON IOWA'S STADIUM

Iowa City, Ia., May 11.—(AP)—Financial problems of the University of Iowa athletic department and plans for refinancing the new Iowa stadium and field house were discussed today at a meeting of the athletic board.

C. E. Strickland, accountant of Chicago, and B. J. Denman, Chicago, president of the United Light and Power company, met with the board of advisers.

Dr. E. H. Lauer, athletic director, refused to comment on the meeting, but intimated definite steps in the refinancing project would be taken within the next week. In addition to diminished football receipts, the athletic department has encountered financial difficulties through two bank closings here. There are $500,000 bonds outstanding on the stadium, and $25,000 bonds on the field house which are in default.

In the WAKE of the NEWS

CHICAGO'S CUBS.

It was an office argument. It concerned Chicago's first place Cubs. Pros and cons arose from a chance remark by a co-worker that he enjoyed the present Cubs, at least obtained more thrills from the spectacular fielding of the hustling infield than he had for several years despite the fact Mr. Hornsby's young men are near the bottom of the list in team batting.

The Wake, always scenting for new public impressions since this co-worker is a fan rather than sports writer, inquired, "Do you suppose it's because we have become so surfeited with slugging during the days of the lively ball that we're hungry for fielding, base running and good pitching?"

At this juncture entered another view. Turning to the first speaker the newcomer said, "We always have liked brilliant, more particularly spectacular fielding. Just because for a couple of years it has been lacking, you've forgotten when Hack Wilson was caroming around in the outfield after making a catch off his shoe tops when Woody English, just breaking in, was running to right and left to make one handed stops, and Cuyler was throwing them out at the plate with bullet throws."

"But certainly Grimm never has made as many spectacular stops as since the start of this season, has he, Irv?" remonstrated No. 1, appealing to Irving Vaughan, veteran baseball reporter. "Grimm's always been a great fielding first baseman," was the reply. "He hasn't always had to make so many great stops. That's because these youngsters, eager and anxious, haven't steadied yet and he has to retrieve wild throws to his bag and there's none better at that. Your experienced players, men like Hornsby and others, make equally good fielding plays but they do not look as fancy because of their timing in receiving and throwing. Of course I like fancy stuff, too, and it's something to write about."

We all agreed we liked present Cub spirit and fast, hustling fielding and base running. Then we sought to draw Mr. Vaughan into an opinion the Cubs surely would win the pennant. From his years of experience, Mr. Vaughan is conservative.

"I've never said they couldn't win the pennant, especially if another sure hitter was obtained or if some of the new men develop into sure hitters," he said. "Along in the summer, however, there may be days when the fielding isn't clicking so well or possibly the pitching isn't as good as now when you fellows will be asking for a row of cleanup batters to put over a rally. The Cubs are a good team. They're in first place. That's enough for me right now."

So the argument ended with three of us enthusiastic, and one of us enthusiastic but conservative. The conservative possibly would maintain hope longer during a slump, if it happens, than the rest of us.

To Charley Root.

It's tough that when you grace the mound
Ill luck too often trails,
And costly errors jam the paths
When vaunted defense fails.
More oft your mighty arm prevails
In spite of toughest "breaks,"
For when it comes to bearing down,
You have the stuff it takes.
What matter if you sometimes lose
When Cub bats fail to work?
You never fail to come right back—
Your work you never shirk.
You mind not pitching out of turn
For comrades in distress;
E'er businesslike, you settle down
To pull out of a mess.
For beaming Joe McCarthy or
The ever fighting Rog,
Nor once in all the years you're here
Have you been known to dodge
Your duty to the Cubs and us,
You're square right through and through.
You've won a place in all our hearts—
OUR HATS ARE OFF TO YOU.

DAISABURO WINS PREAKNESS TRIAL BY TWO LENGTHS

Romps Home in Mud at Pimlico Despite Bump.

Baltimore, Md., May 11.—(AP)—Daisaburo, Leslie Keiffer's lone eligible for the $50,000 Preakness Saturday, showed himself to be a mudder of the first water today when he romped in two lengths ahead of his field in the Hilltop, Pimlico feature, in which four other hopefuls for the Saturday stake performed.

Daisaburo showed himself a real threat when he overcame not only the deep mud but a bad bumping also to come through in the stretch from fifth position to beat Morton L. Schwartz's Barcelona Pete. Greentree stable's Pending, a non-Preakness eligible, was third.

Pennywise Finishes Fourth.

A. H. Morris' Pennywise, a probable starter in the Preakness, was hard ridden all the way over the mile and sixteenth route, but could do no better than fourth, with Ral Parr's Ladino and the Sage stable's Paramour, both eligibles, following. Hernobs, a noneligible, was last.

Daisaburo turned the mile and sixteenth in 1:49 3-5, considered good time for the sloppy condition of the track, fetlock deep in mud from the rains of the last four days.

Microphone, the Sage stable's probable starter in the Preakness, also exhibited mudder instincts in winning the third event, the Pimlico graded handicap at six furlongs, beating Happy Scot a length in 1:14. Portden, the Linton Farms' eligible for the rich event, was third.

Tick On Gets Workout.

Tick On, the Loma stable's hope for the Preakness, shipped here from Louisville and the Kentucky Derby to run in Saturday's classic, had his first workout today, being taken four furlongs in 52 seconds. He negotiated the three-eighths in 37, and was held easily throughout.

War Hero, Glen Riddle farms' leading candidate, was worked a mile and a quarter in 2:10 4-5, turning the mile in 1:42 3-5 and the mile and an eighth in 1:58.

The Mereworth Stud's Mad Pursuit turned in a mile workout in 1:46, and finished the mile and a quarter in 2:14 2-5. Lucky Tom, J. J. Tobinson's Preakness eligible, pulled up at a mile in 1:45.

SCHMELING OFF TO CAMP AND 5 WEEKS' DRILL

New York, May 11.—[Special.]—Max Schmeling left today for Kingston, N. Y., and his training camp at Green Kill Lodge, to start five weeks' intensive training for the defense of his world's heavyweight title against Jack Sharkey in the Madison Square Garden bowl on June 21.

Accompanying Schmeling were Manager Joe Jacobs, Trainer Max Machon, and James J. Johnston, Garden matchmaker.

At Kingston everything was in readiness for a gala reception to the titleholder. Billy McCarney, Jacobs' partner, has been at the training site for the last week. Schmeling plans to remain at Green Kill Lodge until the day of the fight.

Hamas Gets Decision Over Tommy Loughran

Philadelphia, Pa., May 11.—(AP)—Steve Hamas, the Nittany Lion, punched out a ten round decision tonight over Tommy Loughran of Philadelphia, whom he knocked out in the second round at their previous meeting.

The capacity crowd of 14,000 greeted the decision with boos and hisses, apparently thinking Loughran had won on points. The former light heavyweight champion, who was trying for a comeback in the heavyweight ranks, seemed stunned.

The judges were divided over the verdict but the referee cast his ballot for the Penn State collegian.

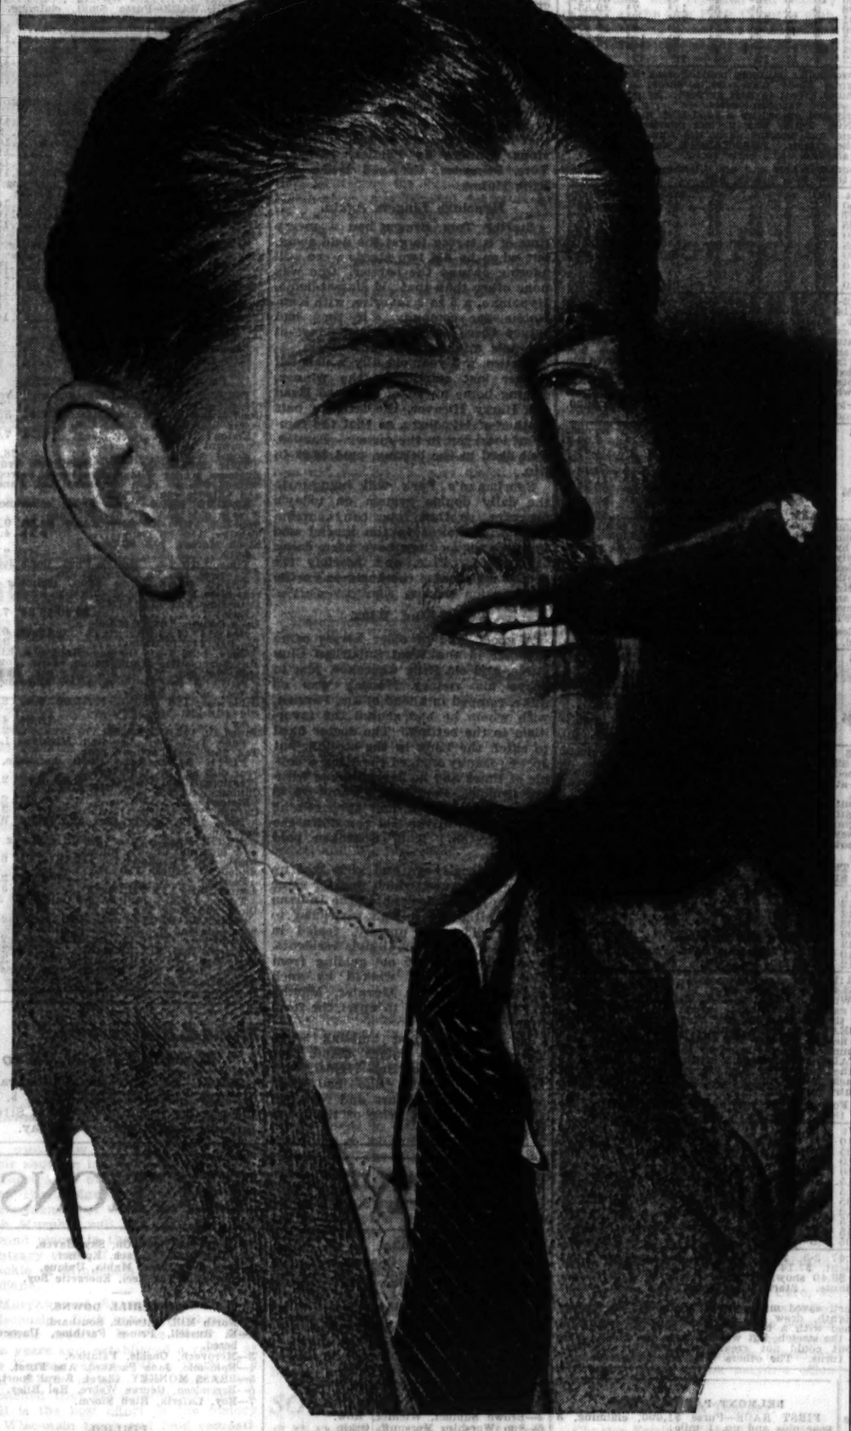
WELCOME BACK, ART! HOW'S BOSTON?



Art Shires is coming back to Chicago today with the Boston Braves. Just now Art is recovering from injuries, but he may break into the lineup during the series with the Cubs, which opens this afternoon and concludes Saturday. Art went from the White Sox to Washington and then to Milwaukee in the American association. The Braves bought him last fall. He had been playing first base regularly and hitting .345 until he was injured.

JOHNSON RETURNS TO RING TO PAY EMPLOYES' CLAIMS

Los Angeles, Cal., May 11—(AP)—Jack Johnson, former heavyweight champion, assured City Prosecutor Edward Kelly today he hopes to pay pressing wage claims by an immediate return to the ring.

Kelly granted Johnson until June 11 to meet demands of former employés in his café. The prosecutor indicated labor law complaints might be issued after that date.

"I have just obtained a permit from the state boxing commission to take part in exhibition matches," Johnson said. "Within a few weeks I hope to earn enough money in the ring to pay off all claims."

MRS. FIELDS HURT IN AUTO CRASH; JACKIE ARRESTED

Mrs. Jackie Fields, wife of the welterweight boxing champion, was painfully injured yesterday when an auto in which she and her husband were riding crashed into a motor truck at Highland, Ind., three miles south of Hammond. Lester Smith, Hobart, Ind., driver of the truck, was severely cut.

Witnesses said that Mrs. Fields was in the driver's seat and allege that the car passed a stop light while going at a high rate of speed. The Fields' auto was demolished. Fields was arrested following the crash by Town Marshal Waymund Pettie, Highland. The wrecked car was held in lieu of bail.

BILL HALLAHAN BLOWS UP WITH A RECORD BANG

Walk, 4 Dodger Hits Complete Rout.

St. Louis, Mo., May 11.—(AP)—After pitching ten good innings and one shaky one that carried the game overtime in a 3 to 3 tie, Wild Bill Hallahan justified his nickname in the twelfth inning today with a burst of wildness that enabled the Brooklyn Dodgers to score three runs and defeat the Cardinals, 6 to 3.

Going into the twelfth, Hallahan had allowed only eight hits and had fanned twelve Brooklyn batsmen, but Frank O'Doul opened the inning with a double and as Hallahan tried to bear down he made three wild pitches, equaling the major league record, walked a man intentionally, and yielded three more hits.

Ties Gaston, Sullivan, Weimer.

Three major league pitchers previously had made three wild pitches in an inning. They were Jacob Weimer of the Cubs, in 1903; Charles Sullivan of Detroit, in 1930, and Milton Gaston of the Browns, in 1927.

Hallahan's first wild pitch sent O'Doul to third. Danny Taylor was passed and took second on another wild pitch. Then Tony Cuccinello beat out a hit and O'Doul scored. Wright's single brought in the second run of the inning and, after Kelly's hit had filled the bases, Hallahan again threw one high and wide and Cuccinello ran home.

Collins Hits Homer.

The Cards scored all their runs off Van Mungo. Jim Collins hit his eighth home run of the season with Watkins on base in the fourth and two singles and two infield outs sent Jimmy Wilson home in the fifth. Joe Shaute pitched the last seven innings for Brooklyn, allowing only four hits.

A big sixth inning tied the score for Brooklyn. O'Doul, Stripp, and Taylor beat out successive singles to fill the bases and Cuccinello scored all three with a double. Score:

CUBS' PITCHERS EYE BRAVES AS NEXT VICTIMS

Root Named for First of Series Today.

BY IRVING VAUGHAN.

Mr. John McGraw, disconsolate because his master mind isn't functioning well enough to hoist his New York Giants from the depths, moved out of town yesterday without having a chance to lose another to the Cubs. Rainy, cold weather prevented the game.

The Boston Braves, including the famous Art Shires, who just now are enjoying the comfortable feeling that goes with a first division berth, will move in today for the first of a three game series.

The Great Shires, who was hitting a tuneful .345 when injured, still is in the last stages of a mending process, but any day now may resume his job of proving that it was the American league's loss and not his own when it turned him back to the minors out of fear he might embarrass somebody. Shires, instead of being a drawback, is being carried on the present Braves' trip because, even though a bench warmer, he is looked upon as a sort of tonic for his mates.

Root Faces Brandt or Betts.

Charles Root will oppose Dutch Brandt or Walter Betts of the Braves this afternoon. The way the Cubs' pitchers have been going since the season started it makes little difference which man Hornsby picks. They've all been good and when a bit of help was needed they've usually been given it by the infield, which is rapidly becoming recognized as about the snappiest in either league. Hornsby, who himself knows a few things about the inner defense, says he never has seen a combination with greater skill in the smothering of base hits.

It isn't possible to show exactly what the various enemies have lost through the agility of the Cub infield, but figures can be produced to prove that the various pitchers have been decidedly Scotch about giving up runs. The Cubs, to win 17 of 23 games for a first place lead of three games, have scored a total of 115 runs since starting day. Opponents have registered 73, an average of 3.17 runs a game. In twelve battles the opposition scored two runs or less.

Here's Record of Pitchers.

Following are the scores of each game and the names of the Cubs pitchers. Where two pitchers were used the runs scored off each man are shown in brackets.

Pitchers—	Cubs.	Opponents.
Root [4], Bush [1]	4	5
Malone	3	2
Smith	3	5
Warneke	3	2
Bush	4	1
Root	3	1
Malone [6], May [1]	2	7

Malone	6	7
Smith	3	6
Warneke	4	1
Root	1	2
Bush	3	1
Malone	3	0
Grimes	12	5
Warneke	9	2

The above gives a total of 5 victories and no defeats for Warneke, 1 and 0 for Grimes, 3 and 2 for Malone, 3 and 2 for Bush, 3 and 1 for Root, and 2 and 1 for Smith. Root's only defeat was when his mates kicked in two enemy runs. One of Bush's setbacks was on opening day, when he had to rush to the relief of Root, who suffered an injury to his hand in the ninth inning. In only two other games was it necessary to relieve the starting pitcher.

Senior Class at Williams Honors Winnetka Grid Star

Williamstown, Mass., May 11.—(AP)—W. C. Fowle of Winnetka, Ill., four letter man and captain of football, was selected as the senior who has done most for Williams college in the senior class poll conducted by the Gulielmensian, college year book. In addition he was voted the best athlete and the outstanding member of the class. Conrad E. Good of St. Joseph, Mo., president of the student council, was named most respected and ran close to Fowle in the balloting for the man who has done the most for Williams.

REDS WHIP PHILLIES, 4-1

Cincinnati, O., May 11.—[Special.]—The Cincinnati Reds climbed over the Phillies into third place in the National league race today. Red Lucas held the Phils to five hits for a 4 to 1 victory. It was Lucas, fifth triumph in six starts.

Lucas ranks as Cincinnati's No. 1 pinch batter, as well as the team's leading pitcher, and usually smacks a two base hit when asked to go to the plate for Joe Whozis or Oscar Whitt, but he had no luck with the bat today. A base on balls was the best Red could do in three times up.

Get Two Hits Each.

The Reds' hitting, however, was ably taken care of by Chick Hafey, Babe Herman, Leo Durocher, and Lombardi, each of whom collected two safeties. Herman and Hafey each had doubles. Heath, first baseman, drove in two runs with a single in the sixth.

The rival shortstops, Durocher and Dick Bartell, put on a fist fight in the eighth inning, with Durocher losing the umpires' decision. He was chased from the game, Joe Morrisey replacing him. The battle started when Durocher was thrown out trying to steal second and crashed into Bartell, knocking him to the ground.

Red Has Control, Too.

Only three men hit Lucas' pitching safely. Bartell got two, Lee two, and Hurst one. Lucas did not walk a man, but hit Mallon with a pitched ball.

Lombardi had a part in the making of three Cincinnati runs. In the sixth he singled, Hafey doubled, and Heath's single brought both home. In the seventh, with two out, he singled to drive home Herman.

WAR GLOW SENDS OUTBOUND CROWD AWAY MUMBLING

But Mr. Porter Is Pleased by Mistake.

BY FRENCH LANE.

Some of the boys tried to engineer an old fashioned melon cutting at the Aurora race track yesterday. They finished with a copy of the morning line and some mutilated mutuel tickets.

The plunge was made on Outbound, a son of the late Luke McLuke, to win the featured fourth. The boys pushed in their money in such gobs—really, it semeed like the boom days—that the odds against him were driven down from an opening price of 8 to 1 to almost even money at post time.

Even at those short odds they were happy. "Just like stealing candy from kids," remarked one old plunger who made trip after trip to the high priced windows with Outbound money.

Just Missed—By Four Lengths.

He and his cronies were almost right. They just missed it by four lengths. They made only one mistake. They forgot a Pacific coast flyer—the 3 year old War Glow—was in the contest.

They didn't know War Glow was going to run the most sensational race of the Aurora spring season and come dangerously near cracking the track record, covering the 5½ furlongs in 1:05 2-5 after stepping the first 5 furlongs in 59 seconds.

At no time did War Glow give Outbound's backers any cause for encouragement. Jockey Charley King rushed him into the lead at once, pulled out into an advantage of five lengths on the turn and Outbound and the others back of him were dizzy as War Glow kept right at his task.

They Fooled Themselves.

Old Martie Flynn was pretty close to Outbound when it was all over and he got third money. The others were back about the sixteenth pole and the Outbound backers began to wonder if it was Burgoo King or War Glow they had overlooked.

War Glow is owned by J. D. Mikel, the young downstate turfman. He had been running very consistently on the Pacific coast. But the dubious Aurora players want them to prove it before they do any believing. The folks who stood nobly by their guns—and War Glow—collected $9.24 for a $2 ticket. He won like a 1 to 5 shot.

Charley Porter, mouthpiece for many functions, sports and otherwise, in Chicago, left the Aurora track last night with a troubled conscience.

Mr. Porter arrived early and dashed to the daily doubles window, where he asked for a ticket on Forget Not in the second race and Stampdale in the third.

He watched Forget Not win and lined up along the rail to pull old Stampdale home in the third. When Stampdale weakened at the head of the stretch, Mr. Porter proceeded to hand ride him like no horse has been hand ridden before. Mr. Porter really pulled his whip. But Stampdale could not get up and Southland Boy won.

Mr. Porter prepared—with appropriate profanity—to rip his ticket into a million pieces. He took one last mournful look. Imagine his chagrin. The clerk had made a mistake and sold him a daily double ticket on Forget Not and Southland Boy. Not Forget Not and Stampdale.

So Mr. Porter shyly edged his way up to the pay off window with 57 other lucky folks, and collected $61.44 for his two dollar investment. Friends of Mr. Porter last night anxiously awaited to hear to what charity he will donate the money.

It was the youthful Illinois sensation, Charley King, who rode Southland Boy to victory. He turned in a brilliant bit of jockeyship to win. But great rides by King are hardly news any more. He shakes a couple of them out of his system every day.

SIR MICHAEL, racing well, reached front after entering the stretch and continued gamely to the end, but barely lasted to hold VENETIAN GIRL. Latter saved much ground in stretch and, finishing fast on the inside under good riding, would have won in a few more strides. TIVERTON was in trouble early but finished fast. DUSKY DAME was tiring. FIGURISTE also weakened. SILENT SHOT acted badly at the barrier and was started from outside stall.

FORGET NOT sprinted to the front early and opened up a good lead, but was doing his best at the end to hold TANTALIZING. Latter was in close quarters soon after the start, but came fast in the stretch and was wearing down the winner. ANDROMEDA improved her position steadily on the outside. PHANTASIME was tiring. COTTON TIME and JIMMIE L. weakened after showing some early speed.

SOUTHLAND BOY, well up from the start, saved much ground rounding the stretch turns and, taking command in the final eighth, drew out to an easy win. KELLY'S PRIDE came fast after leaving the back stretch and finished fast to best STAMPDALE. Latter moved up strongly during back stretch run and neaded the field approaching stretch turn, but could not last. BLUE PENCIL ran in spots and met with some interference. SAM COLE and ADVANCE AGENT tired badly when the real racing began.

Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 3:14. At post 8 minutes. Start good from gate. Won easily; second and third driving.

WAR GLOW was hustled into a good lead soon after the start and, running as if much the best, raced far in front of the others to the finish. OUTBOUND was outrun early, but made up ground in the stretch. MARTIE FLYNN was also going strong at the finish. SISTER MARY could not keep up and seems to prefer a softer track. NOAH'S PRIDE was taken up at the start and made up some ground after trailing the field to the stretch. TENNYWOOD and BENTFIT tired after showing early speed.

FIFTH RACE—One and one-quarter miles. Four year olds and up. Purse $800. Net value to winner, $625; second, $100; third, $50; fourth, $25.

Winner trained by owner. Went to post at 4:10. At post 3 minutes. Start good for all but Look at Lillian, from gate. Won handily, place driving.

BAGIEL acted badly at the barrier, but broke well and, going to the front rounding first turn, raced gamely under slight restraint all the way to score handily. TIGER FLOWERS hugged the rail throughout and, lucky to avoid interference, was gaining on the winner at the end. Curtsey raced well all the way and held TACK. Latter raced evenly. STOP GAP could not keep up. LOOK AT LILLIAN dwelt at the start.

Start good from gate. Won driving; second and third same.

DRUGGIST was outrun to the stretch, then came fast under hard urging and caught SIR DEAN in the closing strides. SIR DEAN was under restraint to the last quarter, then moved forward steadily to head the field in the last fifty yards, but could not hold the winner. BATTLING ON lost much ground by racing wide in the stretch, but was going gamely at the finish. TOO MUCH TALK, saving ground in the early stages, raced TRICE into submission, but hung near the end. THE BREAK was in close quarters approaching stretch turn and dropped back in the final eighth. TRICE tired when the real racing began. LADRONE was outrun.

Went to post at 5:10. At post ½ minute. Start good from gate. Won easily; place driving.

THE SHOW OFF, well up from the start, saved much ground rounding the stretch turn and, taking command in the final eighth, drew out to an easy win. LITTLE TOOTS raced a trifle wide early and finished with a belated rush. BOB BLACKBURN showed good early speed and led well into the stretch, but was tiring at the finish. MEKACHEE was never far from the pace, but could not greatly improve his position. HAL DWYER attempted to run out on the turns. The others were never dangerous.

Parties Wins in Sportsman's Park Feature

BY CHARLES BARTLETT.

Some of these days, before the race meeting at Sportsman's Park is over, Hypoluxo, a 6 year old son of High Time, probably will come home in front as he did time after time in Havana last winter, but the fans who have watched him run at the Cicero track these last three days will call you names if you even suggest it.

Hypoluxo made his first appearance at Sportsman's Park on Monday and his previous record was such that the crowd made him the favorite. He was left at the post, but managed to come in fifth. Tuesday he came out to redeem himself and the railbirds made him the betting choice again, but he barely managed to get the show money. His followers were still loyal when the Sunset club purse came around yesterday, despite the fact that he was running against such previous winners as Parties, Ultimate Vote, Semester, Crowned Head, and King Halma.

Hypoluxo Lingers Again.

Starter Tom Brown had a merry time of it trying to get the field away, but when he did two steeds were still fideting around the barrier. One was none other than that old stay-at-home, Hypoluxo, a 5 to 2 favorite, with King Halma for company. If they had stayed there much longer the rest of the field might have lapped them.

Parties, a 3 year old filly which fell in her last start, was the winner, coming home ahead of Crowned Head and Harry Hieover, the latter a half brother of Hypoluxo, so that the family at least got in the money. Parties, well liked in the betting, paid $8.98 to win.

Sportsman's Park will inaugurate the daily double system on today's program, so that fans can combine their win choices in the second and third races, as they have been doing at Aurora. Five, and possibly six booths will handle the business on the combination tickets.

The King Wins.

A good band of older horses came together in the West Suburban Club purse, and old King Cherokee, just to prove his victory Monday was no fluke, romped in ahead of Dr. Parrish, with whom he had shared the favoritism in the betting. The doctor fixed to catch the King in the stretch, but Jockey Dupuy nudged the King a couple of times and he dashed home without trouble. Port O'Play came up to take third, after it had appeared he was through in the last run down the back stretch. King Cherokee paid $6.46.

Seven local boys and girls met up in the sixth race, which was for some strange reason designated the Indiana purse, although it was restricted to 3 year olds and upward, foaled in Illinois or owned by Illinois residents. How Tiz, a 5 year old gelding from the O. D. stable, walked by such speedy runners as Gurgler, Martha D., and Bob Wiedel to upset the form followers.

How Tiz was just ambling when she came by the judges' stand, four lengths in front of Bob Weidel, with Martha D. third. She had been snubbed by the bettors and returned $91.74, the longest price of the meeting.

PICKED TO LOSE, HE WINS; PICKED TO WIN, HE LOSES

Who? Why, Bat Battalino, the Fighter, Kiddies!

BY WILFRID SMITH.

Champion and ex-champion, the career of Christopher [Battling] Battalino has been as spotted as a leopard. Almost as if he followed a rule, he lost nontitle fights, and then, just as he had convinced every one he wasn't much of a scrapper, he would step out and successfully defend his featherweight championship.

But Battalino, now fighting in a new weight class, has reached that stage where he must win or be relegated to the second division. Battalino was shorn of his title by the impossibility of making the 126 pound limit. Then he was stopped in the 12th and last round of his fight with Billy Petrolle in New York. This same Petrolle, one time Fargo Express and still the only boxer in recent times who has put the lie to the statement, "they never come back," is Battalino's opponent a week from tomorrow night at the Chicago Stadium.

Wins When It Means Something.

Battalino's habit of losing when losses didn't count and winning when victory was all important is illustrated by his defeat at the Stadium by Eddie Shea, Jan. 23, 1931. In September at Hartford, in defense of his title, Battalino whipped Shea in ten rounds. Then there was Freddy Miller, something of a ring cousin, whom Bat whipped last July when a victory meant possession of his title. Battalino later attempted to turn over his title to another when he no longer could make weight. That episode in Cincinnati brought suspension, only recently removed, and a fine of $5,000.

To continue Bat's in and out activities, there was Bushy Graham, who was the better man for ten rounds in Hartford, Conn., last Sept 24, but was knocked out by Battalino in one round at the Chicago Stadium less than a month later.

Battalino was a fighter when he willed it so. He won from the best men in his class, including Fidel LaBarba, Kid Chocolate, and Earl Mastro. Perhaps Battalino still is a great fighter. The contention is that while Petrolle punched Bat into submission in New York in twelve rounds, most of the damage was done in the last two periods. The fight here, for ten rounds, is supposed to favor the former champion.

Bat's Popular in Chicago.

Battalino fought in the Chicago Stadium three times last year. Those bouts, attendance and gross receipts, follow:

	Opponent.	Attendance.	Gross receipts.
Jan. 23—	Eddie Shea	12,931	$35,121.76
Nov. 4—	Earl Mastro	14,999	42,074.47
Nov. 19—	*Bushy Graham	18,350	56,428.30

*Carnera-Levinsky headed the card.

Battalino lost to Shea in ten rounds. The bout was overweight. He whipped Earl Mastro in ten rounds in defense of his championship and knocked out Bushy Graham in the first round.

Battalino's bout with Mastro was his last title affair. Although billed to defend his crown on two later occasions, he never made weight and was unsuccessful in an attempt to pass along the championship. The National Boxing association later sanctioned a featherweight title tournament, which now is being held in Detroit.

Whips Ran and Singer.

Fighting at or near the 135 pound weight, Battalino whipped Eddie Ran in New York and then knocked out Al Singer, only to come a cropper against Petrolle. The return fight largely will determine whether Petrolle or Battalino will get a chance at Tony Canzoneri's title, when and if Tony is ready to defend it.

Battalino and Petrolle will arrive in Chicago tomorrow. They are expected to start training on Saturday, Battalino at Trafton's gymnasium and Petrolle at Kid Howard's.

Sail Ho! Planes Find New Lakes for Fishermen

BY BOB BECKER.

Thanks to the all seeing eye of an aerial camera blinking from an airplane, scores of new lakes that have not been fished have been added to the wilderness area of the Quetico Provincial park just across the Minnesota line from the Superior National forest.

Any city dweller who has a desire to go exploring with a canoe, tent and fishing tackle need not lack for territory this summer as he may pack his duffel bags and hit for this north country where only water trails wind through the forest.

There are thousands of lakes and rivers in the Superior National forest and the Quetico park. Many of them are visited by fishing and camping parties each summer. This is especially true of those lakes and rivers which are part of a route through the forest. Some of these routes have been used for several centuries because they were the only highways for the traders and trappers who first tapped the fur resources of this great area.

A few years ago when we spent several weeks in the Superior and the Quetico region we followed one of the well established water routes in a canoe to a good camp site and then portaged from the big water to a small bass lake in order to obtain the kind of fishing that a fellow dreams about.

There are hundreds of these smaller lakes just off the main canoe routes. Even without going to the trouble of locating any new ones by airplane mapping there are enough lakes and enough fishing to keep one busy for years in working different lakes. Some of the lakes grow big lake trout. Others have northern pike and wall eyes, while others seem to be filled with black bass. The pickeral or northern pike grow large up there in the north country—regular tackle busters.

But to tempt the exploring canoeist a little more the Canadian government has mapped many new lakes which make their debut [on paper] this season. Some must be several miles long.

Cold Weather Break for Sox; Can't Play A's

BY EDWARD BURNS.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 11.—Can it be that the imps of Satan are easing up on our White Sox a teeny bit? It would seem so, for just as the boys were getting ready to step into their bloomers and go to Shibe park for another spanking at the hands of the Philadelphia Athletics today, Mr. Connie Mack stuck his head out the window and concluded it was much too cold for his valued chattels.

The scheduled final between the two extremes in the 1931 American league standings thus was called off. Mr. Connie's benevolence erupted at 12:10 p. m. and 41 minutes later Director Fonseca and his wards were fleeing Philadelphia as though to escape a pestilence.

Of course, coming here to meet the Yankees has many of the elements of jumping out of the frying pan into the fire. But the downtrodden Sox had to come here anyhow. So anything escaped in Philly was just so much net.

Weather Report Encouraging.

Hopes for a successful stay in New York ran high with the reading of the weather reports upon arrival here. Rain is forecast for tomorrow and many are cheerful enough to look forward to not one but three days of hard, driving rain, clearing, at last, up in New England, just as the Sox arrive in Boston Sunday morning for a four day series to determine the rightful owner of the American league cellar.

The Sox know full well that the games now being postponed eventually must be played, but optimism is something that Vice President-Secretary Harry Grabiner oozes every time he calls in his boys for their pay checks. The few veterans have been taught by Mr. Grabiner that happiness and success are just around the corner. They have passed along those sweet thoughts to the gents recently arrived from more practical environments, where baseball matters are calculated in the present.

No Percentage Here.

Of their last 18 games the Sox have won two, or one victory to every nine games. So it is reasonable to suppose that if the Sox had been forced to play the six games that have been postponed they would have had to go through the six and wait for three more before being entitled to a victory. Based on the six postponed games, as a group, the Sox expectancy would be two-thirds of a victory, which doesn't count, as they well know.

Outside of the joy at escaping Philadelphia without having to play another contest, excitement centered around the arrival of Master Clarence Feiber, the behemoth from the University of San Francisco, née St. Ignatius. Clarence, a lefty, is as large as advertised and bigger than that. No one has seen Clarence's stuff, but there is no one who will say he is not strong enough to stand the maltreatment incurred in traveling with the Sox these bleak days.

Selph's Knee Under Control.

Carey Selph, whose trick knee popped out on him the other day, has the member under control again, it is believed. If plenty of adhesive tape is available he expects to enter the game against Joe McCarthy's fellows tomorrow.

Frasier, Caraway, or Gaston will pitch, according to a specific bulletin given out by Fonseca to serve the alert authors, who are keeping the world in touch with what the White Sox are doing.

$3,500 FOR BROKEN HEART

Paul Berlenbach loses again. The one time wrestler and light heavyweight boxing champion, told Miss Claire Feidner, 25 year old New York girl, he was her "loving hotsy-totsy Paul," but when he failed to marry her she sued for breach of promise—and $50,000. The jury awarded her $3,500 yesterday. [Acme Photo.]

Berlenbach Is Outpointed in Court Battle

New York, May 11.—[Special.]—Paul Berlenbach, former light heavyweight champion, must pay Miss Claire Feidner $3,500 for breaking his promise to marry her, the jury in a Long Island City court decided today.

The verdict was unsatisfactory to both sides. Counsel for plaintiff and defendant moved that it be set aside, but Justice Alfred V. Norton denied both motions.

Miss Feidner sued Berlenbach for $50,000, asserting he had jilted her to marry another. She produced a series of ardent love letters from the pugilist, some of which were signed, "Your loving hotsy-totsy Paul."

Berlenbach testified it was really Miss Feidner who broke the engagement in 1929 after he had informed her he would have to delay the marriage so that he could pay off a loan.

YANKEE ROOKIE PITCHER BEATS BROWNS, 3 TO 0

New York, May 11.—[Special.]—A rookie right hander who was knocked out of the box the first time he faced major opposition and whose lone claim to recognition was one good relief task, today performed a masterpiece of pitching to give the New York Yankees a 3 to 0 triumph over the St. Louis Browns. The rookie was Johnny Allen.

The Browns obtained only five hits off Allen who might have done better if given perfect support. A double by Ferrell and a single by Burns were the only St. Louis hits until two were out in the eighth. Crosetti then muffed a foul by Jenkins and on his second attempt the pinch batsman came through with a hit. Schulte then contributed another.

The victory was the fourth straight for New York and gave the Yankees a clean sweep in the two game series.

ILLINOIS LOSES WOOLSEY, MILER, FOR TITLE MEET

Badgers Count on Shaw or Murphy to Win High Jump

[This is the twenty-first of a series of sketches of university track and field stars in the central states.]

BY WILFRID SMITH.

When the Big Ten statisticians count up the points along toward 5 o'clock a week from Saturday night at the conclusion of the western conference's 32d annual track and field meet at Dyche stadium, Wisconsin is hopeful it will have several points in the running high jump. The Badgers won the team championship last year quite unexpectedly and, if they win again, much will depend on their showing in the field events.

TED SHAW.

There isn't much reason to believe that the Badgers, by virtue of the performances of Capt. Ted Shaw and Bob Murphy, will not take first and second places in the high jump. The contrary votes, if any, will be cast by Hackle of Minnesota and Beecher of Indiana.

Murphy and Shaw are seniors at Wisconsin. Both have several records to their credit. It was Shaw who, two years ago, established a record at the Kansas relays with a mark of 6 feet 6 3-16 inches. He hasn't approached that since, however, but it still is the best effort in the history of Wisconsin track and field competition.

And Murphy? Well, he holds the 1932 Big Ten indoor title, having jumped 6 feet 2¼ inches at the University of Chicago fieldhouse.

Among Shaw's other achievements is a half share in the Big Ten outdoor championship earned last spring, when he cleared 6 feet 2 inches to tie with Hackle of Minnesota. Indoors this winter Shaw was second to Murphy, but ahead of Hackle and Beecher, who tied for third position. Murphy won the high jump in the Minnesota relays and, with Shaw, tied for first place in the quadrangular meet.

Murphy's best jump approximates the mark he set in winning the indoor event last February. Born in Mount Horeb, Wis., Murphy now resides in Madison. He is 5 feet 10 inches tall and weighs 160 pounds.

Shaw has excellent form in the high jump. In his high school days at Oak Park, Ill., he also competed in the hurdles and pole vault, but Coach Jones has insisted that he stick to the one event, the high jump.

SWEDES REPLAY SPARTA MATCH UNDER PROTEST

The Swedes, winner over the Sparta soccer team in a Peel cup semi-final game two weeks ago, will replay the match next Sunday under protest. A formal appeal to the United States Soccer association from the decision of the Peel cup commission, which ordered the game replayed, was filed last night.

The first game between the two teams ended in a 3 to 1 victory for the Swedish eleven but the Spartas protested on the grounds that the full time had not been played in one period. The cup commission decided in favor of the Spartas.

The Olympias, who will meet the ultimate winner of the Swedes-Sparta mixup in the Peel cup final match, will play the Bricklayers next Sunday in a scheduled National league game at Kilpatrick avenue and 19th street. The Maccabee All Stars, winners of the Triner cup, will play an exhibition game with Ravenswood of the International league at the Kuppenheimer stadium.

SOUTH BEND WINS SERIES OPENER FROM DAYTON, 5-1

South Bend, Ind., May 11.—[Special.]—South Bend won the first game of the Dayton series today, 5 to 1. Dayton scored in the first inning when Lameier got on through Krehmeier's error, went to second on Youra's bunt, and was driven home by Young.

The Twins started a scoring spree in their half when Godbout walked the first two men. Ginn replaced him. Felber then singled, scoring Prehn and Drager. Lovelace doubled, Felber stopping at third. Krehmeier's single drove in Felber and Lovelace. Singles by Drager and Dunham and a base on balls produced the fifth run in the fourth inning. Score:

Dayton	100	000	000—1
South Bend	400	100	00*—5

Who's Who in Women's Golf

Betty Eckersall

[This is the first of a series of articles on prominent women golfers in the Chicago district.]

MRS. LEE MIDA.

One of the best known woman golfers in the Chicago district is Mrs. Lee Mida, champion of the Butterfield Country club, a title she has held for eleven years. Mrs. Mida takes her golf seriously and has been competing in matches from coast to coast for the last decade and has held a number of important championships.

She first won the Western Women's medal play championship in 1923, at the Olympia Fields Country club, beating out Miss Edith Cummings of Onwentsia, and repeated her victory in 1927 at the Oak Park Country club. The following year she successfully defended her title at Olympia Fields.

She defeated Mrs. Jones again in the semi-finals of the Florida stakes in 1929 at Tampa and then went on to win the tournament. She won it again the next year at Jacksonville.

In 1929 she won the Western open at the Acacia Country club, defeating June Beebe of Olympia Fields, 6 and 5, in the championship round. These are only a few of Mrs. Mida's numerous victories and there are few annual golfing events that she, at some time or another, has not entered.

She attributes her ability to play par golf to plenty of practice. "I'm never satisfied with my game in the beginning of the season," she said, "and so I always spend three or four days on the practice tee driving balls. Until I get enough practice, I haven't the feeling of assurance so essential in competition. I bought a new set of clubs last year, but this year with the advent of the new ball I am going to use my old set. I expect the new ball to enable me to play under par. It will be easier to putt, better for driving purposes and more accurate in the wind and for iron shots."

And if you don't see Mrs. Mida competing as much this year as formerly, here is the reason: She is an ardent radio fan, having her own private sending station, where she spends most of her spare time.

She plans to enter the Trans-Mississippi tournament, the majority of the Chicago district meets, the principal western tournaments, and the Canadian Invitational meet at Winnipeg.

Outdoor Fans Hear Square Dance Is Back

The old fashioned square dance is coming back. Movie tickets and gasoline were all right a few years ago, but now a whole houseful of folks can hire a fiddler or two and have an evening of real fun.

Take J. E. [Dad] Feely's word for it. Eighty years old, he has fiddled for the lumberjack dances in northern Wisconsin for more than half a century. Feely, who comes from Hayward, Wis., and Erhart Reichel, also of Hayward, another old time fiddler, arrived at the Outdoor show in the Coliseum yesterday. Strains of "Turkey in the Straw" soon drew a crowd about them.

Yep, It's Lots of Fun.

"Yes, sir," said Dad Feely, "this was a busy winter for us. Folks up our way found out how much real fun there is in the good old square dance. Old folks and young come together. Most of them don't know how to dance, but there is always some of the old timers to show them how.

"The girls don't need a new dress to go to the square dance. 'Tain't a dressup affair. And the fellers who come in their overalls have as good a time as anybody.

"I notice, too, that when the dance is over not all the folks get into cars. Some of them go out and unhitch the old gray mare. She don't get them home as quick as a flivver, but the young folks say, 'What's the hurry, anyway?'"

Mayor Visits Show.

Visitors at the show yesterday included Mayor Cermak, George Getz, and Daniel Boone, great-greatnephew of Daniel Boone, Kentucky frontiersman. The mayor bought a ticket from a booth in the show calling attention to the George Washington bicentennial celebration and military tournament in Soldiers' field next month. He also tried his hand at bait casting, made friends with Teddy, the black bear cub, and watched a program of Indian dances staged by eight Ojibway Indians from Ashland, Wis.

After the dances Chief De Caro, 92 year old leader of the group, extended an invitation to the mayor to become a member of the tribe. The mayor accepted, and the adoption ceremony will take place in the mayor's office tomorrow noon.

Zeisler Wins Tourney.

Charles Zeisler of the Lincoln Park Casting club retained his national indoor casting championship by scoring 98 points in the annual tournament held last night in conjunction with the outdoor show. Joe Wanzund, a clubmate, and H. Bunegar, Illinois Casting club, tied for second with 96 points. Bert Naugle, also of the Lincoln Park club, won fourth place with 95.

BOWEN, TILDEN CLINCH TITLES IN PREP LEAGUE

Calumet Loses, 1 to 0; Phillips Beaten, 4-3.

Two more sectional baseball titles in the Chicago Public High School league were clinched yesterday. Bowen defeated Calumet, 1 to 0, at Bessemer park for the south division championship, while Tilden won from Phillips, 4 to 3, at Fuller park to capture the central section crown.

A run in the fourth inning gave Bowen its victory over Calumet. Dolac, Bowen second baseman, doubled with Jadzesky on base to score the only run of the game. Jimmy McKirchy pitched for Bowen and allowed only four hits.

Wins Sixth Straight.

With Sheldon Brunner holding Phillips to four hits, Tilden rallied in the sixth inning when it scored two runs to hang up its sixth consecutive victory of the league season. Tilden collected six hits off Lott, Phillips hurler.

Senn ended its north section schedule by losing to Lake View, 4 to 3, at Welles park. It was Senn's seventh defeat. Senn led, 3 to 2, until the seventh when Lake View scored a run to tie the score. Lake View scored again in the eighth to win the game.

Four other games scheduled to be played were postponed and probably will be played today and tomorrow. The semi-finalists, first and second place winners from each of the four sections will begin play next week.

Investigation Continued.

Fenger's contest with Morgan park was among the games called off yesterday. Fenger and league officials continued their investigation of the charges that three members of the Fenger squad, Andrew Tanko, William Rudy, and Roland Dietz, played with a semi-pro squad on Sundays, thus violating a league rule. All three players have been ruled ineligible for further competition. Yesterday's scores:

LAYTON DEFEATS HOPPE TWICE IN 3 CUSHION PLAY

Johnny Layton achieved his third consecutive double victory over Willie Hoppe in their 500 point three cushion billiard match at Bensinger's Randolph street room yesterday. Layton won, 50 to 12, in 23 innings, and by 50 to 39 in 45 innings, and now leads, 300 to 223, in 249 innings. The seventh and eighth blocks will be played today. The high runs were: Layton, 9, and Hoppe, 9.

Layton's victory in the afternoon was within one inning of his record breaking performance in the world's championship tournament in 1930, when he beat Charles Jordan, 50 to 22, in 22 innings. The record for best game is held by Otto Reiselt of Philadelphia, who made 50 points in 16 innings against Augie Kieckhefer, present champion, in a league game in 1926. Layton's afternoon score:

Layton ..103 336 500 370 801 200 223 01—50

COPELAND GETS LA SALLE AND OHIO CORNER

Refrigeration Co. Rents 12,000 Square Feet.

BY AL CHASE.

Negotiations were concluded yesterday whereby the Copeland Refrigeration company has leased the entire first floor and half of the basement of the seven story building at the southwest corner of North La Salle and West Ohio streets from the estate of N. K. Fairbank, of which Kellogg Fairbank is trustee. The term is for three years at an undisclosed rental. The lease is dated May 1, but will not be operative until the lessee moves in, which probably will be in about thirty days.

KELLOGG FAIRBANK.

The Copeland concern will have one of the most elaborate refrigeration showrooms in the city, it is claimed, with 100 feet of show window frontage on La Salle street. In addition to using the space just rented for a salesroom the lessee will have its general offices there. The company is now at 160 East Illinois street.

$150,000 Remodeling.

The building fronts eighty feet on Ohio, thus giving the Copeland Refrigeration company approximately 8,000 square feet of area on the first floor and 4,000 in the basement. When La Salle street was widened twenty feet were lopped off the 100x100 structure and a new Indiana limestone front was installed from plans by Holabird & Root. An aluminum store front will be placed along the La Salle street side for the lessee.

At the time the building front was removed to make way for the La Salle street widening the Fairbank estate spent a reported $150,000 in modernizing the entire structure. N. J. Duncan of Gordon Strong & Co., agents of the property, and C. D. Brooks of Paul C. Loeber & Co., were brokers.

Trades Farms for Flats.

The twenty-one apartment building at the southwest corner of 61st street and University avenue has been conveyed by Elmer E. Toohey to R. L. Rea of Benton, Ill., in exchange for two farms in southern Illinois, near McLeansboro, one of 100 acres and the other of 155 acres. The new owner contemplates modernizing the building just acquired. George J. Nasser and Max Wezelman of Schlismann-Sward, Inc., was broker.

The Murray Beauty Shops, Inc., have leased for a term of years the loft at the southwest corner of Madison street and Crawford avenue. The lessees will remodel at a reported expense of $5,000 and will install equipment similar to their new shop at Randolph and Dearborn, according to Milton L. Aaron, who negotiated the lease. Raymond Kelner was attorney.

Title to the two story factory building at the southeast corner of North avenue and Kingsbury street, a triangular shaped parcel, 170x332x274, was conveyed by the Budlong Pickle company to the American Sanitary Rag company for an indicated $60,000. Van Vlissingen & Co. were brokers. Joseph A. Golde was attorney. This property was contracted for by the buyer in July, 1929.

STEEL INDUSTRY, ALTHOUGH LOW, IS HOLDING OWN

Slight Improvement Reported Here.

BY O. A. MATHER.

About the best that can be said of the steel industry this week is that it is holding its own. Although operations remain abnormally low, there is some encouragement in the fact that no further recession has occurred in the last week. Normally the steel industry begins slackening during May and continues to decline through the summer.

"Irregularity still marks the course of steel business, mild improvement in some lines being offset by extreme dullness in others," the Iron Age says in its midweek review. "The net result is that the industry as a whole has been barely able to maintain last week's ingot output rate of 24 per cent. A slight improvement at Chicago is reflected in the starting up of three additional open hearth furnaces, but there has been a decline at Cleveland and Buffalo, while other districts are merely maintaining last week's rate of output.

Ford Purchases Expected.

"The automobile industry has failed to provide any important stimulus to steel production, but another purchase is expected next week from the Ford Motor company which, with other makers of low price automobiles, is gradually expanding its output despite the paralyzing effect of present conditions on demand for higher priced cars.

"Although irregularities in production are bound to occur in a situation like the present one, the steel trade is inclined to the belief that such changes as may come during the next month or two will be generally on the side of improvement. However, no marked upturn can be foreseen for the near future.

Meanwhile steel companies are strengthening their position on prices to guard against the pressure that has already come from some directions as a result of the announcements of wage reductions. Makers of sheet bars have announced an advance of $2 a ton, which will increase costs for nonintegrated sheet and strip mills. Some of the sheet steel companies have been disposed to announce higher sheet prices for the coming quarter, but this move may be held in abeyance, if not abandoned entirely, and efforts may be concentrated on holding the present schedules, which thus far have withstood pressure for concessions. Many consumers are strongly in favor of price stabilization as a necessary factor in the improvement of their own position."

Electric Output Drops.

Evidence of slack industrial operations in other lines is contained in data on electric power production. The disparity between the current and the previous year's production widened in the week ended May 7 to the largest proportions reported since the general business depression reversed the trend, following the moderate tendency toward improvement in the week of April 30.

Electric output of the country decreased 12.7 per cent, in comparison with the production in the corresponding period of 1931. Output in the week of April 30 was 11.5 per cent less than that of a year ago. The central industrial region showed the largest decline in output, 16.3 per cent, with the Atlantic seaboard district 8.9 per cent lower. The Chicago district alone was 14.4 per cent lower and the Pacific coast was off 12 per cent.

However, yesterday was not entirely devoid of cheerful news. The federal reserve board issues preliminary figures on the value of department store sales showing a considerably larger increase from March to April than the estimated seasonal amount. The board's index, which makes allowance both for number of business days and for usual seasonal changes, including changes in the date of Easter, was 81 in April on the basis of the 1923-'25 average as 100, compared with 78 in February and 72 in March. However, in comparison with a year ago the value of April sales was 24 per cent smaller. The aggregate for the first four months of this year was 21 per cent smaller.

INSULL UNITS GIVE UP CLAIM TO DIVIDENDS ON BANK COLLATERAL

An order was entered in federal District court late yesterday by Judge Walter C. Lindley authorizing receivers for Insull Utility Investments, Inc., and Corporation Securities company to withdraw their claims for the time being to dividends on the securities which have been pledged with several New York banks.

The action was seen as an outgrowth of the conference held here Tuesday between attorneys representing the New York banks and Judge Lindley. As a result of the order it is believed that the New York banks will delay indefinitely the proposed auction of the Insull collateral which was scheduled to be held tomorrow. The collateral they hold as security for a $10,000,000 loan consists of large blocks of shares of Commonwealth Edison, Peoples Gas, and Public Service of Northern Illinois.

The order enables the receivers to reinstate their claim to the dividends, if eventual sale of the collateral realizes more than the amount of the loan.

Judge Lindley earlier yesterday conferred in his chambers with Samuel Insull, co-receiver of the Middle West Utilities company. It is understood that affairs of Middle West were discussed at the meeting.

Reserve Buys U. S. Liens, but Credits Lag

BY SCRUTATOR.

For several weeks the federal reserve banks have been conducting "open market operations." That is, they have been buying United States government securities in extraordinarily large amounts.

One of the principal arguments advanced for this departure has been that it enables the member banks to sell their government bonds, receive cash and extend more credit to business.

What has happened?

In the week ended May 4 leading member banks which report weekly to the federal reserve board increased their investments in United States government securities just fifty-five times as much as they increased their investments in other securities.

On May 4 these leading member banks had 4 billion 163 million dollars invested in United States government securities. This was 279 million dollars more than the week before and 193 million more than on May 6, 1931.

Buy U. S. Securities.

On May 4 the investments of these same institutions in securities other than United States government bonds totaled 3 billion 272 million dollars. This was 5 million dollars more than the week before and 604 million less than on May 6, 1931.

Instead of fulfilling the prediction that they would sell their government holdings to the reserve banks the member banks have been buying government securities to take advantage of the rise resulting from the reserve banks' manipulations.

With both the reserve banks and the member banks on the buying side the market for United States government securities has been unable to reflect the sentiment of the nation toward such disturbing developments as the attempt to balance the budget by tax increases and the various legislative gestures in the direction of inflation. There has been a lighted candle under what might otherwise be a fairly accurate thermometer.

The reserve banks began to buy government securities in large volume about the end of February. For five weeks the purchases averaged about $25,000,000 weekly. Even that amount was enough to affect the market sharply. Since the middle of April this buying has been at the rate of $100,000,000 weekly.

How Prices Have Reacted.

	3s of 1951-'55.	3½s of 1943-47.	4¼s of 1947-'52.
Feb. 15	87.24	91.24	100.15
Feb. 29	89.17	94.8	103.2
March 31	89.1	94.18	103.0
April 15	94.29	98.22	105.30
April 30	94.8	98.24	106.00
May 10	93.16	98.30	105.14

The effect has been even more noticeable in the market for short term paper. In February the treasury was selling ninety day treasury bills on a discount basis of 2.71 per cent. Two months later the rate had dropped to .62 per cent.

Must End Some Time.

Obviously, heavy buying by the reserve banks cannot continue indefinitely. Nearly one-fourth of the resources of the reserve banks is now represented by United States government securities, compared with about one-eighth a year ago. Such holdings on May 4 totaled $1,286,881,000, compared with $598,351,000 on May 6, 1931.

When the buying stops, even if the reserve banks do not immediately begin to reduce their holdings, the artificial stimulus to the market for government securities will disappear.

In the meantime the reserve banks have made it possible for the treasury to borrow hundreds of millions of dollars at low rates of interest. The financing, however, has been of a temporary nature. Some of the loans will mature in seven months, others in one or two years. Thus, the saving in interest is not permanent.

Developments of the last few weeks indicate that instead of extending more credit to business the open market operations of the federal reserve banks have been draining credit from business into government borrowings to bridge the deficit.

Dealers Cancel Increase in Bankers' Paper Rate

New York, May 11.—(AP)—Dealers today reduced yield rates on bankers' acceptances by one-quarter of one per cent on all maturities, thus canceling the advance made last Thursday. There has recently been a marked scarcity of acceptances, for even the succession of rate cuts last month failed to stimulate sales of such paper by banks. Last week's reduction in price, however, had the effect of tightening the supply still further and today's action represented another effort to attract offerings into the market. The new rates are: 30 to 90 days, 1 per cent bid, ⅞ asked; four months, 1⅛ per cent bid, 1 per cent asked; five to six months, 1⅛ bid, 1¼ asked.

File Bankruptcy Petition Against Loop Jewelers

An involuntary bankruptcy petition was filed in the United States District court yesterday against Olsen & Ebann, 209 South State street, retail jewelers. The petition was filed by the law firm of Goldman, Allshouse & Healy on behalf of the Martin Copeland company and Ostby & Barton company, both of Providence, R. I., with aggregate claims of $1,400. The petition alleges liabilities in excess of $370,000.

Monon Seeks Permit to Get Rail Credit Loan

Washington, D. C., May 11.—(AP)—The Chicago, Indianapolis and Louisville Railway company today asked the interstate commerce commission to authorize it to borrow $602,275 from the Railroad Credit corporation. The money is to be used to pay interest on equipment trust certificates and various bond issues due on June 1.

BANKER TELLS LOAN MAGIC OF "KREUGER"

First Real Inquiry Brought Suicide.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 11.—The control that Ivar Kreuger exercised over his network of international corporations never was scrutinized by them, according to his American bankers, who added this admission today to the previous testimony that they never had inspected his assets.

One of the directors, elected to represent the American participation of $150,000,000 in his International Match company, which those bankers had sold to the American public since 1925, testified today. He admitted those bankers never had an understanding with Kreuger as to the division of profits among the various Kreuger corporations, never had a report as to what those profits were.

Sufficient funds, said to be earnings, were provided by Kreuger from one source or another, to pay dividends, until he killed himself in Paris on March 12.

Their Confidence, His Asset.

The story of his $1,000,000,000 world-wide confidence game, which has come to light since the suicide, was developed further today, for Referee Oscar W. Ehrhorn resumed hearings in the bankruptcy of the International Match corporation.

Donald Durant, president of the match company and partner in Lee, Higginson & Co., who were Kreuger's American bankers, revealed that Kreuger was able to borrow $15,000,444 on no other security than his name.

In the meantime, Mr. Durant, in exploring the situation, made a discovery. He found that a block of $50,000,000 in German bonds which Kreuger had sold to the International Match corporation, depositing them for safekeeping in Kreuger's Deutsches Union bank in Germany, had been removed some time later to Stockholm. There they were security for a $50,000,000 loan from the Skandinavska Creditzank.

The federal referee instructed the Irving National bank, as receiver in bankruptcy, through James Rosenberg, its counsel, to ask the investigating authorities in Sweden, in the name of the United States court, if they have succeeded in tracing the steps of this transaction.

Kreuger Given Full Trust.

When Mr. Durant was asked if he considered that the bonds on which his banking house had negotiated a loan to Kreuger were properly safeguarded by deposit in a Kreuger bank, he replied:

"We had such confidence in his management that, at that time, it was considered an advantage to deal with a bank controlled by Mr. Kreuger."

Even after Kreuger lost confidence in his own ability and killed himself the confidence of his American followers persisted. Instead of unloading their holdings as has been rumored they held on, it was said. According to a statement submitted in evidence by Mr. Durant, the firm of Lee, Higginson & Co., its individual partners and their families still hold a total of $8,000,000 of Kreuger securities. Half of that amount is held by the partners and their families.

Impressed Percy Rockefeller.

Further, according to the testimony of Samuel Pryor, director of the International Match corporation, he and Percy Rockefeller were so impressed by Ivar Kreuger that they had sold him the World Match company in exchange for stock in the International, which they still hold. Mr. Fryor said Mr. Rockefeller received 20,000 shares of stock, of which he still owns 19,200 shares, and that he himself and the Pryor family own $100,000 additional.

Mr. Pryor described the directors' meetings of the International Match corporation as expressions of "implicit faith in Mr. Kreuger," who gave them the impression that the subsidiaries and affiliates were earning large surpluses in addition to the dividends which he transferred to the International. Mr. Pryor said the directors never learned what the earnings were. It never occurred to them, moreover, to ask for balance sheets of their subsidiaries and affiliates or scrutinize their operations.

Mr. Durant, as president of the company, explained there was no understanding, either oral or written, as to the allocation of profits among the various Kreuger corporations, because Kreuger said it would be impossible to formulate conditions flexible enough for such a large system. "We depended," Mr. Durant said, "on the equity of Mr. Kreuger's judgment."

Polite Inquiry Brings Suicide.

The suicide, Mr. Durant revealed, was the immediate result of a polite inquiry by Kreuger's bankers as to how he wished to repay $11,000,000 due to the International Telephone and Telegraph company. While Mr. Durant and one of the London partners of the American banking firm waited with Kristen Littorin, vice president of the Swedish Match company, and associates for Mr. Kreuger to appear with the answer at a Paris hotel at 11 o'clock the morning of March 12, he shot himself.

In his dealings with I. T. and T. Kreuger had encountered the first insistence on an inquiry into his operations. The American organization demanded such before it would agree to merge its world-wide interests with its Swedish competitor, the Ericsson Telephone company. He had persuaded the Americans sufficiently last June to induce them to deposit $11,000,000 to his credit to bind the contract, but as the accounting proceeded the American concern found an item of $6,000,000 which seemed so "incorrectly stated" they asked for a revision of the contract and return of the $11,000,000.

Kreuger had protested, before he left New York for Paris, that it was nothing but a mistranslation of a

UNITED STATES BONDS ADVANCE; CORPORATES DIP

New York, May 11.—(AP)—While the majority of the United States government bonds moved to moderately higher levels today, corporate issues showed little indication of life and price changes generally were without significance.

The federal list received some stimulation from the reductions in open market interest rates. This was particularly true of the new treasury notes and certificates. The 3 per cent notes reached a new high with a premium of 1⅓ points and the 2 per cent certificates were around ⅓ point above par.

There was a "do nothing" tendency displayed by most of the railroads, utilities and industrials. Some scattered selling was noted among the speculative liens, but none of this had the appearance of urgency. At the same time loans of the high grade type jogged along in a fractional range.

The heaviest trading in the corporation group was in National Dairy 5½s, which recorded an advance of nearly 2 points. Paramount-Publix 5½s and Paramount Famous Lasky 6s also spurted for gains of around 4 points each. Remington Arms 6s had a relapse for a loss of 5 points.

Foreign obligations were mixed. Italian loans were exceptionally soft, but the French and Germans were comparatively steady. The Brazilians were up from 1 to more than 2 points. The Australians eased.

JULIUS H. BARNES HEADS FUSION OF RISK FIRMS

New York, May 11.—(AP)—An insurance holding company, the principal subsidiaries of which will be a large casualty company and two insurance investment trusts, is being formed by a group headed by Julius H. Barnes, former president of the United States Chamber of Commerce.

As a step in the creation of the new company, the Insurance Equities corporation has acquired from the United Founders corporation a controlling interest in the Insuranshares Corporation of Delaware, the General Management corporation, and Insuranshares Certificates, Inc. Mr. Barnes has been elected chairman of the three corporations, which on Dec. 31 had aggregate net assets of nearly $19,000,000.

The group proposes the formation of a casualty and surety company through a merger of the Lloyds Casualty company, the Detroit Fidelity and Surety company, and the Constitution Indemnity company. It already has control of the last named company.

MILWAUKEE RD. TO SHOW APRIL OPERATING LOSS

According to preliminary estimates gross revenues of Chicago, Milwaukee, St. Paul and Pacific railroad for April will be about $6,600,000 as compared with $9,474,705 for April, 1931. Net railway operating deficit will be about $300,000. In April, 1931, the company had a net railway operating income of $124,954. In March, 1932, it showed a net profit of $309,761.

Business over the lines of the Chicago and North Western railroad in May continued to show about the same rate of decline from 1931 as was registered in April, Fred W. Sargent, president of the road, said yesterday. He added that general business in the road's territories as a whole is poor, but that the crop outlook is good.

Forest Preserves Retire $131,500 Defaulted Bonds

President Whealan of the forest preserve commission yesterday instructed Rudolph Mulac Jr., controller of the board to pay the series K bonds which the board defaulted last December. The interest and principal due on the bonds total $131,500. The payment was made out of 1930 tax collections and was the first which the forest preserves have made on their defaulted bonds. Other issues will be retired as quickly as tax money is received, Mr. Whealan said.

DIVIDEND ACTION BY N. Y. CENTRAL DEFINITELY OFF

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 11.—The New York Central Railroad company, which has maintained a continuous record of dividend payments to stockholders since 1870, but deferred action six months ago, today definitely suspended disbursements because of unsatisfactory operations and earnings.

Following the December meeting of the board, stockholders were notified of a change in the dividend policy of the company and a postponement in conformity with this policy of consideration of the dividend usually declared at the December meeting until this month.

"Directors reluctantly concluded at today's meeting," it was said in the formal statement, issued by Frederic E. Williamson, president, "that it was out of the question to declare a dividend at this time. Gross revenues have continued to decline, and, despite economies of operation, the company has been unable to earn currently its fixed charges."

Shows a Deficit.

Substantiating the reference to unsatisfactory operations, the statement contained a comparative income account of the company for the first quarter, which showed a deficit of $1,318,852 after charges for the quarter ended March 31, last, compared with a deficit of $144,913 incurred in the corresponding quarter of 1931.

Gross revenue for the quarter totaled $81,333,553, compared with $99,332,078 a year ago, and operating expenses were cut to the extent of $17,600,000, an amount closely approximating the decrease in gross. Net operating income, accordingly, was only $370,000 less than that of the 1931 quarter, but interest charges have increased and were a factor in the larger deficit reported for the March quarter of this year.

Definite figures covering April net results are not available, but it is estimated that the road may show a deficit of as high as $2,000,000 after charges for the past month.

Asks for Loan.

Without an upturn in traffic, New York Central, it is pointed out, is in an unfavorable position to continue distributions to stockholders because of its current need for working capital. In December the company applied for permission to issue $100,000,000 of refunding and mortgage bonds to pledge as collateral against unsecured bank loans and since that time funds have been sought from the Reconstruction Finance corporation for meeting financial requirements.

During the three years 1928 to 1930, inclusive, the stock of the Central was on a regular $8 a share annual basis and in 1931, a total of $6 a share was distributed to stockholders. On Nov. 1, last, a dividend of $1 a share was paid, a reduction from the quarterly payment of $1.50 a share disbursed on Aug. 1 and May 1.

Eastman Kodak Pays.

The directors of Eastman Kodak company yesterday declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 per share on common stock and $1.50 on preferred.

Directors of Procter & Gamble company have declared the regular quarterly dividend of $1.25 per share on the 5 per cent preferred stock issue of Feb. 1, 1929, payable June 15 to stockholders of record May 25. R. R. Deupree, vice president, announced that Thomas Headley & Co., English connection of Procter & Gamble, will build a new manufacturing plant at Manchester, England, for expansion of business in the British isles.

Directors of McCall corporation declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents, payable Aug. 1 to stock of record July 15, as reduced from 62½ cents previously.

On $2 Basis.

Directors of John Morrell & Co. declared a quarterly dividend of 50 cents on the common stock, payable June 15 to stock of record May 21. This declaration places the stock on a $2 annual basis compared with $3 previously.

The meeting of the directors of Miller & Hart, Inc., for action on the dividend on the preference stock, has been postponed until May 13.

American Electric Power corporation took no action on the quarterly dividends of $1.75 a share on the $7 preferred stock and $1.50 a share on the $6 preferred stock due at this time.

Swedish Ball Bearing company declared a dividend of $1.33 cents a share on the class B American shares. On May 31, 1931, the company paid a dividend of $2.69 a share on these shares.

Commercial Paper Firm; Reports Deficit for 1931

Merchants and Manufacturers, Securities company had an operating loss of $174,735, after chargeoffs, for the fiscal year ended March 31, 1932, according to a statement made to the stockholders at their annual meeting by Arthur Greene, president. This loss contrasts with a net profit of $648,674 in the last preceding fiscal year.

Several Oil Concerns Now Earning Profits

Tulsa, Okla., May 11.—(AP)—Oil companies operating in the midcontinent area are making a profit, some of them for the first time in a year, reports to the Associated Press revealed today.

Only those major companies, which do not have headquarters here or whose spokesmen could not be reached, are missing from that list.

Companies reporting are: Continental Oil company of Ponca City, Consolidated Oil corporation [Prairie-Sinclair], Barnsdall Oil corporation, Midcontinent Petroleum corporation, Skelly Oil company, Phillips Petroleum company of Bartlesville, the Indian Territory Illuminating Oil company, also of Bartlesville, one of the Cities Service group.

Cite Recent Advance.

Without exception these companies attributed the improved condition to the recent advances in prices of crude oil and refined products and lessons in economy taught by the lean months of the past.

Continental Oil reported that for the first time in 14 months it moved out of the red in April.

W. G. Skelly and C. C. Herndon of Skelly Oil said their firm showed a profit in March for the first time in 12 months, and that current conditions indicated a profit for May.

Daniel L. Pierce, speaking for Harry F. Sinclair of Consolidated Oil, specifically mentioned the stringent economies practiced by all the oil companies at this time. He said:

"Contributing to the improvement is the régime of economy that has been forced upon all business managements by the difficulties of the last three years."

Too Soon to Rejoice.

Frank Phillips, president of Phillips Petroleum, joined the chorus, but warned, as did Skelly, Herndon and E. B. Reeser of Barnsdall, the time is not ripe for an orgy of rejoicing.

Skelly asserted rapid improvement should not be anticipated, that the blows of the past were so great the oil companies should advance cautiously.

An improvement in field conditions was noted by the Oil and Gas Journal, which reported 310 more wells east of California drilling or rigging for exploration in April than in March, and 170 more wells completed in April than the preceding month.

The additional work has provided a like increase in field employment and in sales of rigging and equipment.

Standard Subsidiaries Benefit.

New York, May 11.—(AP)—Standard Oil Company of New Jersey's subsidiaries in the mid-continent field are sharing the improvement in earnings noted generally among oil producers in that area. That was indicated at the company's offices today.

Although no comment was available as to whether the higher crude and refined prices were returning profits, it was learned that current results were, in the main, more encouraging than for some time.

New Jersey's subsidiary in Texas is the Humble Oil company, while its representative in Oklahoma and in Kansas is the Carter Oil company. Neither of these companies makes interim earnings reports.

Seek Gasoline Stability.

A movement on the part of large oil refining and marketing organizations to prevent demoralization of retail gasoline markets, especially on the Atlantic coast, was reported in oil circles today to be under way.

It was said that arrangements have been made for the purchase of surplus gasoline seeking a market at concessions, especially that coming from the Pacific coast. In this way it is hoped to cut off the supplies of the Independent gasoline dealer, who is held responsible for initiating price cuts, it was stated.

Shows an Improvement.

Philadelphia, Pa., May 11.—(AP)—J. Howard Pew, president of the Sun Oil company, said today his company had experienced the improvement in conditions in the midcontinent oil fields since the recent increase in the price of crude oil. He said, however, it was not sufficient to take the company "out of the red" in Oklahoma.

4,000 Tri-Utilities Shares Bring $11 Under Hammer

New York, May 11.—(AP)—Four thousand common shares of the Tri-Utilities corporation, which went into receivership more than a year ago, brought $11 at auction here today. A 4,300 share block of the company's $3 cumulative preferred shares was disposed of for $16, while $168,000 face value of secured gold notes, series B, went for $168. The auction was to have included $225,000 in first mortgage 6 per cent bonds of Southern Natural Gas corporation, formerly a Tri-Utilities subsidiary, but these securities were withdrawn. The sale was for the account of the Equitable Trust company of New York.

Heavy Withdrawals Force Bank in East to Close

Cambridge, Mass., May 11.—(AP)—The Central Trust Company of Cambridge and its branches were closed to business today. According to its latest statement the bank had deposits, surplus and capital totaling $11,808,000. Heavy withdrawals during the last three weeks made necessary the action taken, the directors said.

THORNTON DENIES REPORT HE PLANS TO QUIT RAIL JOB

OTTAWA, Ont., May 11.—(AP)—Sir Henry Thornton today issued a statement denying reports that he is about to resign as chairman and president of the Canadian National railways.

"With respect to the report that I am about to resign as chairman and president of the Canadian National railways," the statement said, "I, in common with other officers of the system, will continue to administer my official responsibilities just so long as such services remain acceptable to my employers or as long as health permits."

BY FRED HARVEY.

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

New York, May 11.—Having nothing else at hand on which to hang a little spell of the blues, the Wall street speculative crowd proceeded to let itself be low spirited over the New York Central railroad's dividend omission today. That news, however, was not at all surprising. That action generally had been expected, the veriest tyro at the market game having learned long ago that the road is not earning enough above its monthly bills to pay for greasing the section switch flanges.

When the announcement of the board's action came out, however, there was an all-round business of selling that line's shares and in turn those of other roads. Central immediately broke through its old low record price to a new bottom and the shares of other issues of the group receded from a fraction to 2 points or more from their highs of the day.

Other Shares Also Affected.

The selling spread to the industrials and gradually erased advances of from 1 to 2 points which had been registered in such stocks as American Telephone, American Can, Allied Chemical and the like in the early dealings. Dribbling sales held the balance from then on till the close of the session, leaving the list irregularly below the previous closing levels in virtually all its departments.

The latest business palliative bearing the administration trademark was ignored. Everybody in Wall street would like to see the national government snap a rubber band or two on the old purse—empty as it is—but there have been so many false starts that the proclamation of a new one fails to excite.

Crop Report Helps Stocks.

The bullish government crop report was credited with providing the impetus for the mild display of enthusiasm in the first hour or so. The momentum held out in more or less irregular fashion until the Central's dividend report came along and in a few isolated instances carried on till the close. The news from the railroad board room was made to look more important than it really was to chronically bearish dispositions since this was the first time since the road's reorganization back in 1870 that such a thing has happened. Up to a little while ago it would have classified among the unthinkables.

Union Pacific directors meet tomorrow and wiseacres of the financial district are looking for the announcement of a material reduction of that road's rate.

Among the stronger spots of the list was Eastman Kodak, which got a boost from the declaration of its regular quarterly dividend; Coca Cola, which had the weather outlook with it; and Allied Chemical. National Lead, after failing to get into the record for several days, plumped back into the picture with a 10 point jump on a single sale.

Trading was again at a snail's pace, the turnover barely exceeding three-quarters of a million shares.

WORLD PARLEY ON MONEY STILL IS AWAITING CALL

[Chicago Tribune Press Service.]

LONDON, May 11.—No official moves have been made yet on either side of the Atlantic for calling a world monetary conference with Great Britain and the United States playing the leading rôles. The recent speeches in parliament and elsewhere by Winston Churchill and others were entirely unofficial, but may have been designed to prepare the public mind. No doubt Neville Chamberlain, chancellor of the exchequer, is thinking along the same lines as well as other members of the British government. One thing THE TRIBUNE is assured of in official quarters and that is that nothing will be allowed to interfere with either the Lausanne or Ottawa conferences.

Middle West Utilities Unit Reports Earnings

Central Illinois Public Service company and subsidiaries, part of the Middle West Utilities system, for the quarter ending March 31, report gross operating revenues of $3,061,576, compared with $2,205,298 for the quarter ending March 31, 1931. Balance available for interest was $1,476,226, compared with $1,552,994. Net for retirement and dividends was $734,027, compared with $881,519.

U. S. CROP REPORT STIRS UP BUYING IN WHEAT PIT

Profit Taking Hits Late Price Rally.

BY CHARLES MICHAELS.

Wheat traders placed a decidedly bullish construction on the government report issued late Tuesday. There was a marked increase in speculative interest. Early buying was fairly general. While there was considerable July for sale at 58c and over, it finally was absorbed. The best prices of the day were made in the last 30 minutes of trading. At the top there was an advance of as much as 1¾c over the previous close, but profit taking shortly before the close caused a quick reaction from the best figures. The finish was at net gains of ⅝@⅞c. May closed at 55⅛@55⅝c, old July, 57⅞@57¾c; old September, 60@60¼c, and December, 63¼c.

Other News Small Factor.

Little attention was paid to news other than the government report. The latter came in for considerable comment on the part of the trade here and in the country, some expressing the belief that the final outcome was likely to show a much larger yield than was indicated by the returns, while others took the reverse view. Commission houses were active on both sides, with a number of the local professionals becoming liberal buyers somewhat before the close. Some stop loss orders were uncovered on the way up. Selling against offers was a factor in checking the advance.

Report Crop Improvement.

Numerous reports were received during the day from parts of the southwest saying there was considerable improvement in the last week or so in the outlook for the winter wheat crop, due to rains and favorable weather. Some estimates ranged upward to 110,000,000 bu for this and the other hand claims that the state would probably not raise over 75,000,000 bu were received from other observers. The government report indicated a yield of 87,000,000 bu for this season, compared with 240,000,000 bu in 1931.

Seeding of spring wheat was reported as making rapid progress due to more favorable conditions, but returns to leading Minneapolis line elevator interests now suggest that the seeded area this side of the line will be somewhat less than last year, within the three prairie provinces Canadian authorities forecasted a reduction of 1 to 10 per cent. The Dominion government report received after the close indicated a decrease of 3.5 per cent.

No Excitement Abroad.

Foreigners failed to show much anxiety over the prospect of a small winter wheat crop in the United States and the markets there made only a moderate response to the bullish news, Liverpool closing ⅝@⅞c per bu higher with May at 59c. Winnipeg was ½@⅝c higher with May at 63⅛c in Canadian funds. Export sales of 400,000 bu are estimated as having been made in all positions, exclusive of two cargoes of hard winter sold the previous day.

Buying of corn was stimulated by the action of the wheat market prices moving up over 1c early with local operators on the buying side. Profit taking and the late reaction on wheat brought in selling and the finish was on a reaction with net gains of ⅞@1⅛c. May closed at 29⅜c; July, 33@33¼c; September, 35½c, and December, 35½c. Country offerings to arrive remain small while the eastern demand was relatively inactive.

Prospects for a small crop of winter oats in the south had a little effect on futures, but in the main the market was affected by the action of other grains and closed ⅛@⅜c higher. May was 23⅝c, July and September, 23¼c, and December, 24⅜c at the last.

Buying of rye against sales of wheat by spreaders gave the former grain relative strength and the finish was ⅜@1c higher with May at 39⅜c; July, 41⅝c, and September, 43¼c. There was a moderate export business reported at the seaboard, but no quantities were given.

INTEREST RULE HALTS TRADING IN INSULL NOTES

BY THOMAS FURLONG.

Because the exchange rules require that the issue be quoted with accrued interest trading in Insull Utility debentures has virtually ceased on the Chicago board. Under the exchange constitution an issue is traded with accrued interest until there has been an actual default.

No Default So Far.

In the case of Insull debentures there has been no default so far, the regular interest having been paid Jan. 1. Although it is not expected that the semi-annual coupon will be redeemed July 1 the person buying a debenture on the exchange must still pay accrued interest to the seller. This now amounts to more than $2 for each $100 par value of the debenture. In the over-the-counter market the issue is now bringing a price substantially less than the accrued interest one must pay in purchasing through the exchange. The issue quoted "flat" on the counter market yesterday at 62½ to 67½ cents for each $100 par.

The New York Curb announced yesterday that effective today the issue would be quoted "flat" or without accrued interest, but the Chicago exchange indicated that it would not follow the example of the curb market.

Trading Is Quiet.

Insull debentures did not appear on the Chicago tape yesterday. Trading elsewhere in the list was quiet with prices irregular in a narrow range. Continued steadiness in the Swift issues as the volume of transactions declined was one of the features of the day.

United States Gypsum showed no particular response to the declaration of the regular quarterly dividend of 40 cents a share by the directors. The payment will be made June 30 to holders of record June 15.

Hear Comm'wealth Edison to Market Big Bond Issue

According to reports in La Salle street, the Commonwealth Edison company is preparing to sell a new issue of bonds to meet the maturity of 20 million dollars of 3½ per cent gold notes which fall due July 20. It is understood that the issue will be a long term obligation. The 20 million dollar issue is the only maturity which the company has to meet this year. Its last report showed cash resources of approximately the amount of the maturity.
